by reason of the said purchases of o or shipment out of Pennsylvania, then the law is unconstitutional, because conflicts with the provisions of the Federal constitution, relative to exports and imports. The company claims that, in no event is it liable for he proportion of capital stock, if any, shown to have been invested or used in business in Pennsylvania for each one per centum of dividend declared. For the year ended November, 1873, he appeal sets forth that the dividends of the Company were $347,610; 1874, $358,605; 1875, $414,230; 1876, $501.-285; 1877, $3,150,000; 1880, $1,050,-000. The foregoing dividends, the Company says, were all declared and paid in Ohio. If taxable at all, it is claimed that the Company's liability, for the years mentioned is $502,269, instead of over $3,100,000. In arriving at that amount the State charges, in addition to the tax, $689,791,64 interest, at 12 per cent, and a penalty of $223,250 for failure to make the neces-
