A novelty in glass has been gotten out by a well-known glass firm of the South Side. It is a glass shingle made in diamond shape and so constructed that it can easily be fastened to the roof. The shingle is about a quarter of an inch thick, and the four sides each about five inches in length, each side is a slot which with the slot of the shingle next to its forms the hole through which they are fastened to the When the ends do not overlap each other as slates do, but fit in one below the two above it. They have solid bearings on the roof and can be walked on without breaking. They are corrugated so that the rain runs off
