

BUTLER CITIZEN. WEDNESDAY, APRIL 16, '84.

New Advertisements. Notice to School Directors of County Superintendent's Office.

LOCAL AND GENERAL. "Father, what is that at the gate?" "Hush, my child, it is a candidate."

—Charles Reade, the great English story-writer, died in London last Friday.

—The rabbits' nest last Sunday morning contained several colored eggs. Some of the new dyes are immense.

—The Allegheny "Mail" says that J. S. Maxwell, of Butler, has accepted a position at Cape May, N. J., for the summer.

—Ben Haselton has re-furnished his show windows for neatness and elegance as now furnished by the Livery House.

—Our grocery men are paying 15 cents for eggs, 25 for butter, 25 for potatoes and from 1.25 to 1.50 for the bushel.

—Of the nine cases on the trial list for last week but one—that of W. A. Lewis, Esq., vs. Anthony Goldinger—has been called for trial.

—Forepaugh and Barium are having a great time over the merits of their white elephants. Barium claims that Forepaugh's white elephant is a painted or stained one, and publishes affidavits of the men who do the work.

—Property in Butler continues to change hands. A. Wick lately purchased the blacksmith property across the alley from his home.

—The business men of Sharon have formed an association and have declared war against peddlers and hucksters doing business contrary to law.

—The young man who wears flashy neckties finds himself growing in demand among the ladies as the crazy quilt mania becomes more violent.

—George Stamm has contracted to furnish one of the new glass houses, now under construction at Tarentum, with 400,000 brick.

—According to the Shoe and Leather Review some samples of sole-leather, lately tested, were found to contain from 20 to 40 per cent of extra weight, added by soaking the leather in glucose or grape sugar.

—The trade dollar is to be redeemed at its face value until January, 1885. At the present time it is the House of Representatives says. The Senate has not yet acted on the bill.

—A colony of twenty-five families left Pittsburgh on last night, for Seattle, Washington Territory, which they propose to make their permanent home. If favorable reports are received several hundred more will follow their example.

—A new and correct map of Butler county, giving township, borough, and farm lands, railroads, postoffices and oil developments, is being made. A new farm line map is being made of the Bald Ridge district.

—Four planets are now visible in the evening sky. Venus is the west shines very large and bright, while Jupiter may be seen nearly overhead. Not far from Jupiter shines a bright red planet, and in the north is found Saturn, a silvery hue.

—Mr. Joseph Fisher, Sr., of West township, was in Butler last Thursday morning, apparently in his usual health, and was seen turning home, while sitting on a chair, dropped dead. Heart disease is supposed to have been the cause. He was about 72 years of age.

—The judges from the lists of Treasurer's sales of real and personal property published in the papers of adjoining counties, the people of this county are exceptionally prompt in paying their taxes. The amount of taxes, for instance, the list of properties to be sold for taxes takes up eight full columns of the print.

—Our County Commissioners lately made a trip to Smithport, the county seat of McKean county, to examine the Court House there, which was built a year or two ago. The Miner says that "they were very favorably impressed with the architectural beauty and convenient arrangement of our building, and expressed themselves strongly disposed to adopt the same general plan with such additions and improvements as might seem necessary or advisable."

—Gentlemen who pay considerable attention to the raising of small cattle, says a exchange, have found out that grass is not doing well as they should. It became known that the old, long bark on the vines was a harbor for some insect that damaged the blossoms. For a year or two past removing bark early in the spring has been tried, and good crops of the business fruit have been raised.

—The whistling craze is the latest in fashionable circles. In New York there is a colored man who was once owned by Henry A. Wise, more recently by George Louder, and now by a white man. He is now a member of the club, and has many pupils as he can attend to. They are mostly males ranging from 10 to 16 years. He guarantees to cure the disease, and gives the lips a pony, kisy appearance. In a more recent case, a colored man, who had the disease, developed the chest and induces cheerfulness.

—A dispatch from Millerstown to the Pittsburgh Dispatch, dated last Wednesday, stated that Frederick Jackson, of Millerstown, and Harry McCull, a Kansas City machinist, entered into partnership to manufacture and conduct a machine shop at Bald Ridge. McCull being an excellent workman was to be the practical manager, while Jackson, who is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, was to be the theorist. His father placed money in the credit in bank. Now young Jackson has gone leaving his father a mystery, and it is alleged that his servant, a Miss Harmon, has fled with him. He is 26 years old and leaves a wife and a child to look in vain for his coming.

—The temperature changes last week confirmed the old weather war. Three days ago it was 40, and pays them back in worse ones. Since Friday, however, we have had very fine weather, and the farmer, gardener and candidate will make the most of it. It is probable that the interval between the "borrowing days of April" and the setting in of the copious showers, will be longer than usual. The fine weather until the "May cold" will be due. In this connection we will mention that the late service rendered by the late Mr. McCull, at Butler daily at 10 a. m., and is repeated in the Postoffice.

—"Jim Lewis, of Petrolia," still continues to get his name in the papers. A dispatch from Butler last Tuesday says that he was arrested on a charge of stealing a pair of trousers, and was taken to the county jail. The following morning he was released on $1000 bail, and was taken to the county jail. The following morning he was released on $1000 bail, and was taken to the county jail.

—No special attention seems hitherto to have been called to the remarkable fact that American statesmen who have recently been appearing in Harper's. They have included, among others, the names of Washington, Jefferson, Madison, and Alexander Hamilton, besides several smaller portraits for the May number, we are promised Monroe, Henry Clay and Rufus King; and Mr. Kruehl, the distinguished engraver who has done most of these, is understood to be busy upon the younger Adams, Jackson, Calhoun, Webster and others. The portrait of Jefferson in the January number, also, should be mentioned. Many of these have been engraved from original paintings or drawings not before reproduced, and the result is likely to be an American portrait gallery fully presented in the highest style of the especially American art of wood engraving.

—A lot of gypsies with their women and babies, old horses and mules, were seen and keys arrived in Butler last Thursday afternoon, to the great delight of the school children, who were in town they offered $100 to settle, and this being accepted, gave a check for that amount on a western bank. The bank was wired to the treasurer, and the money was sent. "Yes, there is good for any sum under $100,000," it is also reported that their babies lately died in their arms in the woods, and that after performing some sort of a ceremony over the body they fed it to the bear.

—The condition of our Main street is a disgrace to the town, but as the town is several thousand dollars in debt, the Council do not feel warranted in paying any of it at present. Some work on the street will, of course, have to be done this summer, the gutters must be cleaned out, and some new curbs should be built immediately. It has been suggested by a prominent citizen of the frontage of Main street, that each of the owners of such property pay half the street—from the curb to the center of the street—fronting his property. This is a splendid idea, and we would like to see it acted upon by the majority, if not all, of our business men. The man who would leave a mud hole in front of his building while the others paved, would likewise incur.
