Coroner. WILLIAM KENNEDY, of Penn township.

ALL places of business were closed in Butler on Monday last.

We had hoped to have gone to Harmony Fair this week, according to promise, but will not be able to do so.

PARKER FAIR.—The Petroleum Agricultural Association will open at Parker City, Pa., on Thursday, October 4, and continue through October 5, 6 and 7.

It is estimated there were 150,000 people in the funeral procession at Cleveland on Monday last. It is supposed there were 100,000 strangers in that city.

HARMONY FAIR.—The Fair at Harmony, this county, opened yesterday, 27th and will continue to-day and tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday, 28 and 29.

The proceedings of the meeting held by the members of the Bar of this place on Monday, taking action on the death of President Garfield, will appear next week.

Dr. David Alter, died at his residence in Freeport, Pa., on the 18th inst. He was distinguished in his profession and as a man of great learning and genius.

JAMES A. GARFIELD was in Butler on November 25, 1874, on legal business for the Messrs. Phillips Bros., of New Castle, in connection with their purchase of the Starr oil farm in Concord township.

Our paper is filled this week with all it is possible to give concerning the death and funeral ceremonies of President Garfield. We have thought that nothing else would so much interest our readers.

CLEVELAND will be another Mount Vernon to the people of the United States and visited as such, to see where the remains of Garfield repose, with as much veneration as they would visit the spot where repose the remains of Washington.

Any voter who has not paid his taxes should remember that he must do so prior to the 9th of next month if he wishes to make sure of getting his vote. Members of the County Committee should see to this matter in their different districts.

CREDITABLE.—The ladies of the Presbyterian church, of this place, have sent to the sufferers of the Michigan fire three or four large boxes of clothing, containing from three to four hundred pieces, suitable for men, women and children. This contribution is creditable to those ladies and the citizens of this place.

The Queen's message to Mrs. Garfield is very tender and womanly and really very touching.

"Words cannot express the deep sympathy I feel with you at this terrible moment. May God support and comfort you as He alone can."

VICTORIA.

The Queen also presented, through her Minister at the Government, a fine floral wreath for the funeral services, which was one of the tributes to the memory of Garfield that was attached to his coffin and borne with it to his grave.

THE CITIZEN is issued one day later this week than usual, owing to Monday being the day on which the mortal remains of the late lamented President Garfield were consigned to their resting place at Cleveland, O., and which was observed throughout the Nation as a day of mourning, and on which all labor ceased.

Our readers will therefore understand why their paper comes to them a little later this week than usual. Monday last was a funeral day all over the land, and the mourners were all the people.

A note from A. D. Weir, Esq., Republican candidate for Associate Judge of this county, informs us that he is confined to his home at present by an attack of rheumatism. He had expected to have got down to the Harmony Fair this week and his friends there will consequently understand why they are disappointed in not seeing him. He has many friends all over the county who feel a lively interest in election this fall, and who will work for his success whether he is able to see them or not. The office for which he is nominated, Associate Judge, is one he is admirably qualified to fill.

THE events of the past ten days can hardly be realized. They have been like a dream—or a shadow passing over. From Elberon, at the sea, where the President breathed his last, to Washington, and from Washington, the Capitol of the Nation, to Cleveland, on Lake Erie, where the remains of the great and good Garfield are to lie, never have there been such scenes witnessed in this or any other county. Never such impressive funeral services. Never such honor paid to the memory and remains of any man. And all this not only that he was President, but because he was a good man, and because of his untimely taking off.

AT REST. The remains of the late President now lay near his old home, hid from the world forever. It was fitting that they were taken there. From his repose in Lake View Cemetery, Cleveland, is a view of Lake Erie. Here a monument will be erected by the people, such as has never been reared in this country to any other man.

We are unable to give this week an account of the ceremonies at Cleveland. They were on a scale the most grand and impressive. A temporary pavilion, or tent was erected in the public square of the city, in which the remains lay, in a catafalque, through Saturday and Sunday last and on Monday until removed to the cemetery. This pavilion is described as most grand, being covered with flowers and wreaths the most beautiful. Never before were such a profusion of flowers strewn on the bier of man. As the funeral car passed on its way from Long Branch, New Jersey, to Cleveland, Ohio, thousands of people assembled to see it, the men uncovering their heads as it passed, and the women weeping and casting flowers on and before it. Such a funeral train never passed through the land. The whole scene, from the sea to the lake, was the most impressive ever witnessed in this country. But we cease to write, for

"Come, the heart is full, when the bitter thoughts
Whom crowding thickly up for utterance
The poor common words
Are such a very mockery."

