Tribute of Respect.

Tribute of respect by the officers, directors and stockholders of the Centreville Savings Bank, to the memory of Austin T. Bard, Esq., late cashier of said bank.

WHEREAS, God in his all-wise providence has seen fit to remove from earth our esteemed friend and associate, Austin T. Bard, Esq., the faithful and efficient cashier of this bank, from his first establishment until his death; therefore, we, the undersigned, do hereby express our hearty appreciation of his ability, integrity and efficiency in the discharge of his official duties, and of his management of the affairs of the bank, from its organization until the time of his death.

Resolved, That while we sincerely mourn his loss, we recognize in this providence, the hand of our all-wise and tender heavenly Father, who "doeth all things well," and we bow in humble submission to His holy will.

Resolved, That we hereby express our hearty appreciation of his ability, integrity and efficiency in the discharge of his official duties, and of his management of the affairs of the bank, from its organization until the time of his death.

Resolved, That we bear our cordial and earnest testimony to the worth and consistency of his character, and to the uniform dignity and respectability of his conduct in all the relations of life, public, social and domestic.

Resolved, That we tender our earnest sympathies to his bereaved wife and children, and to his dear mother, who alone is able to kind up their hearts.

Big Rules From Little Causes. 'Do you know?' remarked a man to his friend on Chestnut Street, a day or two since, 'I believe both Conkling and Pike had had case of skin disease, and that they resigned?' 'What makes you think so?' inquired the listener in astonishment. 'Well, you see they acted in such an eruptive manner—so rashly as they were. Save? 'Oh! yes, I save,' replied the other, 'they were both—ing over and merely resigning.' 'I suppose,' said the first, 'if such be the case, the National difficulty might have been averted by applying Swayne's Ointment for skin diseases.'
