Alfred McDonald and wife petitioned Court for a rule on John Berg & Co. to show cause why the defendants should not bring action of ejectment, &c. Granted, returnable on 1st Monday of December, 1881.

A hearing in the case of Mrs. Eschenbaugh versus J. B. Kilroy and wife, of Petrolia, was had in the Court room last Saturday afternoon.

Some five years ago Mr. Kilroy and wife adopted the two-year-old boy of Mrs. Eschenbaugh, then Mrs. Robb, who now wishes to regain possession of him.

Considerable feeling in the case was developed at the hearing. The child, itself, wants to remain with the Kilroys. The defendants claim that they can't impeach the plaintiff's character, and the suit was postponed till Dec. 5th next.

We regret to learn of the illness of Jas. Gilmore Campbell, Esq., of this place, who last week had a slight attack of paralysis in his left arm and side. His friends believe he will soon recover entirely, which we hope may be the case.

Abraham Meyer, Esq. and Mr. Adam Hoffman, two other well known citizens are also still ill but hopes are entertained for their recovery.

During the heats of summer we were told of the ravages of the ice-worms, and now that winter is approaching the coal-bug in two or three varieties threatens to devour our stores of fuel. There is something terrible in this entomologic advance along opposite lines of attack upon two so important commodities as ice and coal. It is an instance of evolution which is in many respects discouraging.

The French and the Germans at the recent celebration at Yorktown fraternized very ceremoniously, and seemed to bear in mind, amid all the pleasant surroundings, that time had not obliterated certain historical events, the memory of which, on one side, was far from being agreeable. As representatives of a Government, the French thought themselves entitled to a more positive recognition than the Germans, who only represented a family.

The extraordinary demand for Confederate bonds still continues, in spite of the warning notes of the newspapers that fools are parting with their money, and the fact that there is no direct evidence that the alleged deposit of Confederate funds in Europe has any existence. The question whether it had any existence it would not be forfeited to the United States Government and be beyond any claim by the holders of the bonds.

Workman and Joseph Houston, two well-known citizens of our ancient borough, who in their day lived on opposite sides of south Main street and were of opposite politics, once made a bet of a yoke of oxen on the result of the State election. Houston having lost the bet ordered his partner to deliver the oxen across the street and deliver them to Workman. The latter came out, looked at the oxen and said to the boy, "drive them back and tell your master he must fulfill the bargain—our bet was a yoke of oxen and I'm not going to take the animals loose." The boy obeyed. Houston immediately yoked up the oxen and at the house of the bondholders, seems to remote to be considered by the confiding purchasers. The buying still goes on. A Chicago dispatch states that a New York firm is advertising there for bonds at $2.50 per $1,000, and an August dispatch says that large amounts were bought there at $10 and $11 per $1,000—a difference in price showing, perhaps, the greater faith in the soundness of Confederate securities that exists south of Mason and Dixon's line.

It appears from the statements of Treasury officials that repeated efforts have been made in past years, without success, to discover the alleged Confederate treasure, but the suspicion seems to survive that there was much Confederate property in Europe at the close of the war which has never been accounted for. It is reported that Mr. Jefferson Davis's visits to Europe may have something to do with it. Meantime there comes a distinct denial from London that there is any deposit of this nature in the Bank of England. The new purchasers of Confederate bonds may rest assured that if any such funds are found anywhere, the United States Government will enforce its own rights in the matter.

There is no change in the character of the statement sent out by the Treasury Department in relation to the national debt. The revenues continue, both the internal revenue and the customs receipts being greatly in excess of the estimates submitted by Mr. Sherman to Congress, and the reduction of debt for the month of October is amongst the largest ever recorded. The interest-bearing debt is now (November 1st), stated as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Description of bonds and interest rates, and Total amount. Includes entries like 'Bonds at 6 per cent. continued' and 'Total $1,966,728,750 00'.

Comparing this to the statement of October 1st, which showed $1,853,102,250 principle debt, it will be seen that the actual reduction of principal in the month was $113,626,500. By the ordinary form of making the statement, however, showing the debt, less cash in the treasury, the net reduction of the month was $13,321,458.87. Taking the latter figures as the best for the purpose of this observation, it will be seen that we are advancing in the payment of the debt at the rate of one hundred and sixty millions per annum. Or, if we take the experience of the four months of the present fiscal year, we are doing more than that. Since July 1st, the debt has been diminished $55,064,345.08, or at the rate of one hundred and sixty-five millions a year.

The figures tell their own story. They may readily be applied to the items in the statement of the interest-bearing debt. In less than twelve months, the continued six per cent. will be paid. In a little more than thirty-six months, the continued five per cent. will be paid. That is to say, that, by ing clauses will kill any chance of his getting into David's chair.

At Economy, Pa., the home of that once large and active community, the "Harmonists," founded by Father Rapp, about 100 old men and women are still lingering, most of them on the brink of the grave.

The P. & W. R. R. are now grading the connecting link from Butler to Evansburg, and by the first of January, 1882, the F. & B. R. R. will run through to Bradford, thus making a route from the upper oil regions to Pittsburg shorter by 140 miles than now.

