

BUTLER CITIZEN.

Entered at the Postoffice at Butler as second-class matter.

THE EAST BRADY TIMES is the name of a new and neat paper just established at East Brady, Pa. We wish it success.

WE ARE requested to state that Bishop Simpson, of the Methodist Church, will preach in the church of this place on Sunday, the 20th of March.

THERE are more good "dark horses" still back yet in case neither Col. Bayne or Gen. Beaver can be elected, among them in the west are Shiras, Scofield, Agnew and others.

WE are indebted to Mr. Braham, of the Legislature, for regular copies of the Legislative Record, and other favors. Also to Mr. Dick, of Congress for public documents.

THE first ballot last week between Bayne and Beaver was, 63 for Beaver and 69 for Bayne. The ballot on Monday, of this week, being the 27th, was Bayne 33; Beaver 27. Many members were paired off and at their homes. 28th ballot, yesterday, Bayne 35, Beaver 31.

THE machine at Harrisburg has been defeated, if not smashed. The forced withdrawal of Oliver, the ring candidate is the result of the independent action of the representatives of the Republican people of the State. No man can be elected Senator who will not assert his manhood.

ALL the independent Representatives of the Republican party are asking for at Harrisburg is a senator who will represent the people and not the ring. They say the ring has now one of the Senators in the person of Senator Cameron and they think that is enough, and now demand that the other Senator shall be one who will represent the party.

BAYNE and Beaver, who take the place of Grow and Oliver in the balloting for a Senator by the Legislature, are both good men and fit for the place, but the difference between them is that one is put forward by the free and independent members of the Legislature and the other by the ring rule that the Republicans of the State are striving to rid themselves from.

WHATEVER no hesitation in saying that the popular feeling in the Republican party of this county, sustains the course of Mr. Braham at Harrisburg, on the Senator question, and that by more than three to one. The heart of the great body of the party in the county is honest and right, and will in due time demonstrate it, the petitions of a few tools of the ring in the county gotten up and sent to Mr. Braham, to the contrary notwithstanding.

THE Petrolia Record has decidedly the better of the Herald of this place in its argument, commenting upon the political morality of the Herald's view as to what the Democrats in the Legislature should do on the pending Republican Senatorial dead lock. The Record criticizes the Herald's position, that the Democrats should vote with which ever wing of the Republicans in the Legislature can "deliver the most goods" to them for their votes for Senator. This was very bad doctrine, so bad, even as Democratic doctrine, that the Record, a Democratic paper, justly takes exception to it.

IT is amusing to see those members in the Legislature, among them Messrs. Greer and Bell of this county, who were so pronounced for a Western man for Senator, and one from Allegheny county preferred, are now voting for a man not from the western part of the State; and this too when they had the opportunity to vote for another Allegheny county man. Truly, consistency is a jewel in politics. But there is no calculating in these days the power and value of a paster and folder, post master, or other great offices, when they come in conflict with so trifling an office as that of United States Senator.

THE UNLOCKED LOCK.

SINCE our last issue the Senatorial question at Harrisburg assumed a new phase. Both Grow and Oliver concluded to withdraw from the contest on Wednesday evening last, and did so. This should have put matters in such shape that the Legislature would have been free to choose a Senator worthy and competent to serve the State. But the withdrawal of Mr. Oliver was immediately followed by his friends naming a candidate, Gen. Beaver, for whom they intended to vote. This was done in the private parlors of Senator Don Cameron, and at his dictation. The place and manner in which it was done not only aroused opposition to the new candidate of that wing of the party but has effectually destroyed his chances of success. Had it been done to kill him off at the very outset of his candidacy no sorer or better way could have been adopted by his professed friends. Because it is well known throughout the whole State, and ought to be known to Don Cameron by this time, that the real cause of trouble in the Republican party of the State is his rule and methods. The party is tired of what is known as Cameronism, and the effort now being made was to free the party from that ring rule that has become so odious. This was the main cause of the opposition to Oliver. And therefore, when it was made manifest that Oliver could not be elected, it was the light of not only fifty but of im-dence, for the same few individuals to assume to name who should be voted for in his place, and the more so when it was done in and from the private residence of the head of the ring. It was calculated to keep up the fight and it was. Those members voting for Mr. Grow naturally rallied to some other new man. They had previously, in one of their meetings, resolved that Col. Thomas M. Bayne, of Allegheny city, was their second choice when they left Mr. Grow. They of course, under the circumstances, gave Col. Bayne their support when Mr. Grow withdrew. He is not only a worthy Republican but fully competent for the position. The anti-ring members supporting Mr. Grow could not be expected to turn around and stultify themselves by voting for Gen. Beaver or any other man whom the machine put forward in place of Oliver. And hence the lock continues unlocked. Bayne's vote, however, is larger so far than was that of Mr. Grow, while Bayne's is less than that of Mr. Oliver. We still look for an honorable and fair way out of the difficulty, and to see a good man yet chosen Senator.

