

BUTLER CITIZEN.

New Advertisements. Holiday notices. Alcoholic Forcible Plenary. Dr. Johnson's Blood Syrup.

Local and General.

Mr. Joseph Hays, of Adams town, is agent for this county for Dr. Chapman's valuable recipe book. The widow of Casper Slentz has received a draft for $2,000 from the Knights of Honor, which society Mr. Slentz was a member.

Human charity has never reached such a high standard that it will refuse to smile at the man who steps into a mud puddle or slips on the ice.

Hats with rims measuring over twenty inches in diameter are the latest agony for the ladies. There's no accounting for the freaks of folly fashion dictates.

One little Butler boy is so fond of toys and candy that he has procured an empty flour barrel to place by the fire-side in lieu of usual stocking, and expects Santa Claus to fill it up.

All the newly elected county officers have had their bonds recorded in the county Recorder's office. These bonds are placed on file at Harrisburg. The commissions have not yet arrived.

Christmas is the season when the lean and lank woman stands on an equality with her well developed sister. It isn't always the woman with the biggest stockings gets the best presents.

The man Hamble convicted of adultery and lewdness in our county court last week was not sentenced, but was allowed to give bail in $1,000, for his appearance for sentence on the second of January next.

At the meeting of the Butler Presbytery, held Dec. 15, at Fairview, Rev. Wylie was released from the pastoral charge of the church of Butler, at his own request, and with the consent of the congregation.

Among the death notices this week will be seen those of the two children of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stalker, of Venango township, who died on the 20th and 21st of November last of the fever. These were the parents only children.

A New York paper says: 'People have long been swarming at the elevated roads; they may soon have an opportunity to swear at an underground rival.' They will simply be called upon to change their form of expression from 'Oh, Heavens!' to 'Oh, Hell!'

Mr. Bernard Vosbrink, of this place, was lately a passenger on a train of the Missouri Pacific R. R. which came very near being thrown over a high bank and into the Missouri river, on account of a section of the track having been washed away by a flood.

Since the Legislature has passed an act compelling school boards to pay teachers for the time spent in county institutes, no teacher should for a moment think of absenting himself from the counties in which teachers take the most interest in county institutes have the best schools.

The retiring county officials will give a banquet to their successors, on the evening of the first Monday in January. In returning to private life, the present officers take with them the good will of all those with whom they came in official contact. They have all made obliging and efficient officers, and we wish them all success in the future.

Old Mr. Katz, of Winfield township, was found dead in bed last Saturday. He had been dead for some days when found and his body was badly decomposed. Mr. K. came from Brady's Bend to this county about two years ago. His wife was sent to Dixmont last September, and he has since been living by himself. He had about forty dollars on his person when found.

Mercer county's late sensation, the Silverside woman trial, ended last Thursday by a jury bringing a verdict of one dollar and costs, in favor of the plaintiff. Westernman is one of the wealthiest citizens of Sharon, and Silverside is a reformed gambler, who claimed that Westernman had alienated the affections of his wife and who wanted a $25,000 plaster on his broken neck.

Franklin, Pa., was lately the scene of an alleged miracle. The wife of Rev. Boyd, who had been sick in bed for some weeks and whose disease was pronounced by best physicians to be cancer, and incurable, suddenly arose from her bed and went to the church where they were praying for her, and led in the prayer meeting. It was pronounced to be one of those wonderful cases of cure by prayer that have been reported from different parts of the country. Dr. Croft, one of our best physicians, who was interviewed regarding the matter thinks 'it is all book.' He says he was called to see Mrs. Boyd some time ago, and after a thorough examination of her ailments, said she could not be cured, that she was afflicted with one of the peculiarly distressing cancers that are incurable and that patients suffering from one of these cancers usually live from eighteen months to two years, and that during that time they will have many weak spells and again they will revive till they appear in almost their usual health. Mrs. Boyd is a woman of peculiar nervous and hysterical disposition, and there was nothing in her case that would prevent her, under some extraordinary excitement, to be religious or any other kind, from getting up out of bed, dressing herself and walking a mile or so. There is nothing surprising or supernatural to me about it, for it is the natural course of the disease. At times its victims will be very low and then they will rapidly recover to apparent health and strength, but as a matter of course such recoveries are only temporary, lasting for a greater or less period of time, owing to the condition of the patient.

Then, Doctor, asked the interviewer, you think there is no reason why you should not die in the next eight or ten days, and that there could not be a score of just such 'miracles' worked on the same subject? 'There will be, very likely, a number of just such recoveries before the disease accomplishes its final work,' said the Doctor.

Go to J. P. Orr's photograph gallery and set for one of those fine cabinet pictures he is now turning out.

Christmas. The new faith and the new hope that the Babe of Bethlehem brought to a world whose culture was a mere gilding on a framework of barbarism, was the foundation of all that makes man to-day, and is the only real strength by which civilization holds its own against the forces that seek to retard it or to destroy the monuments marking its progress. Straight as the road that ran from Rome to the northern wilderness, past morasses in which it did not sink and over hills that could not prevent its advance, the path of Christian endeavor and Christian conquest runs from the manger in Syria to the very centre of Nineteenth century enlightenment and life. The Dark Ages, the persecutions, the agony, and the wars that have left their marks upon this 'highway of a king' are forgotten now, or live only as moral encouragements to this age in perfecting that which was so nobly commenced in ages when liberty of soul meant imprisonment or death for the body.