Will not this be an inducement for business men to locate here? The R. R. managers of the P. & W. are making improvements on the line. They have built a round house and will extend the shops and raise the depot, moving the latter back so as to give more room in front; besides which, they are laying new tracks and are putting the road in good repair.

With all these things established facts, what is to hinder these capitalists from putting in their money, when they can only get 3 1/2 per cent. for U. S. Bonds? They have not the brains, let them employ experienced men to manage the business for them, and then they will be doing good to their fellow-men, and besides making a record that will always be remembered by those whom they helped to make happy by giving them work to do.—Parker Phoenix.

During the last week the price of wheat has declined about ten cents on the bushel.

DeWitt, of Detroit, writes to say that the winter wheat in Michigan looks looked so well now. He adds:

The speaker mentioned the Chicago trick of filling the warehouse with wheat to produce a railroad blockade and catch the shorts by making it impossible for them to deliver even if they had the wheat on hand in the country. Fortunately the railroads and the Government are not so easily duped.

They declared that there was a shortage instead of a surplus in the crops of Austria-Hungary and the United States. The latter had 1,900,000 bushels in store on September 1, 1881.

On the same day Paris had wheat and flour 1,800,000 bushels and 320,000 bushels, the same day.

Bureau was reported without stocks for two months. Shipments were sent from all quarters, which were not to be taken out of storage room, and the owners of the wheat are obliged to pay damage.

It is about two weeks since the California and Oregon avalanches of 60,000,000 bushels will strike Europe, and about the same time the wheat from Egypt, New Zealand, and Chili will keep dropping in for the next two months, and in sixty days from this time Australia will begin to ship her new crop.

India, then New Zealand, and the wheat from the Argentine will follow. In the meantime our farmers hold on for famine prices promised by the "bull" and the buyers are held to their dollar purchases. But before they get rid of them not a ball among them will make a decent ox, and I don't doubt but that a call could be manufactured out of any of them. Most of them will ask like old dogberry, to be written down at the price of their stories will all look somewhat absurd.

An Old Time Act. Hugh Workman and Joseph Houston, two well-known citizens of our ancient borough, who in their day lived on opposite sides of south Main street and were of opposite politics, once made a bet of a yoke of oxen on the result of the State election.

Houston having lost the bet ordered his partner to deliver the oxen across the street and deliver them to Workman. The latter came out, looked at the oxen and said to the boy, "drive them back and tell your master he must fulfill the bargain—our bet was a yoke of oxen and I'm not going to take the animals loose." The boy obeyed.

Houston immediately yoked up the oxen and at the house of the bondholders, seems to remote to be considered by the confiding purchasers. The buying still goes on. A Chicago dispatch states that a New York firm is advertising there for bonds at $2.50 per $1,000, and an August dispatch says that large amounts were bought there at $10 and $11 per $1,000—a difference in price showing, perhaps, the greater faith in the soundness of Confederate securities that exists south of Mason and Dixon's line.

a prompt acknowledgment of their success it could best be done by applying to transportation and gravel in the railway. If water as fuel supercedes coal and wood in the locomotive every railway line, steamship company and all who use stationary engines will have to adopt the new method.

The Urine. As part of the excretion from the human body, should be thoroughly examined in acute and chronic diseases, to determine fully the cause, nature and extent of the same.

In the thousands of cases that we have thus investigated during a long practice in Pittsburgh, Pa. where we still reside, many of them were physicians and other scientific attainments, who could see at once the practicality of our system, whilst a large majority were patients of such suffering as to have become good judges of their own aches and pains, and could tell at once whether their symptoms were correctly described by us or not.

Persons sending a vial of Urine for examination, and the necessary medicines can be forwarded by express.

How to Increase Your Income. One of the best ways of increasing your income, among our readers, those looking for employment for the next six months. We have lately received from L. E. Brown & Co., the well known manufacturers of specialties for agents to handle, a request to put them in communication with suitable persons who would be willing to act as agents in introducing several of their patent household articles to this county. In order to conform to the request, we take this method to employ with their request. The firm are manufacturers of a large number of household articles, which they sell at low prices, and which they sell by means of agents, having sometimes as many as 1,000 persons in their employ. The parties are willing to introduce their articles here, at this time, are: Brown's Peerless Sifter, generally acknowledged to be the best in the world of which nearly one million were sold during the last year; the Kitchen Queen, the latest and best invention in Coll Oil Lamp, which is the only one of its kind; the Centennial Cake and Bake Pan, an article which has a national reputation, and is the delight of every housekeeper; the Half Minute Egg Beater, which always sells at sight, and the new Allo Sellover Bronze Profile Cast of JAMES S. WILSON, with its memorial frame, the best selling article ever put into the hands of an agent, the best of all the portraits, chromos or steel engravings that have been offered. It is a truer likeness of the married man than any we have ever before, and it is the only one which will sell at all. For this county, Messrs. Brown & Co. desire as many agents as can work advantageously. The smart, intelligent and gentleman can make a fine income in this way. "The firm will send to any responsible person FREE who will send us a list of names of persons to whom a complete outfit of these goods, to the amount of five dollars.
