

HE CHEAPEST GROCER

STORE in Butler, three doors west of West Penn Depot. ing opened a fresh stock of GROCERIES s-sting of Coffee, Teas, Sugar, Syrup, Spices, Canned Goods of all kinds. Hams, Bacon, Lard, &c., &c.,

Tobacco and Cigars PLOUR of best brands and low prices; also, full line of Klingler's popular brands of family flour constantly on hands.

HAY, OATS, UORN and FEED of all kinds at lowest fleures.

No. 1. Salt, Lower any other House in Butler, ountry Produce wanted for which the higher tee will be paid. Call and examine our stoc and prices.

Goods delivered free to all parts of town. J. J. KEARNS & CO. 76 East Jefferson St., - - Butler Pa

WEST PENN HOUSE

R. B. GILCHRIST, Proprietor The People's Great

EXPOSITION! THE ALLEN PATENT WASHER

4. GREAT SHOWS IN ONE. 4.

We announce to the people far and wide that we will exhibit our collossal aggregation of startling wonders, to secure which all parts of the earth—Europe, Asia, and portions of the U-S. have been searched, and such an aggregation S. have been searched, and such an aggregation as has never been seen since the day Noah entered the Ark. The mighty Elephant, the great Rhinoceros, the Hippopottomas, the Chimpanzie, the Cu-rang-outang or run-out-and-stick-out-your tongue-out, the greatest living wonders of the age will excite no wonder wnen compared with the multitude of monster attractions on exhibition at our great moral Circus and Menagerie. The roars and howis of the would-be competi-tor who Apes the methods, but cries down the attractions of our own and only Greatest Show actions of a delighted populace. Remember this great show possesses no objectionable features and is the delight of the cultured and refined. We show under one canopy four great shows. the Largest Stock—Greatest variety—Best tractions. 3 Jolly Cl. wns. The greatest living, walking, breathing, talking curlosities of he age. Phunny Friedows-sure to sell you and all the people laugh when they see the bargains, they offer. Other and greater attractions greet the delighted eye on every side—the Production and Managers swinging in the fiving trapeze attached to the highest phacte of success, give such exhibitions of nerve and daring to sweeping reductions, gorgeous displays and wonderful burgains as to call forth the plandits of the most prudent and economical. The management beg leave to announce that in their undiffing zeal in the search for the rare and curious, assonishing results have always followed and we open for your inspection a collosisal collection of bright and new Fall Styles in Mens' Boys' and Childrens' Ciothing, Hafa, Caps Underwear, Shitts, Collars, Cuffs, Ties, Hoslery, Handkerthiele, Mufflers, Gloves, Mittens, Umbreller, Brushes, Swalbes, Satchels, Straps, Brushes, Combs, Jewelry, Corests, Jerseys, Stockings with a full line of Notions, & Big bargains all through the show,

AND NOVEL

D. A. HECK'S,

BUTLER, - PA.

A J FRANK & CO.

MENICINES. AND CHEMICALS FANCY AND TOILET ARTICES,

PONGES, BRUSHES, PERFUMERY, &c. Physicians' Precriptions carefully com-unded, and orders answered with care and spaces. Curators of medicines is complete transfed entries, and of the best quality.

45 S. ut's Main Street, BUTLER, ·

BANERS COP LIVER OLL JNO C. BAKER & CO.,

DENTISTRY.

manner. Main street, Butler, Union Block

J. S. LUSK, M.D.,

Dr. S. A. JOHNSTON,

SAMUEL M. BIPPUS, Physician and Surgeon. No. 10 West Cunningham St.,

BUTLER, PENN'A DR. R. C. McCURDY.

Physician and Surgeon,

No. 88 and 90, S. Main St.,

BUTLER, · · PA [4-9-'86-1y] H EITENMULLER, Prop'r.

100 ACRES,

BRICK HOUSE

75 ACRES CLEARED,

alance in good timber. Will sell extreme w for eash. For particulars inquire of J. R. WICK, Rinersburg, Clarion Co., Pa,

Why it is Superior to all Others. ist. ITS being enclosed it retains the high temperature so necessary in removing 2nd. THERE being no Friction clothing to wear it. 3rd. THE peculiar action of the water in the Machine (which cannot be understood unless one sees it) forcing a strong current of water through the clothing at every virturation of the Agitator, (which is caused by the peculiar construction of the top of the Machine.

SHIRAS & HAYS, Butler, Pa

A New Frame House

Good barn and all other necessary outbuildings. Land all level, and in good state of cultivation, good well water, both hard and soft, and good orehard of all kinds of fruit. For price and terms apply to me at my furniture store in Pros-

C. M. EDMUNDSON

Wanted.