THE NEW PRESIDENT. President Arthur, was sworn in to office twice; the first time at his residence in the city of New York on the night of the death of President Garfield, or rather at 2 o'clock in the morning of the next day, 20th inst. Then again he took the oath of office after reaching Washington, on the 22nd inst. This was taken before the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the U. S. and other high officials. It is said that this second oath was thought best, in order that the new President might have an opportunity to make an address or expression that would tend to allay the fears of the people as to his course. That the public mind was fearful, and even sensitive, on this point was apparent to all. It could not but be known to the new President. It was prudent and timely therefore that he should speak the necessary word, and quiet the general apprehensions. He has done so. And it is received as satisfactory. He indicates that the measures of policy and administration begun by his lamented predecessor shall not be lost to the Nation, but will be respected by him. By inviting the present Cabinet to remain in their offices, he gives further assurance of his respect for the sentiment and feeling in his own party. For this is what his party asks—yes, demands. Any sudden change of Cabinet or other important officers would undoubtedly be disastrous. President Arthur must know this, and we believe does know it, and will act accordingly. The confidence of all is now due to him as our President. He comes to the office according to the law and should be respected as such. If he carries out the spirit of his declarations all will be well—if he fails to do so, every friend of Garfield in the Nation, and they are all the people, will rise up to denounce and execrate him.

Among the items concerning the dead President will be specially noticed the post mortem or after death examination by the physicians, and their certificate of the mortal nature of the gun shot wound. While they were totally mistaken as to where the bullet had lodged in his body—it being found not even on the side of the body they had supposed it to be—yet the fact was discovered by them that its track was fatal, and that death was inevitable from the first, by reason of the injury it inflicted. All this will go far to reconciling the people to their treatment of the case. He could not have lived had the treatment been different or what it may. The spine was hit, and badly wounded, although the ball did not break or pass directly through it. The only thing that does seem strange is, that they could not tell that the spine was injured. The total bodily helplessness of the President, with other symptoms he complained of or exhibited, led many to believe and say that his spine was injured. But it is all useless to criticize the surgeons now. Doubtless it was impossible for them to discover where the bullet had gone, and it so they could not tell the injury it done on its fatal road.

"God reigns and the Government at Washington still lives." How little he knew what was on store for him when he spoke those words!

IN MOURNING. The Nation is in mourning. The evidence of it is all around us, and in every city, town and village of the land.

In this place, on the morning the news of the President's death came, as if by a common impulse nearly every house, office, store or shop, on the leading streets of our town were draped in mourning and yet remain so. The public buildings were also draped and remain so. The suggestion is that they be permitted to remain draped for the period of at least thirty days. This the occasion will justify. Not even thirty days will dry the tears of all this people for the loss of James A. Garfield.

THE FAIR. BEST EVER IN BUTLER. The Fair for this year has come and gone, and the expression of all attending it was, "it was the best ever held in the county." It was a success in every way. More people were in Butler on Wednesday last than ever known on any day. From all parts of the county young and old came. One of the great benefits and pleasures of a county Fair is the bringing and seeing so many people together. The effect socially is very good, outside of all other benefits. We met a number of gentlemen from the surrounding counties, all of whom said it was the finest county Fair, we more people present, and a better display than any they had known of this year. To speak of everything or all on exhibit would be almost impossible. Every department was well represented. But in one matter our county has achieved a State reputation that is not specially mentioned, and that is in her HORSES. If taking the first premium at the State Fair at Pittsburgh is the test, then Butler county has the finest and best horse in the State. The Clydesdale horse of Mr. Geo. Maizebrand, of Clinton township, this county, received the first premium at the State Fair and also received at our own last week. This is a distinction for the county in the horse line that is creditable to it, and will doubtless lead to still further emulation and effort to improve our horses. Having now received the first honor, let our farmers all strive to keep up and enlarge the reputation of our county for good horses.

