The planet Saturn is nearer the Earth now than it has been for nearly thirty years. Saturn's orbit is about 900 million miles outside that of the Earth, and it gets around the Sun only once in thirty of our years, and it takes about 29 years and 166 days to complete its orbit. The astronomers say that Saturn is now over 750,000,000 miles from us and is getting nearer. We have some potatoes to spare and will exchange for a few sacks of them over to the people who plant in exchange for a few sacks of them.

The small operators in oil had a bad game played on them last Friday. The Standard Oil Co. forced the price of oil down, enough to make many of the "lambs" lose their margins, and then, through their wiles in the Exchange, raised the margins to one hundred to two hundred dollars on a thousand barrels. Next day the company was a heavy buyer.

Notes on Current Events.

Nebraska has buried the female suffrage amendment under 20,000 or 30,000 majority, the measure seeming to share the general revulsion of feeling in the West against prohibition, for while every Prohibitionist is not in favor of female suffrage, every supporter of the latter is a Prohibitionist. Oregon votes next on this change and its well-orchestrated vote the proposed amendment down. Since this extension of the suffrage came to be talked about in the chilly light of day, it has not the ghost of a show.

There are in the United States 86 establishments engaged in the manufacture of petroleum, having a capital of $27,395,746, and employing about 120,000 persons at a total yearly wages list of $4,381,572. In the census year the number of gallons of crude oil used was 731,539,127, valued at $16,340,581; the total value of raw material, including fuel, chemicals, barrels, etc., was $34,990,101; the total value of the manufactured products was $43,705,218. Of illuminating oil the make was 11,002,249 barrels, worth $26,839,613. It is the oil, not the facts, that is to be made light of.

It is known that Postmaster-General John A. Rogers postal telegraph and postal savings-banks. He is quoted as saying that the Post-Office Department has "at present a monopoly of all the slow methods of transmitting letters, while corporations enjoy the exclusive privilege of sending by the rapid system messages and business communications. In my opinion the Post-Office Department ought to be equipped with every facility for postal telegraphy. The Government can do it cheaper than companies, and certainly with the same promptness." He will urge the matter on Congress in his report. He suggests, in regard to a reduction of postage, that instead of a two-cent letter rate the government try the experiment of selling stamped envelopes in place of stamps, for the present rates. This is a new idea, but we doubt if it would meet the public demand for cheap postage.

The Iowa Prohibitory amendment has been pronounced null by a district court in the State because as finally passed by the House the words "or to be used" were omitted in the phrase "may be used as a beverage or to be used." The provisions in regard to the journals of the two chambers, the passage of bills and the passage of constitutional amendments for submission to the people, are the familiar clauses on the subject repeated in nearly all of our State constitutions. The courts in Illinois, the Circuit there and the Supreme Court at Washington have all held, as have Eastern Courts, that the journals of the Legislature can be used to show that a bill was passed or was not passed as to make it law, although the Courts have, in New York State, declined to hear proof that the journals were inaccurate. The real point that goes up for consideration in Iowa is whether a verbal change in passage vitiate the amendment. Slight changes, it has been held, do not. In addition, the words and nays on the amendment were never entered on the journal of the Legislature. This is to the full as serious as the other, and may alone be enough to upset the amendment.

The change of values in the city of New York is suggested by the recent sale of the old Postoffice site in Nassau street to an insurance company for $650,000. The Dutch Reformed Consistory bought the site in 1731, or a century and a half before, for less than $3,000. The bell presented to the church the same year now hangs in the tower of the Collegiate church at Fifth Avenue and Forty Eighth street. The old church building that the bell pulled down has had an unusual history, serving during the Revolution as a British riding school, and for many years as a postoffice for the metropolis. It will now give place to another of those great ten-story structures that stretch skyward and make New York a picture-postcard to the incomer on the bay.

The account given in a report recently received in Washington from Lieut. Ray, commanding the signal service station at Point Barrow, Alaska, of the loss of the steamer North Star on the 8th of July last, illustrates the terrible power of the ice pack in the Arctic seas and the idleness with which it sometimes floes upon a ship with irresistible force. The North Star had approached the station within about three miles, and then the ice closed upon her, and she got no further. She lay there a whole day apparently in no special danger, although she could not move. Suddenly, says Lieut. Ray, "we heard a great shout raised by the crew, and we could also hear the timbers breaking. In twenty minutes she was out sight." Lieut. Ray at once went off to the assistance of the sunken vessel's crew, 47 in number, who had got out upon the ice, and where all saved. But for the fact that the accident happened so close to shore, and within sight and hearing of the signal station, the loss of the North Star might have furnished another terrible story Arctic disaster.

The Chicago Tribune, in closing an elaborate article on Hon. Carter H. Harrison, Mayor of that city, gives the following as Mr. Harrison's opinion of St. Jacobs Oil: "When I first found myself suffering from the rheumatism, my leading thought naturally was to call a physician, but my neighbors all advised me to try St. Jacobs Oil, the Great German Remedy. I procured this of it immediately, and found it excellent for that ailment."
