—A nation's industry is its wealth.

Destroy that and it is poor indeed. -Our laws should give the same protection to the citizens in their occupations as in their persons.

-That policy which gives work at fair wages is the true one, and that is the policy of the Republican party. —Special attention of those inter-meted is directed to the notice of the W O. T. U., in another place.

-A party that would not only re-luce a man's wages but cut off his nities for employment, is not oor man's party.

JUDGE STOWE, of Pittsburgh, has affirmed the constitutionality of the High License law, in a case brought be fore him to test that question.

-It may be laid down as an axiom that protection is a practical fact, and free trade a theory. Those nations only who have no trade are benefitted by free trade.

home productions makes an equal demand for home labor. Open your ports for the productions of low priced labor from abroad and you make ours a market for foreign goods at the expense of our own.

—Instead of establishing monopolice a protective standard of duties tends to destroy foreign monopoly fostering home competition. It is akin to that personal protection which is the foundation of government, for it defends the weak against the strong, and cares for our own peo-ple in preference to others.

THE Daily Oil News, is a new paper just established at Bradford, Pa., in the interest of the oil producers, by McMullen and Bradshaw. Its first number gives evidence of its ability to cope with the old enemy, the Standard crowd. Such a paper was needed by the producers.

-No country can profit as much by diversified industry as ours, for no country has such varied advantages and natural resources. To develop them is the duty our government, and to do this we must train our skill and make a home market for its products. Hence the settled policy of our party has been and is to protect home industries by the exculsion of what would destroy them.

Associate Judges May Refuse.

The Supreme Court at Pittsburgh last Monday handed down an opinion, sustaining the power of Associate Judges to refuse the granting of license, notwithstanding the President Judge may have decided to grant. The case was taken to the Supreme Court from Huntingdon county, were brought. The court instructed where the Associates overruled the the jury to find that Preston was the decision of the President Judge who granted licenses. The Supreme Court say the Associate Judges of a County have the right and power to do so and sustained their action in Huntingdon county in the matter.

Conferree Business Must Go.

In almost every section of this State we notice efforts being made to get clear of the old conferree system of nominating district candidates.

Crawford and Erie counties, a change to the popular vote system has already been made. Committees change. This will likely be the means of regaining a Republican Congressman up there. Crawford tained. may be congratulated on being freed from the old conferree business.

But other Congressional and Senatorial districts ueed the change as well. And in none perhaps more than in this Senate district, as well ties appear to be in order now.

as the new Congressional district. From the action in the other districts it is evident they don't consider it too soon to act in this matter, but have taken early action in order to more certainly secure the important object in view.

The Democrats in some districts of the State and also moving for a change in nominating. Over in the Fayette and Greene district they are trying to get away from the conferree system in all district nominations. The Republicans of the new Washngton county Congressional district are also moving for a change from the conferree to the popular vote sys-

Government Revenues.

Those who oppose a protective tar-iff assert that a reduction in tariff rates will cause a corresponding change in government receipts, and in this way an unhealthy surplus in the national treasury would be prevented. Common sense teaches that the reverse would be the result, for a lower tariff in most cases, would simply pay one this year, in order to qualify stimulate importations, and increase them for voting at the coming election the revenue instead of diminishing it. While the industries of the country would suffer complete or partial paral-ysis, no good would be accomplish-ed in any direction except in giving employment to laborers in foreign countries at the expense of American workmen. The moderate reduction voted upon age last year as well as in the tariff proposed by Carlisle and other Democratic leaders, for the purose of averting the dangers of a surplus, would thus have exactly the op-posite effect, it is with this sort of sophistry that the friends of free trade hope to deceive the people, and obtain a power that will enable them to legislate to that end. The only way to prevent such a catastrophe is given sufficient evidence that once in possession of complete power, t will make haste to carry out the pernicious and destructive theories which are certain to bring business depression and financial ruin. The way to prevent this is to vote for the ublican candidates, and thus insure

Republican candidates, and thus insure the triumph of the principle of pro-protection. The Republican party can be trusted to administer the government in all its departments; it can prevent the dire results which are predicted in regard to the surplus, without allowing so suicidal a policy as the overthrow of American indus-

FOR THE CITIZEN. Butler contains a population num bering as near as can be ascertained at present between six and seven thousand. Located near the center to prevent Democratic control, for it of the county in a beautiful depression, but elevated where the center the town lies so as to make good drainage. The town is surrounded by rather low hills, and watered by the Connoquenessing creek. The hills in this vicinity abound in stone and coal, of good quality, natural gas is found in large quantities, and oil is produced within a short distance, being good pumping wells and continuing for years at almost the some status. Butler lies 30 miles north of The 103rd Regiment.