We want a few live men to take orders for a full line of choice pursery stock. Our stock is all selected and guaranteed first class. We furnish a handsome Outfit FREE, also fruit SAMPLES in SEASON. A WORKER never fails with us. Don't delay but write at once for terms, &c. to

EDW. O. GRAHAM, NURSERYMAN, Rochester, N. Y.

CHOICE FRUIT.

Beautiful Shrubbery.

Ornamental Trees

ne everything else in the Nursery line, of the New England Nurseries. Chase Bros. & Co., N N. I will call upon you in the near future and olicit your orders for Spring delivery.

A. H, FALLER, Agent,

H. DOUGLASS, -DEALER IN-

STATIONERY

OF ALL KINDS, Books and Periodicals. CHEAP TABLETS,

Paper,

Eagle Building, Main St., BUTLER, - - PA,

M. F.&M, Marks Invite your inspection of their stock of FALL and WINTER

Millinery Goods. Receiving goods every week their stock is always FRESH AND COMPLETE.

The publication a few days since of the O. K. WALDRON, Graduate of the Philadigle of the delphia Dental College, is prepared fac-simile of President Penbody's letter is to do anything it the line of his profession in a still the subject of much comment. pricty to say a kind word of the result of a treatment other than that prescribed by a regular practitioner; and the time was when a man using an advertised remedy did so more or less surreptitiously. However, this has happily given away to a broader and more liberal view of things, typfiled in Mr.

Dr. S. A. JOHNSTON,
DENTIST, — BUTLER, PA.

All work pertaining to the profession executed in the neatest manner.

Specialties:—Gold Filings, and Painless Extraction of Teeth, Vitalized Air administered.

Office on Jefferson Street, one door East of Lowry House, Up Stairs.

Office open daily, except Wednesdays and Thursdays. Communications by mail receive prompt attention.

N. B.—The only Dentist in Butler using the best makes of teeth.

JOHN E. BYERS,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON

Office No. 65 South Main Street,

BUTLER, — PA.

BUTLER, — PA.

ELY'S CATARRH Cream Balm Nasal Passag es, A 1 I a y spain and in-Heals the sores, restores the Senses of

BUTLER COUNTY Mutual Fire insurance Co. Office Cor. Main & Cunningham Sts.

3. C. ROESSING, PRESIDENT. WM. CAMPBELL, TREASURER H. C. HEINEMAN, SECRETARY

DIRECTORS: Samuel Anderson, J. W. Burkhart, Henderson Oliver, James Stephenson, N. Weitzel, H. C. Heineman, LOYAL M'JUNKIN, Gen. Ag't. BUTLER, PA.

Planing Mill

HORTICULTURE & FRUIT GROWING

LUTHER TUCKER & SON, Publishers,

TWO GOOD PAPERS

THE WEEKLY

BUTLER CITIZEN.

Both Papers $2 for one Year

The Weekly Chronicle Telegraph

best American authors; Fashion notes and suggestions for the Household, by leading writers; Amusements for the Family Circle, Agricultural notes,

Latest Financial and Market Reports, General News and a choice selection of interesting reading for everybody

Send a postal card to the Weekly Chronicle Telegraph, Pittsburg, Pa.

for a sample copy.

We will send the CITIZEN and the Weekly Chronicle Telegraph, to any address in the United States or

RUPTURE of BILL Arch SEAse at Onc

Canada, for one year for $2.00

FL. ORING.

Lumber Yard

fectly easy." MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS IN

Rough and Planed Lumber OF EVERY DESCRIPTION. other thing will be seen:

and, or the seen and, or the seen alone, and, or the seen alone, alone, alone, "We'll keep you company, Walter.

"We'll keep you company, Walter. in the fact than he had himself. MOULDINGS, over, to make sure that all was right. Brackets, Guaged Cornice Boards. SHINGLES & LATH in a pocket of his pants. He was too old a bird-had cut too much eye

Country Gentelman

AGRICULTURAL WEEKLIES.

went up with a porter to the

LIVE STOCK and DAIRYING.

While it also includes all minor departments of Rural interest, such as the Poultry Yard, Entohoology, Bee-Keeping Greenhouse and Grapery, Veterhary Repiles, Farm Questions and Answers, Fireside Beading, Domestic Economy, and a summary of the News of the Wook. Its MARKET REPORTS are unusually complete, and much attention is paid to the Prospects of the Crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell. It is liberally illustrated, and by HECENT ENLARGEMENT, contains more reading matter than ever before. The Subscription Price is $2.50 per year, but we now offer a SPECIAL REDUCTION in our NEW CLUB RATES FOR 1888! morning!

of amusement within easy reach He was thus engaged when he and handsome. The two eyes, from kindly smile playing around them. CHRONICLE TELEGRAPH. "Am I addressing Mr. Applebee, Seth did not intend to be imposed upon. Not he. He would have no sharpers picking him up.

