WASHINGTON ROEBLING has tender ed his resignation as chief engineer of the great East River bridge company.

R. P. Scott, Esq., and wife left last week for a visit to her parents in Attica, New York. He will be absent for three or four weeks.

Some new railroad surveys are being made through the central and upper parts of our county and the talk is that were the strong points used by his we may soon have one or two more branch roads undertaken.

G. L. EBERHART, Esq., of Beaver, a successful pension agent, plead guilty in the United States Court at Pittsburgh last week to having charged and collected attorney fees in excess of that allowed by law.

THE rains have interfered with harvesting, but considerable of grain and grass have already been secured. Wheat, on an average in this county, is not half a crop. Rye is a good crop. Grass also good and the oats looking unusually well. The corn it is now thought will be a fair crop.

SENATOR JOHN STEWART'S remark as to the proceedings of the Republican State Convention of last week had much deep meaning as well as truth in it. Referring to the proceedings, he said: "We will all be harmonious for the ticket now. We have seen an unusual sight—a Republican State Convention in Pennsylvania which ran itself and nominated a good ticket."

THE coal miners at Coaltown and extends through Mercer county and in ried out. other coal mining sections. Now would be a good time for all such employers and employees to test the merits of the new Arbitration law, passed by the Legislature. We see a case under it has been tried in one of the Pittsburgh coal regions with success, both parties being satisfied with the result of an amicable arbitration under the recent act.

THE delegates from this county to the State Convention, Messrs. Storey and Greer, faithfully reflected the views of their constituents in the same. They went right straight into the Convention, and not into any caucus. In fact this not show the wholesome reform already secured? They first voted for Dr. Irvine for State Treasurer, as recommended by our County Convention. Then they voted for whom they thought the best men, both voting for Mr. Niles for Auditor General from the and have a higher inspiration.

G. S. CROSBY, Esq., of Armstrong county, was the Senatorial delegate from this district in the State Convention last week, and was a member of the committee to draft resolutions. In that capacity he opposed the resolution commending the action of the Senate on the apportionment bills. In this we think he was right. If the Republican members of the Senate adhere to their present position, of making no further efforts to secure the passage of the apportionment bills, it will be found that Mr. Crosby and men who think like him will be sustained in the

MR. DONLY has been appointed by the Speaker of the House to represent the Republicans on a new conference committee on Senatorial districting, the old committee being discharged. The Senate on the other hand has refused to appoint a new committee to meet that of the House committee. In this course the Senate will not be sustained by the people. It was its duty "to try again." No party, neither the Republican majority of the Senate, nor the Democratic majority of the House, have a right to say, "this is our last offer." "This is our ultimatum." That is simply revolutionary. The people expect apportionments to be made. The House having renewed its committees, which means a further effort or trial for agreement, the Senate should meet it in similar spirit, and, as we have said, "try, try again." The same may be said of the Congressional and Judicial districting bills. It will be simply disgraceful, and an outrage upon the State, if this Legislature again adjourns without passing the only laws they were called to pass and virtually sworn to pass. Mr. Donly is a fair man and will do his part, as a member of the new committee, to arrive at a fair conclusion on the Senatorial bill.

"On With the Dance."

The Public Ledger, in speaking of the Legislature's daily record, says: "In the legislative quadrille apportion-ment the two Houses at Harrisburg went through the familiar old figures again: 'Forward,' 'Swing corners' and disput 'Back to your places.' Practice is enabling them to dance that way without a perceptible hitch." 'Forward,' 'Swing corners' and

No Caucus.

There was no caucus at Harrisburg preceeding the meeting of the delegates in the State Convention last Wednes day. The delegates went right into the Convention, to which the people had sent them. The result was that every delegate got voting his instructions, or his choice, from the start, and the result of that was the turning up of good nominees. This was the practice in old times and the return to it is to be hailed by every untrammeled Republican in the State. We always regarded the caucus system as the device oschemers, and an unfair way of committing the party to set up jobs. That its days are over in Pennsylvania all sincerely rejoice.

Their Own Merits.

Not for some years past did a State Convention in Pennsylvania nominate candidates'so purely upon their own merits as did the one last week. William Livsey, for State Treasurer, has risen to notice by his excellent business qualifications. He is said to be a remarkably good accountant and financier. His own merits as an officer friends for his nomination.

The same may be said of Jerome B Niles, the candidate for Auditor General. He has risen mainly upon his own merits. He did not seek the office, but in both cases it may be said the offices sought the men.

No Apportionments.

No apportionment bills have as yet been passed by the called session of the Legislature. And the worst of it is, it looks as if none were going to be passed. Even the Judiciary bill, that many thought would certainly be passed hangs suspended like the others between the two Houses. Conference committees, on the Congressional and Legislative bills, reported disagreement last week. The Senate refused to appoint new committees to again meet similar committees which had or might be appointed by the House. This is the position of affairs. Either House can prevent the passage of any of these bills, and either can prevent an adjournment until they are passed. What will be the result cannot be seen at present. the Blocks, this county, we learn have But the public will think it very strange struck for higher wages. The People's Good Work.

