Ex-Chief Justice Agnew on the Death of Ex-Chief Justice Black

At the meeting of the members of the Pittsburgh Bar recently, Ex-Chief Justice Agnew paid the following touching and eloquent tribute to the memory of the late Ex-Chief Justice Black.

Mr. Chairman.—I am glad your adjournment on Saturday has given me an opportunity of meeting with you in the expression of sorrow and grief for the death of an eminent citizen, great lawyer and an upright judge.

My first personal knowledge of Jeremiah S. Black began in 1852, when holding a special court at Greensburg. It was just at a time when the controversy upon the statute of limitation leading to the overthrow of the opinions of Chief Justice Gibson in Wagoner vs. Hastings and cognate cases, jostled under the exalted administration of Judge Black, for the former chief justice, and caused his strong nature to rebel in a spirit of boiling indignation, so marked afterward in his dissent in the second case of Hole vs. Rittenhouse.

Judge Black was a true type of a class of men called from the middle walks of life, who, by the vigor of his intellect, varied acquirements and native energy, force their way to the highest positions, and command recognition, notwithstanding the absence of early culture and of mere polish, or refined training.

—Lancaster is proud in the possession of two big sunflowers, measuring respectively forty-eight and forty-nine inches in circumference.

The Annual Visit to the State Institutions.

On August 13th the County Commissioners, accompanied by Clerk of Courts, W. B. Dodds, County Treasurer, J. H. Miller and his estimable lady, left Butler on the 7:30 train on the West Penn railroad, to pay the annual visit to the State's prison and other institutions, wherein there are parties confined from this county for punishment, correction and medical treatment.

The provisions furnished the prisoners were shown to us and were of the best quality. All admit they are treated well but, at the same time, are longing for the day to come when they will be set at liberty. On Tuesday we boarded the Leetsdale Accommodation and visited Dixmont Hospital; arrived there about 10 A. M. and introduced ourselves as the representatives of Butler county.

There are several men from this county that possibly would be as well at home; they are out at work there and they could do the same at home.

On Wednesday we visited the Reform School at Morgantown where we had four scholars, viz: Pearl and Lillian St. Clair, Mary Collins and one from the borough of Butler; these are all anxious to get home.

We were invited to dinner along with some other visitors, by Mr. Quay and his lady, who is highly educated and a great talker, and entertained us with a description of how the institution was run.

Many a man's religion is very fair religion if measured by the standard of the old saw—"This a good knife; it will cut butter when you need it."

It is pretty well decided by the moral people of this country that the sparrow must go. It is plainly said that he pecks at the green corn and fills his crop with the seeds that the farmer plants; but the real reason for his compulsory retirement is that he killed Cock Robin, and confessed the murder.

No family dyes were ever so popular as the Diamond Dyes. They never fail. The black is far superior to logwood. The other colors are brilliant.

The Discovery of Luray.

A correspondent of the Atlanta Constitution tells its readers how the cave was discovered, and how the party making the discovery were deprived of their gain.

A wandering photographer who chanced to be near Luray (then Lorraine) was impressed with the belief that there was a cavernous formation in some of the hills that throng about the village.

For a long time they were untraced. One morning, however, they came upon a bowl-like depression in the side of a mountain, from which they thought a vague current of air was issuing.

They discovered the cave, the hole was carefully covered over, and the discoverers, keeping their secret, sought the owner of the land.

As soon as railroad people became satisfied of the extent and beauty of the newly discovered cave, they organized a company with a capital of $100,000, and bought the cave from Mr. Campbell and the photographer.

The cave is 340,000 feet below the surface of the earth, and is 500,000 feet long.

How to Draw a Congregation. Several years ago we were a resident of Northwestern Louisiana, near the confines of Texas.

The virtues of Watermelon. "The gay and festive watermelon," said a State Street physician, "is a powerful diuretic, and aperient, and the pulp has a delicious refrigerating taste."

When partaken of in immoderate quantities it is likely to result in colic, pain, cramps; and if fermentation should set in congestion and dysentery will follow.

—When the man has so far mastered himself that he can live within his income he has made a long stride toward the kingdom of heaven.

—A persistent fly, who is determined to rest awhile on a person's nose, will do as much to rattle his temper as a homely proverb, but a true one.

—A person may have just skill enough horseback to buy a goose to ride on, said a wise man three hundred years ago.

Useless Fright. To worry about any liver, kidney or urinary trouble, especially Bright's disease or diabetes, as Hop Bitters never fails of a cure where a cure is possible. We know this.

The National Park.

The London Times, of the 18th inst., gives more than three columns to the subject of the Yellowstone Park, fully half of which is devoted to the rather arduous task of telling how to get there.

The National Park is not only as large as two English counties, it is as large, or even larger, than two American States, viz: Rhode Island and Delaware, and it lacks but little of being just half the size of the State of New Jersey.

Continuing his conversation, Judge Black said he considered Blaine the strongest man on the Republican side, and if he were a candidate, and his friends concluded to support him, he would not stand the remotest chance of an election.

The hot springs and the great canyons of the Yellowstone have been made familiar to the public through repeated descriptions and magazine illustrations.

There is a tie in the affairs of well-to-do that often leads on to the Divorce Court.

—An obituary in an exchange pictures the departed on the other shore "anxiously watching for the coming of her loved ones from earth."

—Buttermilk is becoming quite a fashionable drink and is on sale in all the large saloons in the cities.

—Fifty thousand copies of Mr. Blaine's "Twenty Years in Congress" have already been sold and the publishers expect total sales to reach one million.

—A young man named Hogan, residing in Scranton, has entered suit against several persons for conspiracy and pecuniary. He claims he was introduced to a wizard who cast a spell over him, making him believe that he was president judge of Lackawanna county.

—Henry Groff, a butcher from Chalfant, Pa. met with a singular accident one day last week. He was riding in the rear of a market wagon, and in hurriedly alighting, a gold ring worn on his little finger caught on a hook.
