INTERESTING READING FROM THE "HERALD."

—The Supreme Court at Pittsburgh last week decided a case that may interest a good many people here. It was the case of a Harriburg furniture dealer who sold to a married woman, not a resident of this county, a bedstead and other furniture, and by letter told her to do so on his credit. The furniture was brought suit against the dealer, and the court will see that such a suit is not only credible but conclusive.

LIQUOR DECISIONS.

—Judge Magee of Pittsburgh has decided that liquor licenses can be transferred, under the act of 1863.
In the Supreme Court cases of E. H. B. vs. J. H. B. and J. H. B. vs. J. H. B. the court has decided that the transfer of a license is a contract, and that the license holder is bound by the terms of the contract.

A CHICAGO SUNDAY TRAGEDY.

The shooting of Millionaire Rawson, of Chicago, by his stepson, young Slaymaker, on a Chicago street last Sunday just as a congregation was leaving a church, is a shocking culmination of a disgraceful family quarrel, in which the millionaire, in a fit of temper, had been true, outraged every sense of decency and honor in his efforts to get rid of his wife by means of a divorce. He brought suit for divorce, and though he was unable to prove his charges, he renounced his wife after a time, and in his bill charged that the woman was not legally his wife, as her divorce from Slaymaker was null and void. This statement, following the abuse and ill treatment to which the woman and her son had been subjected by Rawson, drove the boy—who is only seventeen—to his act of murder. The affair is a sad one, though there are those who justify the action of the young man, in view of the fact that his much-injured mother has no recourse at law against her slayer. The old man will die, and his slayer will have to answer for the deed at the bar of justice. Whether he will be adjudged guilty or not, or whether he will be sentenced to a term of imprisonment, will be a problem the solution of which rests with the future; but whatever the result, the murder will be a nine-days' wonder, even in bustling Chicago, and the trial will doubtless take rank as a cause celebre in the annals of Illinois jurisprudence.

A Sad Drowning Accident.

An accident occurred at Foxburg last Monday, by which two men were drowned and four others had a very narrow escape from a like fate. Six men were employed ripping the piers of the bridge across the Allegheny at this place and at noon started for shore in a shallow, flat-bottomed boat. When near the middle of the river the boat was capsized and the occupants thrown into the water. Two of the men swam ashore, two others were rescued by a boat which put out to their assistance, but two brothers, named Jacob and Harry Neville, who were unable to swim, were drowned before aid could reach them. The body of Jacob Neville was recovered about 4 o'clock, and a diligent search is being made for the other body. Jacob leaves a wife and large family. The younger man was unmarried. Both were residents of S. Petersburg.

Burglary at Portersville.

Humphrey's store at Portersville was robbed one day last week, and the goods supposed to have been done by professional thieves. The New Castle News says that the thieves evidently got of a train at Wurttemberg, and broke into Floyd McMillan's barn and stole a horse and buggy. They drove to Portersville and hitched the rig on the out-skirts of the town. They then broke into Cleveland's blacksmith shop and stole the tools necessary to assist them in effecting an entrance into the store. They drilled a hole in the side door and put a charge of powder in it, but for some reason did not blow it off, perhaps fearing discovery. They got $10 in money out of a drawer and about $90 worth of goods of different kinds. They then drove the rig back to Wurttemberg, and let the horse go and they boarded a train for Pittsburgh. The horse returned with the buggy to the owner's barn.
