Killing Rats by Electricity.

From the West Chester Local. Ralph Corbit, an ingenious twelve-year-old boy of Honeybrook, Chester county, has devised a novel plan of getting rid of the rats which infest his father's cellar. He has contest his out of old fruit jars a battery of three Leyden jars, which he connects and places upon a large iron plate which ches the tinfoil on the cutside. The bait is so arranged that when the rat steps upon the plate and seizes the bait he at once makes the connection be-tween the outside and inside of the jars, and they are discharged through his body, killing him literally as quick as lightning. He charges the jars by means of an electrical machine, also couple of wires through the floor to the cellar from the room above, and as soon as he would hear a rat squeak he would tion he slaughtered twenty-five rats in a space of three hours, and in two days the cellar was entirely cleared of the
