The above is an old time expression and is nearly as "old as the hills," but yet it is occasionally brought into good use, and placed in a position where it counts and adds great weight to the words accompanying it. This is true In the following testimonial sent to Dr. B. Hartman & Co., by Messrs. Parret & Son, druggists, of Greenfield, Ohio,

who say:
"Send us some more advertising Your medicine is selling like hot cakes. Send us a good supply, for we need it badly."

These men know when they handle a good thing. Judging from the above Peruna and Manalin must be in good demand in the country. Being com-posed purely of vegetable ingredients, druggists feel safe in recommending them to their friends. Send for the pamphlet on the "Ills of Life."

Two ladies were walking along East Genesee street last evening when a zephyr lifted the hat of one of them and sent it whizzing a block away A young gentleman who saw the picture of despair which came over the face of the owner of the hat, went in pursuit of the flying specimen of the milliner's art, overtook it and returned it to the young woman. Japanese Social Life.

In a recent lecture Prof. E. S. Morse dealt specially, with the social characteristics of the Japanese. A most conspicious feature of their intercourse with each other is, he said, their politeness. No harsh words are ever heard, no eagerness for selfish advantage, no indifference or forgetfulness of the feelings of others. They do not salute by shaking hands, but by bowing, unusual consideration or cordiality being expressed by profounder bows or more numerous repetitions thereof. The rich people dress their children in the most inferior garments in sending them to school in order that the feelings of the poor children, who can get no other, may not be hurt by any contrast There is no profanity in their language. A trifling mishap or offense is not unfrequently met among our people with a volley of oaths; but a Japanese, a volley of oaths; but a Japanese, when wrought up in his feelings to the highest pitch, never utters any stronger expression than what in our language would be the exclamation, "how vexatious!" How Watch Cases are Made.

In buying a silver watch case great care should be taken to secure one that is solid silver throughout. The cap of most cheap silver cases is made of a composition known as albata, which is a very poor substitute for silver, as it turns black in a short time.

The backs of such cases are made much thinner than those of an all silver case, being robbed in order to make the cap thicker and get in as much as possible of the cheap metal. Another important point in a silver case is the joints or hinges, which should be made of gold. Those of most cheap cases are made of silver, which is not a suitable metal for that purpose. In

Sr. LOUIS, Mo., Fqb. 17, 1888.

In our long and varied experience in handling watches, we cannot but acknowledge and give our testimony that the Keystone Solid Silver Watch Cases are the best made to our knowledge. Having no soldering they remain homogeneous, harder and silver than they would be were they heated for soldering, and have more resisting power against pressure than any other cases in the market.