GALUSHA A. GROW.

Mr. Grow may now be considered as out of the Senatorial contest, having withdrawn from the same. This was forced upon him by the machine politics now in office at Harrisburg, who live and riot off the Republican party. That Galusha A. Grow was the popular favorite for Senator, in the State, is not denied. That he was the favorite of this county, of any of the outside candidates, was clear to the vision of all disinterested Republicans. Why then was the popular will defeated? Simply because he was too honest and too able a man for the ring to control or use. When speeches had to be made, and hard blows given to the Democrats, then Mr. Grow was in great esteem and demand by these same ringsters; but when it came to rewarding him and carrying out the wishes of the party in this county, and the State, then he is sold out and traded off for such little, petty positions as "pastors and folders," etc. Mr. Grow would not stoop to such practices. He retains his self-respect, and being an honest man, without a stain or blemish upon his character, justice will yet be done him.

THE VOTES COUNTED.

Gen. Garfield Declared Elected.

WASHINGTON, February 9. Long before the hour for the opening of the House to-day the public thronged the corridors of the Capitol and pressed for place, in anticipation of the electoral clock. This was to occur at 12 o'clock. As early as 11 the galleries were densely packed. Half an hour later hundreds of disappointed and curious people crowded the rotunda and staid in the hall and the passage leading from the Senate to the House, determined to see at least the Senatorial procession on its way to the Hall of Representatives. By this time the scene on the gallery floor of the latter was of the liveliest description. Every door was besieged with anxious crowds, who struggled and jostled with each other and choked up the corridor, unable to gain admission. The doorkeepers earned their salaries to-day. They were beset with beautiful women and persuasive gentlemen, Congressmen and rowdies indiscriminately, all of whom displayed their "influence" in the most imposing way. Even doorkeepers and janitors were not exempt from the temptations of the "big game." The usual pressure was brought to bear on the reporters' gallery, but the management of this was better than heretofore and the working force was not this time crowded out of their seats.

COUNTING THE VOTES.

The Senators, announced by the House doorkeeper, filed out in two by two, headed by the veteran, Captain Bassett, bearing in either hand a square wooden box containing the electoral votes. Vice President Wheeler took his place at the right of Speaker Randall and rapped the joint convention to order. The tellers took place below him at the Clerk's desk, while the Journal Clerks were drawn to a table below the official reporters of the House. Mr. Wheeler's announcement that it was his constitutional duty to open the electoral votes in the presence of the two houses and deliver them to the appointed tellers excited the keenest attention. He enounced in a simple and clear manner the Democratic theory in the recent discussions on this subject, namely, that it was his constitutional duty to open the votes only. This point was received by a subdued buzz from floor and gallery. The private secretary of the Vice President then opened one of the boxes as it rested on the marble desk and took therefrom the seal of the State marked "Alabama." This the secretary carefully clipped at one end with a delicate hooked pair of shears and passed the contents over to Mr. Wheeler, who formally delivered to the tellers the vote of Alabama. The certificate was read by Senator Hamlin, Senator and Governor of West Virginia, and the result was recorded on the tally-sheets kept by each teller. Its reading occupied more than fifteen minutes. It was evident that if this was kept up the counting would last all day. At the third certificate Reagan moved to dispense with the formal reading, which was done, and thereupon the character of the certificate and the vote merely were stated, each teller reading in turn. It was not until the vote of Georgia was reached that interest revived. When that occurred Springer arose, amid a painful hush, and demanded the reading of the certificate in full. It was done. Then Wheeler read the joint resolution adopted by the two houses and quickly passed to the next. There was a general murmur of voices throughout the hall.

That was all. The agony was over.

THE RESULT DECLARED.

When the list of States had been completed Thurman announced to the joint assembly that the whole number of votes cast was 359, of which 185 was a majority; that James A. Garfield had received 214 votes, being a majority of the whole; that if the votes of 6 or 15 were counted Hancock would have 155 votes, if not counted, 144 votes; but that in either event Garfield would have a majority. The same announcement was made in regard to the Vice President, whereupon Vice President Wheeler declared that Garfield and Arthur had been duly elected President and Vice President. This was greeted with applause on the Republican side, and at 1:35 the joint session was dissolved, the Senate withdrew and the floor was cleared.

COMMERCIAL.