All in all, the State Convention has made the most of its opportunity. It has fortunately and skillfully avoided its perils, and has happily struck the best results among its several possibil-ities. It has nominated a strong ticket after a free contest on a progressive platform, and has shown that a Repub-lican Convention finds its best leadership in the general sense and spirit of the Republican masses.

The simple history of the assemblage is the revelation and proof of the new regime. It is a new thing in Pennsylvania for a Republican Convention to take half a dozen ballots among a dozen candidates for State Treasurer, and to witness a similar contest for the bosses order and the Conventions simply register. The long and ani-mated but good-humored struggle of yesterday emphasizes the emancipation of the party and marks the advance of popular rule. The Republicans of the State now breathe a freer atmosphere

The ticket is as judicious and strong as any that could be named. There are reasons for believing it the most fortunate combination that could be made. Timely warnings, wise counsels and the general good sense of the dele-gates saved the Convention from misakes that threatened danger. In the selection of Wm. A. Livsey for Treasurer, the party not only proclaims civil service promotion in the platform, but llustrates it in practice. He is the present cashier of the Treasury and held the same place under Butler and is admirably fitted for the position of ble, free from political complications and every way calculated to inspire confidence and give strength.

HARMONIOUS PROCEEDINGS. -A GOOD TICKET NOM-INATED.

Jerome B. Niles, of Tioga County. for Auditor General, and William A. Livsey, of Allegheny County, for State Treasurer.

The Republican State Convention, that assembled in Harrisburg last Wednesday, was one of the most satisfactory and harmonious that has been held in Pennsylvania for some years. There was no chance for ring rule or slated tickets, and indeed but little effort was attempted in that direction.

The Convention was organized with Gen. Lemuel Todd, of Cumberland county, as temporary chairman, and Hon. John Cessna, of Bedford, as permanent chairman. The following is a brief summary of the proceedings: HARRISBURG, July 12.—When John Cessna took the chair as permanent President of the Republican Convention, at its reassembling yesterday afternoon, he read his speech, which was composed of short and pointed sentences, every one of which was enjoyed, and all were loudly cheered at the close. While waiting on the Committee on Resolutions there were loud calls for a speech from Cooper, which he answered by suggesting that instead of listening to speeches while waiting for the committee, the Convention should proceed to make up the State Committee, and the suggestion was adopted. The committee did not come in till half-past four, and the report was read by Harry White and unanimously adopted. There was a wrangle then as to whether the Treasurer or Auditor General should be nominated first, Quay favoring the nomination of the Treasurer first, and he won, the vote standing 127 for his plan to 112 against. L. M. Hall, of Bradford, the law partner of Senator Davies, took the floor and nominated Frank C. Bunnell. of Wyoming. He was followed by Wood, of Mifflin, who nominated Charles H. Smiley, of Perry. This nomination was seconded by Senator nomination was seconded by Watres, of Lackawanna. Derr, of Berks, who was last year the Chairman of the Independent Republican Committee of that county, nominated Isaac

While the speech was un-winding Quay took off his Prince Albert coat and hung it over the back of his chair and was brilliant in his white ex-Sheriff Samuel L. Ely. Delegate Koch, of Schuylkill, took the floor at this time to nominate Passmore. Representative Clark presented Willis J. Hulings of Venango, in a few words, which were cheered. Brown, of Mc-Kean, nominated Colonel Ege, of that county. Gas Inspector Negley, of Pittsburg, presented William Livsey, Six ballots were taken, Livsey, climbing up with each from 32 on the first to 140 on the last. Passmore, who started in with 72 never got higher fell to 22. Hulings went in with 28 and on the last ballot got 73 votes. It ballot that Livsey was most directly in the way of the nomination. It had a strong influence on the fifth ballot. Before that ballot was announced, Harry changed to Livsey. Amidst the cheers which this invoked the Bucks delegation left Ely and went to Livsey Delegates were now on their feet all over the hall. Quay, from his seat, finally got the eye of the chairman and announced a change of his vote from Passmore to Hulings. This not only all on their feet, and from everywhere came calls of every description. John McCullough finally got a chance to the mark of th change his vote from Passmore to Livsey, and a general change among the city delegates begun. On the sixth ballot the Philadelphians were divided, but the most of them went for Hulings under Quay's lead. Before this ballot

"Gentlemen of the Convention-For the mark of confidence just bestowed, please accept my hearty thanks congratulate you, and the people you represent, upon the spirit of harmony manifested in the preliminary proceed ings of the Convention, and earnestly invoke its continuance until our labors shall have been concluded. A grave responsibility rests upon the gentlemen now before me. The action of this Convention, if wise and judiclous, will result in a triumph of the principles of Republicanism in November, 1883, and prove the forerunner of a national victory in 1884. Mistakes or blunders to-day will be political crimes and cause difficulties and embarrassments to the party of the whole nation in the presidential struggle of next year.

Pennsylvania has long been recog-nized as the keystone of the federal arch.
