No paper next week. Reason, "4th of July."

THE principal matters our people have for discussion now are, the comet, the sentence of White, the veto of and he is yet an active and bard workthe judicial bill and the coming new railroads.

Some laws of the late Legislature will be found in this issue of the CITI-ZEN. In our next we will give the law passed relative to primary elections, and political conventions generally, which are now to be regulated by law, or at least attempted so to be.

THE comet, first seen in the northeast from here, can now be seen in the north-west every evening about 9 o'clock. It seems to travel from west to east and in a contrary direction from all the other celestial bodies. Hence it is supposed to be receding from the sun. Any alarm as to its plunging into that body, or striking the earth with its tail and disturbing things generally, seems to have passed away.

WE have received an inquiry from Coylesville as to "some extravagant remarks about the people of that section." rumored to have been made by certain of the Attorneys for the defence in the late White homicide case, but can give no information on the subject, not having heard said alleged remarks, and not being in the habit of giving any attention to anonymous communications. The writer should at least have given us his real pame.

MERCER county is becoming person ally interested, so to speak, in this starroute business, one of the latest dismissals being that of W. H. Turner, whose home is in the northeastern part of the principal clerks in the contract of the principal clerks in the contract office, and has been in charge of a majority of the star routes in the far western States and Territories for several who expected to profit by it, will, no years. Governor Hoyt's veto of the judicial apportionment bill is one of the most creditable acts of his administration. The bill was in no proper sense a right attempt to carry out an important copstitutional provision, but, in some of its features, it was a disgraceful gerrymander, for which no extenuation can be ffered, while in others it was plainly