EDITORS CITIZEN:—Allow me space in your valuable paper to reply to a communication in the Eagle of the 12th inst. regarding the school house question, and signed "Fair Play." If the writer's signature is intended to make people believe the fairness and truthfulness of his assertions he missed it in writing from this community. He is well known here and an old gray-haired man like him, and who is a professional Christian, should confine himself to the truth or at least think of the heretofore official judgment. He goes on so far in being a gentleman that he calls "benevolence" a liar; nice work for a Christian. He states that there was a vote taken in this township, and by that vote four schools were established. He is at least thirty years of age, and ever heard only mentioned here that ever heard of it before, and there are several men living here now that were citizens when the county was remodeled. We know that the Directors established four schools by their votes but not by vote of the citizens. How many scholars were there when the four houses were built? Not more than 175 were enrolled in them; now we have an enrollment of 320, or an average of 80 to each school, and the anti-school party wanted to get along with four schools yet and want the teachers to work for $16 per month and 2 days for a month. How is that for a township like Centre? If they get their wish in the election of School Directors the county will elect the teachers, will have to rent the houses and pay for everything extra. The school board squandered money, an other charge of "Fair Play." I will answer, they did not. The secretary's books are open for inspection at any time and anyone that believes his statement can go and examine the books and see which is right. "Fair Play" did not see through his spectacles clearly when he made out his paper or he would have made no mistake like he did, although he is an old man. Now "Fair Play" there is no need of getting unreasonably about this, for I can prove every thing I say and will do so when called on. And to the readers of this piece, if you do believe that this township was invaded in a war by "Fair Play's" statement, come to old Centre and see for yourself, which is right, "Fair Play" or "TRUTH."

RECAPITULATIVE FEATURE.

One of the most heathenish and repulsive features of base rule in this State is its shameless insensibility to gratitude and fair play. Instead of directing its energies against the common enemy, it is found in accord with the latter on all convenient occasions; and does not scruple to use every trick and device and every corrupt appliance within reach to strike down the worthy and deserving men in its own ranks. Just let a Republican, highly deserving of recognition, presume to set up his claims in opposition to the selfish views of the bosses, and he is pursued with a persistence and vindictiveness really amazing. James G. Blaine, after seventy days and nights of tireless activity in thwarting the plans of the Fusionists of Maine, was entitled to at least fair dealing in the State which gave him birth; and although in a clear popular majority of not less than 70 or 80,000, was defrauded of a delegation to Chicago to which he was fairly elected. Galusha A. Grow, after our defeat in 77, brought about nearly all the success of our leaders to the republican vote on that question, and by an incessant campaign all through the summer, extending from Lake to the Delaware, brought victory to the party the next year. In return, now, for his arduous labors, they have been compassing the past two months, every effort to strip him of his political life source his defeat. President Hayes, after a patient comparison of the claims and merits of J. F. Dravo and J. S. Rutan, has seen fit to appoint the former to the Pittsburg Collectorship. But, instead of bowing gracefully to the decision of the President, they are determined, by the aid of the Democratic Senators, to defeat his confirmation at all hazards. If the 57 members of the Legislature, who refuse longer to bow the knee to Baal, succeed in breaking the power of the bosses, and eliminating this abominable feature from our State politics, they will have performed the best service of their lives, not only for the Republican party, but for the entire people of the State besides.—B and T Times.

Washington City Submerged.

A letter from Washington City to the Pittsburg Telegraph of Monday says:—Washington, February 13.—It was a novel sight yesterday to the oldest inhabitant to see water craft plying up and down Pennsylvania avenue, and people being conveyed from place to place in skiffs and row boats. The force of waters from above caused a gorge in the Potomac which lodged against the Long Bridge and occasioned the flooding of large portions of the city and Georgetown. Much loss was caused by the inundation, and the parlor floors of many houses upon the lowlands were submerged and the carpets and furniture damaged and destroyed. The botanical garden was an immense sheet of water, and Pennsylvania avenue was covered with water for about half its length. The improvised means of transportation in boats gave the thoroughfare the appearance of a street in Venice, "City of the Sea." The street cars and buses continued to run through the overflowed streets where it was at all possible to get along, and in many instances passengers were compelled to ride kneeling on the seats.

Use Wise and Happy.

If you will stop all your extravagant and wasteful expenditures in decorating yourself and families with expensive docters or hatching cur-alls, that do harm always, and use only nature's simple remedies for all your ailments, you will be wise, well and happy, and save great expense. The greatest remedy for this, the great, wise and good will tell you, is Hop Bitters—only on it. See another column.—Press.

A FUGITIVE ESCAPE.

Don't make the mistake of confounding a remedy of acknowledged merit with the numerous quack medicines that are now so common. We speak from experience when we say that the "Fair Play" is a fine, healthy, and will do all that is claimed for it. We have used it ourselves with the happiest results for Rheumatism and when worn out by overwork. See adv.—Times.
