

COAL TAR FOR PRESERVING FENCE POSTS.

If possible, the post should be well seasoned before being coated with the tar, as it will then absorb more of it, and prove more durable in consequence.

The simplest way to apply the tar is to heat it in an iron kettle, which may be quickly done over a common kitchen stove.

The time to apply the tar is a hot summer's day, as then the wood is warm, and will absorb more of the liquid; or they may be readily heated by making a fire out of doors, and supporting the post on a frame just above the flames.

If one has a time and material, it would be well to apply two or even three coats, if the season does not make the post water-proof, as that is the object of making the application.

If one has at command a large cal-dron set in an arch, it may be used to advantage by putting in four or five gallons of the tar, and when boiling hot let the lower end of the post be placed over the kettle, and with a long-handled ladle or dipper pour some of the heated liquid upon it, an attendant turning the post or holding it in any position desired.

Take-it-Easy and Live-Long are brothers, and are related to Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has lengthened many a life.

The best soil for sugar beets is a deep sandy loam, with a permeable subsoil or one made so by underdraining.

This is the month when those troubled with a cough should go for a twenty-five cent bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup and be cured at once.

A Vermont gardener plants a sunflower seed instead of a pole to each hill of beans. The sturdy stalk answers for a pole, and the seeds supply an excellent feed for the poultry.

Parents should not forget that their shoe bills can be reduced one-half by purchasing for their children shoes with the A. S. T. Black Tip upon them.

Grape-vines may be grafted at any time after the leaves have fallen up to the middle of June, except for about three weeks while the sap is flowing in spring. If done too late, however, there is danger that the grafts may not mature sufficiently.

This is no apology for whiskey drinking; it is a medicine that cannot be used to intoxicate; it produces a tonic effect, as well as acts as a cathartic. In fact Simmons' Liver regulator is pronounced an unexceptionable medicine.

'What shall I leave you when I die?' said an invalid fellow to a young lady whose patient he had nearly exhausted. 'Needn't wait till you die,' said she; 'you can leave something now if you will.' 'What shall I leave?' he asked. 'Leave yourself,' she replied. He left.

If possible, avoid keeping fruit or vegetables in a cellar under the living rooms of the house. If they must be kept there, allow no decayed vegetables of any kind to remain to poison the air. It is especially important to attend to this matter as warm weather approaches.

Joseph Harris says that an excellent manure for the gardener and fruit-grower is made by mixing two or three bushels of bone-dust through a load of stable manure, and let the whole ferment together. The bone dust increases the fermentation, and the heating manure softens the bone. The whole becomes a strong fertilizer if the heap is properly attended to.

Once while Dr. S. Johnson the literary bear, was talking very learnedly one of the company laughed. Thoroughly indignant Johnson turned to him and said: 'What is your position, sir? Have I said anything that you can understand? If I have I ask pardon from the rest of the company.'

A correspondent objects to placing the reins around the waist when ploughing. Most accidents happen, he says, by having the lines around the waist, particularly with boys. It is almost impossible to get away without getting hurt. He thinks it is easier to handle the team, and much safer, to have the lines over the right shoulder and under the left arm. Then if the team starts you can bow your head and you are clear.

There is a Judge whose head is as bald as that of an American eagle. A little by living next door has got it in his head that lack of hair is inseparably connected with the title of Judge; consequently, when a lawyer, whose head is densely covered with hair, called and was addressed as 'Judge,' little Tommy shook his head and said: 'You ain't no Judge; can't fool me.' 'Why ain't I no Judge?' 'Cos your hair ain't parted wide enough,' was the guileless reply.

Professor Taylor, of the National Agricultural Department, has discovered that naphthalene is a valuable insecticide. He says that if seeds, grain, dormant plants, vines, etc., be placed in any tight vessel, and a small quantity of the naphthalene introduced into the vessel and it then be covered, in a few hours any insect that may infest them will be asphyxiated. Such treatment does not injure the seeds or plants in the least, as careful experiments have shown.

The market for Florida oranges—far greater in this country alone than can be supplied for many years to come—is likely to be enlarged in an unexpected direction. An enterprising producer has sent from Jacksonville a trial box to London, where the fruit arrived in prime condition after a three weeks' journey. Only three oranges were damaged on route. The Pa. Mail Gazette predicts that before long a thriving fruit trade will spring up between England and the Southern States.

No administration ever suffered by exposing and punishing crime committed in official affairs. It is the covering up of such affairs which does the wrong.