Besides the splendid Clydesdale of Mr. Maizebrand there were other good ones on the ground, owned by Moreland and Lardin, of Karns City, F. Bauer, of Summit, Julian A. Clark, of Prospect, and others. Mr. Clark's horse had just been imported from Scotland, landing here about three weeks ago. In Hambletonians there were some fine ones, James Stephenson, of Summit, had his fine Black Point, (from Dexter), Lewis Bolton, of Prospect, a fine colt; Dr. Leighner, of Prospect his much admired Seneca Prince; J. S. Hayes, of Connoquenessing his beautiful horse Jay Gould; Hyle, Emel and others had fine colts. F. C. Buhl had a fine span of driving horses; Thomas Hood had a fine heavy pair, viz. William Shepherd, a fine English Coach horse; A. O. Eberhart, a fine beautiful Canadian colt; John Waters, a fine Wafflen colt; Abner Patton, the best jack and a fine pair of mules. Mr. Turner, of Harlensburg, Lawrence county, had the second best Clydesdale in weight and appearance and took the second premium on same. Mr. Robert Heasler had his large stock of Clydesdale horses, mares and colts, on the ground and on which he took a number of premiums.

Among the blooded horses we find Seneca Prince who was bred in Seneca county, N. Y., and is owned by J. M. Lieghner, of Prospect, Pa. This horse has become a great favorite throughout the county and adjoining counties. He was fine trotting he displayed last Thursday afternoon upon the track certainly warrants the hopes of his future greatness as a trotter and a trotting sire. His conformation is remarkable. Every point indicates strength and nothing in his make up seems delicate or superfluous. The books show him to be the winner of the great prize for blooded horses 4 years old and over, and his yearling and weanling colts won the premiums both first and second in the blooded class also.

Next in importance would be the cattle, a large exhibit being present. Mr. J. K. Dain had a herd of 11 Alderneys and took the leading premium. James A. Reid had several very fine Jerseys and calves and got four "red ribbons" on same. The fine Alderney bull of F. Reiber, Esq., was on the ground and took another premium. O. Durhams, S. W. Crawford, of Jefferson township, Miller Hutehison, of Jefferson township, Andrew Albert, of Center, William M. Brown, of Forward, and others had some fine specimens. D. B. Donthout, of Forward, had a very fine Alderney heifer.

Never before were there such a number and variety of sheep and hogs on exhibit as were at the Fair last week. There were some forty pens of each. It was a very general remark that the display of sheep and hogs were large and good. Merinos, Southdowns, Cotswolds, etc., in sheep, and Yorkshires, Berkshires, Suffolk, Chinas, etc., in hogs, showed the great improvement going on in the county in those lines.

The poultry was without number and of every variety. This department was very well represented and the showing that was done, and general noise made in and about it, attracted very general attention as well as admiration. We could not learn the names of all the exhibitors to this interesting department. Chickens, ducks, geese and turkeys of all kinds and feather were on hand.

GRAIN AND VEGETABLES. Wheat, rye, corn, potatoes, beets, squashes, beans, onions, carrots, egg plants, pumpkins, etc., all had a good exhibit. We could ascertain the names of but few of the exhibitors. Mr. Jas. Stephenson had fine Odessa wheat. Mrs. John Myers, several varieties of fine potatoes. Among the potatoes we noticed the Victor, which is said to be fast gaining much favor. Early Rose was the most plentiful. The Burbank, Garnet, Peerless and other varieties were numerous. Mr. J. W. Bortmass, from his fine garden field at this place, had fine corn, squashes, tomatoes, sweet potatoes, etc., on which he received premiums. Mr. Christian Bortmass also had very fine squashes, pumpkins, etc., which received premiums.

Want of time prevented us giving much time to this department, but the displays by the ladies in needle work were much admired. We only learned the names of a few makers. Mrs. Abigail Karnes had a fine silk quilt for which a first premium was awarded. Mrs. Edwards had a hearth rug and tidy. Mrs. Mackey, a tidy, lace, collars, etc. Mrs. Joseph B. Meachler, in this department had on exhibit some very good bread and butter. Many other articles in the domestic line were also in this hall which we cannot now mention.

The farming machinery, buggies, etc., were said to be of the latest and best improvements. The Reno Bros. of this place, made a creditable exhibit of their machine shop work, in specimens of monuments, etc., for the dead.

THE GLASS BALL MATCH. The glass ball shoot which took place at the Fair grounds on Wednesday morning, under the auspices of the Game and Fish Association of Butler county was well attended. Shooters being present from Parker, Karns City, Haysville, Troutman and Millerstown. The match was best out of fifteen balls thrown in a mole rat tating part, and considering the place they had to shoot in is fully up to the average. Mr. John N. Muntz, of Butler, made the best score, breaking 12 of the 15 balls. The other scores run as follows: G. W. Ziegler, 11, W. C. Thompson, 10, Joseph Darling, 9, A. B. Brown, 8, Alex. Russell, 8, A. Bell, 7, B. Kratzer, 7, H. Sluiter, 7, E. J. Brugh, Jacob Geible, 6, F. McGrew, W. Lutton, 5, M. E. Lutton, 5, J. McGregor, 5, H. Walker, 4, F. Wick, 4, R. Darling, 3.