No wonder, then, that the holiest holiday in all the year is built upon the day when the Beginning of all this greatness found a being. No wonder then, that for a brief season, all men—whether believing Christ divine or human—yield to His influence, and forgetting self for others, reap the only happiness of this life—that of making others happy.

Many of our store keepers have made special preparations for this season and for the benefit of those whose time for shopping is limited, we make the following notes of their wares, suitable for presents:

Mr. Adam Troutman's large store is full of goods suitable for presents, such as silk handkerchiefs, hoods, scarfs, lace, cloaks, dolmans, gloves, hosiery, etc. There is no more appropriate Christmas present than a handsome dress pattern, and you will find Mr. Troutman's stock all that can be desired both as to quality and price. Be sure to give him a call before purchasing.

Mrs. Grieb has brought on a large stock of sterling silverware of all descriptions and best designs, including jewel boxes, cake baskets, card receivers, water sets, tea sets, butter dishes, sugar bowls, soup holders, creamers, spoons, table knives and forks, etc., all made by the Rodgers Bros., the best manufacturers in the country. She also has a large stock of all kinds of jewelry, such as necklaces, bracelets, pins, brooches, rings, lockets, sleep buttons, watch chains, etc., also a large stock of handsome clocks and watches, for the prices of which see advertisement in another place.

'Mabel Dell' writes us to ask 'what shall I give my young gentleman as a Christmas present?' That's a hard question to answer, Mabel, dear, but the CITIZEN will try to put you on the right track. You might buy him a pair of No. 10 Arctic rubber boots, and another pair of the same kind on love's altar and make him a seal skin cap, or butcher the dog and manufacture a pair of fur gauntlets from his pelt, or buy him a pair of ten cent socks, and if he don't wear them out, you can use them for jelly strainers after you are married, or study economy. Mabel, Mabel, and then give him yourself. But, Mabel, the very best thing you can do is to call at Charles Grieb's and buy him a handsome fur cap, neck scarf, pair of gloves, or in fact any of the beautiful things in Gents' Furnishing Goods you can see in Charles's show window or show cases.

Heck & Patterson continue at their old stand, in the Duffy Block, to handle clothing of all descriptions. For the Holiday trade they have laid in a large supply of Silk Handkerchiefs, fine Underwear and Gents' Furnishing Goods. In their Carpet store, next door, they have a large stock of fancy Rugs and Foot-stools, also suitable for Christmas gifts. Give them a call when on your Christmas tour.

A person who wishes to make a present to a lover of the weed, whether it be a cigar, pipe or cigar case, should buy all means visit the establishment of Mr. George Vogeley, where can be found a large variety of handsome meerschaum and briar pipes, cigar holders, snuff boxes, fine cigars, tobacco, etc.

Mr. H. C. Heineman has made very elaborate preparations for Christmas. His stock includes so great a variety of goods that it is impossible to enumerate them. But if a present you would purchase.

Stebie's toy bazaar is fast becoming one of the best known institutions of the kind in this county. One is always sure to find in it all the best toys and puzzles which home and foreign lands are so ingeniously producing. Teachers wish to bring a class of pupils and exhibit their methods of instruction or progress in any of the branches, can do so by attending the Superintendent a day or two previous.

Specimens of penmanship, maps, free hand drawing, manuscript work, may be placed on exhibition.

Dr. Cowan's elevation is excellent. He is the possessor of a deep, fine-toned, clear voice, which, added to his correct and distinct enunciation, makes him a very pleasing and attractive speaker. His diction is original and harmonious, and full of striking qualities, quaint allusions and alliterative phrases, drawn from a seemingly inexhaustible mine of information and experience.—Evening Star, Greensburg, Pa., Oct. 15th, 1881.

The lecture of Dr. Frank Cowan before the ladies on Wednesday evening, was an admirable one, and for beautiful work painting and accurate description, not to be forgotten by the most accomplished lecturers on the American platform.—Indiana Democrat, Indiana, Pa., Oct. 5, 1881.

Dr. Frank Cowan's lecture in the afternoon hours was listened to with marked attention by an appreciative and intelligent audience. It was a most interesting record of his experience in foreign lands, and was considered a rare intellectual treat.—Pennsylvania Argus, Greensburg, Pa., Oct. 10th, 1881.

Elegant Holiday Goods. The largest and finest stock ever brought to Butler, now on exhibition at Redick's Drug Store, consisting in part of fine odor cases, flower stands, jewel cases, match boxes, perfume stands, bronze card receivers, decorated porcelain card receivers, decorated porcelain jewel boxes, decorated porcelain puff boxes, crystal and bronze flower stands, plate mirrors, celluloid, Florence and hard rubber brushes and Colored Pins are gems. This work, although costing but ten cents, is handsome enough for a Gift Book, or a place on the parlor table. Published by JAMES VICKS, Rochester, N. Y.

firm, mindful of the public wants, have anticipated the demand by opening a large stock of extra fine groceries and confectionary for the holiday trade. This house carries none but the very best goods in the market, and their present confectionery they have laid in for the Holidays is all fresh, new and pure, and is put up in packages expressly for Christmas gifts. Sabbath school committees will find this the very place for their requirements, the supply of which is specially with this population. They can be so obtained here all that is needed to decorate the Christmas tree and to load its branches with delicious fruitage. See price list of this firm in another place in this paper.

Mr. M. Reiber, Sr., has, as usual, made special preparations for the holiday trade. His shelves and show cases are now filled with everything likely to be found in a first-class grocery at this season, and all arranged with that taste and neatness which are his specialties. He has a large stock of choice meats, and a variety of fine liquors, and his holiday tour is incomplete without a call at his place.
