The Useless Check-Rein.

No one can witness the extreme high checking of our best horses, as they are driven along our thoroughfares, especially those with heads held unnat-urally high by the over check, without feeling that a great amount of needless cruelty is inflicted upon these dumb animals. As horsemen are desirous of showing their horses to good advantage, I will consider the subject from an æsthetic point of view.

Why men possessed of ordinary intelligence in other respects should resort to such a device as the over-chick for use on horses can only be accounted for on the ground that when a new fashion is introduced people often adopt it without consideration

The new check-rein, which passe from the mouth over the horse's head is a most foolish contrivance of tor ture which possessess not one excuse for its use. The butcher who trans-ports a number of calves in his wagon and allows their heads to dangle over the sides of the box excuses himself on the score of the want of room. The teamster who brutally pounds his horses when they are unable to draw the load claims that such beating will sometimes impart more strength. drover who prods his cattle with a sharp iron defends his barbarity on the plea that the cattle can be more rapidly driven when made to suffer from this pain. But the man who fastens up bout being a good skater has switched his horse's head in an unnatural, painoff from that topic and is now telling ful position, with nose extended and eyes glaring upward at the sun, has absolutely no excuse. He cannot claim that the horse travels better, is surer-footed, or draws more. And he certainly cannot exanimal presents a better appearance, for the exact contrary is the fact.

When the over-check is used the herse's head is held unnaturally upward in such a manner that great pain must result, and the eyes are prevented from seeing the roadway, and thus the animal is continually liable to misstep, slip and fall. With head held up thus and eyes blinded by the sun, and unable to see where he steps, the horse is compelled to travel

In order to fully realize what the The first ten minutes these men will probably endure this torture without much complaint, but as the hours go by and the pain in the neck be comes excruciating and the mouth bloody from the effort to get the head down, they will understand and appreciate what causes the continual restless tossing of the head which the horse exhibits when he is thus tortured by the over-check. To add to the pain arising from this terrible, unnatural position, let these men, while the sun is blinding their eyes, with their burdens to draw or carry, unable to see where they are to step, be whip-ped into a run over the rough roads of

All this is seen some colors, and the graceful curves from a study of the animal in a natural condition. Particularly will the readferers from Catarrh, have been cured by Ely's Cream Balm. My senses of curve of neck is one of the chief beauties of this handsome animal, and this feature of attraction is entirely destroyed when the neck is straightened by the

In Wappeton, Dakota, a man charged with an infamous crime, while in beautiful things of hers which we most beautiful things of hers which we most beautiful things of hers which we must admire always adhere to the curve. Examine her works and see. The leaf, the blossom, the tree, the waiving grain, forest, mountain, planet-all bave curving outlines. There are no straight lines. The same is true of all beautiful animals. The human countenance, Mass, says: In the fall of 1876, I was taken with bleeding of Lungs followed by a severe cough. I lost my appetite and flesh, and was confined to my bed. In 1877 I was admitted to graceful form with increasing flesh, the Hospital The doctors said I had beauty returns. In lower life those a hole in my lung as big as a half dol- animals that exhibit the greatest amount side-check on the score of beauty when tle, when to my surprise, I commenced to feel better, and to-day feel better reasonably high, particularly as, resting at the side of the head, it does not destroy the curve of the arching neck. The over-check, in all cases, however, detracts from the horse's beauty for three reasons, the first being even if loose, the leather strap flattens the mane and injures its appearance; second, if tight, it forms a straight line from the saddle to the top of the head, which is contrary to the law of beauty, and third, it converts the curve of the horse's neck into a straight line, and thus detracts from the grace and beauty shown in the handsome horse, which is allowed to hold its head naturally. Every driver who fastens his horse's head into this painful position is un-questionably liable to the State law for cruelty to animals. The hope is, how HAY-FEVER ever, that the judgment and good taste of our horsemen will cause them of their own free will to cease their torture and restore to the animal that grace and beauty which is a distinctive feature of attraction in a handsome horse .-Hon. Thos. E. Hill.