Want of space prevents any further present notice of the Fair.

WORDS OF WISDOM. The following are extracts from addresses made by President Garfield on certain occasions during his life. They will be read now with peculiar interest.

"Oh! sir; there are times in the history of men and nations when they stand and men for the first time before the establishment of time from eternity, and men for their God that they can almost bear the beating and feel the pulsations of the infinite. Through such a time has this nation passed. When two hundred and fifty thousand brave spirits passed from the field of honor through that veil that the presence of God, and when at last his parting soul departed that martyr, President Lincoln, to the company of the dead heroes of the Republic, the nation stood so near the veil that the whisper of men was heard by the children of men."—James A. Garfield on the assassination of President Lincoln.

"Fellow-citizens! Clouds and darkness are round about him! His pavilion is dark waters and thick clouds of the skies. Just as the dawn of mercy and truth shall go before His face! Fellow-citizens! God reigns, and the Government at Washington still lives."—James A. Garfield at New York the time of the assassination of President Lincoln.

"This day will be sadly memorable so long as this nation shall endure, which God grant may be till the last syllable of recorded time, but the grandest of human history shall be sealed up and delivered to the Omnipotent Judge."—James A. Garfield on the first anniversary of the death of President Lincoln.

"I look forward with joy and hope to the day when our brave people, one in heart, one in their aspirations for freedom and peace, shall see that the darkness through which we have traveled, and that we have emerged from, is a benighted discipline by which the Great Dispenser of Events has been leading us on to a higher and nobler national life."—James A. Garfield.

"Individuals may wear for a time the glory of our institutions, but they carry it not to the grave with them. Like raindrops from heaven, they may pass through the circle of the shining bow and sink in the earth again; they may sink in the earth again, but their spirit still shines the sky and shines gloriously on."—James A. Garfield.

"From the genius of our Government, the pathway to honorable distinction lies open to all. No post of honor so high but the poorest boy may hope to reach it. It is this pride of every American that many cherished names, and I can do for the dead, but with a quicker bound, were worn by the sons of poverty, who conquered obscurity and became fixed stars on our firmament."—James A. Garfield.

"I have represented for many years a District in Congress whose approbation I greatly desired, but though it may seem, perhaps, a little egotistical to say so, I yet desired still more the approbation of my family. He is the only man I am compelled to sleep with, and eat with, and live with, and die with, and if I could not have his approbation I should have had company."—James A. Garfield before the Ohio Senate, 1859.

"We hold reunions, not for the dead, for there is nothing in all the earth that you and I can do for the dead. They are past our help and past our praise. We can add to them no glory—we can give to them no immortality. They do not need us, but forever and forevermore we need them."—James A. Garfield.

"The world's history is a Divine Poem of which the history of every Nation is a canto and every man a word. I can do for the dead, but they are past our help and past our praise. We can add to them no glory—we can give to them no immortality. They do not need us, but forever and forevermore we need them."—James A. Garfield.

I love to believe that no heroic sacrifice is ever lost, that the characters of men are moulded and inspired by what their fathers have done; that, treasured up in American souls are all the unconscious influences of the great deeds of the Anglo-Saxon race, from Agincourt to Bunker Hill.—James A. Garfield.

The Senate Called.—An Executive Session to Commence October 10th.

The following is the first official act of President Arthur, and made necessary by the peculiar condition the country is now in as regards its chief executive head.

WASHINGTON, September 23.—The following has just been received from the Department of State: By the President of the United States of America, a proclamation: WHEREAS, Objects of interest to the United States require that the Senate be convened at an early date to receive and act upon such communications as may be made to it on the part of the Executive.

Now, therefore, I, Chester A. Arthur, President of the United States, have considered it to be my duty to issue this my proclamation declaring that an Executive session requiring the Senate of the United States to convene for the transaction of business at the Capitol, in the city of Washington, on Monday, the 10th day of October next, at noon on that day, of which all who shall at that time be entitled to act as members of that body are hereby required to take notice.

