A Sharp Legal Point.

A novel case was decided by the Supreme Court of Ohio, last Tuesday, which has attracted some considerable attention. A young man named Streight, a prisoner in the penitentiary, was released by order of the court. Streight had been convicted of perjury under the following circumstances: He fell in love with a young lady of his town and became engaged, much to the chagrin of the girl's parents. who would not have it. A ruse was resorted to. Young Streight, when he got his license, swore the girl was eighteen years old. The huswas afterward arrestand ed and convicted of perjury. The case was taken to the District Court on error. It appears that when the Probate Judge was re-elected he continued his deputy without swearing him over again or requiring a new bond, and it was claimed by the defense "Have you any statement to make in diminishing among the people of this regard to your motive for killing that that the deputy was not an officer, and therefore not empowered to administer the oath. The District Court held that he was an officer de facto, and that ful." the oath was binding. The Supreme Court now decides that the deputy was not an officer de facto or de jure, and therefore had no power to administer the oath, and that Streight was therefore not guilty of perjury. This is a very fine point, and will prove instruc-tive to the Probate Judge of the State. fore not guilty of perjury. This is a very fine point, and will prove instruc-Important Pension Decision.

--Not one person in a hundred at tne age of sixty, can say that they are free from rheumatic pains. All can be cured of this most dreadful disease by the use of Rheumatic Syrup.

To whom it may concern: WOLCOTT, N. Y., April 11, 1882.

This to certify that I am an engineer by trade, and for the last five years have been troubled more or less with rheumatism, and for the last five weeks before this date I have been entirely unable to work, and when I commence ed using the Rheumatic Syrup I could hardly leave my chair. After using one-half of a bottle of the Syrup I began to grow better, and am now at work again as usual, having been cured with three bottles. I should ad vise any one troubled with rheumatism to use Rheumatic Syrup. Enough cannot be said in its praise.