Given under my hand and the seal of the United States, this twenty-third day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and sixth.

CHESTER A. ARTHUR. By the President: JAMES G. BLAINE, Secretary of State.

Resolutions of Respect. In honor of the memory of Brother C. P. Slentz, on part of Butler Lodge, No. 94, A. O. U. W.

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Supreme Master Workman of the Universe, who doth all things well, to call to a higher order our brother C. P. Slentz, of Butler Lodge, No. 94, A. O. U. W. While bowing to the decrees registered in Heaven as true workmen, we, the members of this lodge, do hereby resolve, That in the death of our brother Slentz this lodge has lost a true, faithful and efficient workman whose works do follow him, that as a workman within the gates, and in connection with a steadfast friend, and the world has lost a good citizen.

Resolved, That while we deplore this loss, yet we do so consoled by the belief that brother Slentz has joined a higher order of Workmen; that the pass-word for eternity has been given him; that he has been admitted by the Supreme Master Workman to the gates, and is now in the presence of the Supreme Master Workman, where the workman, weary after the labors of the day, rests forever.

Resolved, That we earnestly condole with the bereaved widow and the orphan children of our deceased brother and extend to them our heartiest sympathies in this their hour of sorrow and affliction.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the lodge, copies thereof be presented to the family of our deceased brother and hung upon the walls of the lodge, and that they be printed in the Butler papers.

T. C. CAMPBELL, ALEX. CAMPBELL, C. A. SULLIVAN, Committee.

In Memory of James A. Garfield, Dead.

WHEREAS, It hath seemed good unto Almighty God in his inscrutable providence, to remove by the hand of death our comrade and friend James A. Garfield, President of the United States, from the scene of his honors, his labors and his responsibilities, unto his future and eternal world.

Resolved, That A. C. Reed Post of Butler, No. 105, Grand Army of the Republic, Department of Pennsylvania, do hereby record its high estimate of our late comrade as a man, a soldier, a patriot, a legislator, a statesman and a President.

Resolved, That the Grand Army of the Republic has lost an illustrious comrade, the Nation a wise ruler, and the world one of its greatest men.

Resolved, That the long public service of James A. Garfield has been marked by fidelity to his convictions of duty, by industry and patience in his labors for the public welfare, by distinguished ability on the field of battle, in the legislative councils and in the Presidential chair.

Resolved, That we sincerely sympathize with the wife, children and aged mother of our deceased comrade in this their sad bereavement, and extend to them our heartfelt condolence. We can do naught to heal those wounded hearts that mourn for the dead, but shall be their comfort as long as the sun and moon shall endure; "Till the heavens and earth are rolled away, and there shall be no more sea."

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered upon the records of the Post, published in the county papers and a copy forwarded to the family.

FRANK M. KAUFMAN, JOHN M. GREER, ALEX. MITCHELL, ALEX. RUSSELL, WILLIAM A. WRIGHT.

Middlesex Township. SUNDAY, SEPT. 17, 1881.

The farmers of Sandy Hill have decided to try the merit of phosphate; there has been twenty tons of it purchased by the inhabitants of this district this fall.

There is again some prospects of a railroad through Middlesex. The rail road officials were viewing the Sandy Hill Ridge for a pass over it on Saturday the 10th inst.

On Tuesday, the 13th, while Mr. John Flick, of Clinton township, was driving with a load of straw, from his barn to the main road, on his way to market, the wagon upset, throwing him on the debris of an old tree trunk, severely injuring him in the side and ankle.

A case of small-pox, which resulted in the death of a child at the residence of Mr. McCall, of Clinton township, on Tuesday the 13th inst., has spread terror in that neighborhood, as it is feared the disease will spread, a great many neighbors having called to see the child before it was known that it had the small-pox.

We invite the attention of our readers to the advertisement of the Buckeye Mfg. Co., Marion, Ohio, in another column. They offer rare inducements to earn an honest living.

"Thousands of ladies to-day cherish grateful remembrances of the help derived from the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It positively cures all female complaints. Send to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, 233 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass., for pamphlets.

Experience the Best Guide. The constant practice most women have in caring for the sick, makes them often more skillful than physicians in selecting medicines. The reason why women are everywhere using and recommending Parker's Ginger-Tonic is because they have learned by that best of guides—experience—that this excellent family medicine speedily overcomes despondency, periodical headache, indigestion, liver complaints, pain or weakness in the back and kidneys, and other troubles peculiar to the sex.—Home Journal.