"That's my name, sir," he replied crisply, giving the man a cool, almost a contemptuous look. went on, taking no notice of the in-tended repulse. "And I am sure of another thing: I saw you here two years ago. Am I not right? Seth was really surprised. He did mentioned to the host the circumstance of his former visit. "Certainly, sir. I was here two vears ago."

in Albany; but a year ago I removed to this city, where I have established a good business. If you are Custis led the way to a far corner, thinking of purchasing goods, you where the glare of the innumerable might find it to your advantage to give me a call. At all eyents, you can look in and see me. take my card?"
Seth took the bit of pasteboard,

CUSTIS, HAMILTON & CO., IMPORTERS. DEALERS IN FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS.

BUTLER. PA., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1887

he would call if he could make it in of poker." Put away the ice-cream freezer, his way, the gentleman started as 'No, no," said Hamilton promptly. though to turn away; but he thought "I should be agreeable—in fact I Closet now the gowns of tulle Shelve the straw and lemon-squeeze better of it, and sat down. He com- should enjoy it-but Mr. Applebee is For the weather's getting cool. Applebee how business was in his feel that I have no-section; and, gradually. he led the "Hol' on, ole fello Soda fountains are deserted, lions of dollars a year.

me take my turn.

you do with yourself?"

place of amusement.

But Seth stopped him in full ca-

By and by said Hamilton :

Where did you drop from?"

"I'm just from Uncle Tom's "

Seth Applebee, of Pumpton.

senior partner, and the junior-the

After a little pleasant chat, the junior partner believed he'd have one of Slovinski's incomparable punches,

a decided effect.

Co .- of our firm."

cured to the last bale.

rot to do it for him?

meet us here this evening.

fellow-"An brough!" Seth said to himself.

"Yes. And i'faith! here he is!"

More effusive greeting, and the new-ing, witty chat, without an oath or a not have found three clergymen more free from vulgarity and profanity.

but Alec. and I have agreed to enjoy a game of whist this evening, and it o arise and start away, when, sudden-

"Applebee, I want you to do in

"Perhaps," suggested Seth, with a rearning look toward Custis, "the ly, he called them back, and then this just as you wish. in you say

Though, I confess, it's rather late."

"Look bere, my dear boy!"

as it felt at that moment. They went thereafter were in a moderate-sized, ished clubroom, with a large, elegant side-board at one end, on which were

There were a dozen gentlemen in where there was an empty table.

rum-and-brandy punches.

bell-"a pack of cards, and-Gentle-

Will you go with us?

"Hamilton, I'm sorry to leave you,

By and by said Custis, regretfully:

'Who ?-Alec ?"

omer was introduced.

on-and one of Ours"

time we were at it."

urned to his companion.

"Who was it?"

'I declare-before we go-

Tennis now gives place to pool And the iceman's disconcerted Since the weather got so cool. From the seashore hies the plumber, Getting Cold.

Sad converse the oysters hold, Seeing signs of shrinking summer, Now the weather's growing cold. Adieu, dog days (water spaniels), Lucky he whose bin is coaled!: Welcome now, back-number flannels, Hang it ain't the weather cold?

Seth's Elephant.

How He Found it--A Sketch

Seth Applebee was one of the smartest young men in Pumpton. At the age of eight-and-twenty he bad established himself in business. Before that he had been clerk and salesman in the principal store of the town-a common country store keep-ing for sale about everything the housekeeper or farmer can need to purchase; and the store which he had opened, on his own hook, was of the same character. An aged aunt Hamilton's proposition eagerly. It casual observer could not have seen had done much toward helping him in the outset so that he might begin business with his head above board.

"There, Seth; take that, and make the very best use of it you can," the good old lady said, at the same time living to her nephew a check for a large amount-large for her; and large for him-a check for him-a check of four figures, and the first figure was not a one. "You are going to New York to purchase goods?" "Yes, aunt, I wish to make my own selection. And, further, to tell the truth. I want to see the elephant. Don't be alarmed He's a very inno- in my life." cent animal, I assure you. I use the erm figuratively, simply meaning that I will see a few of the sights as my own master, with nobody at my ing himself. They went into the sawhere I must go. I fancy it will be rather pleasant? "Seth, you will take care of yourself. You will not allow your feet to stray into any of the snares and pitfalls which evil-minded men are ever ready to dig for the unwary. You will be careful." "You bet? Aunt Patience, you're trump; and I know you mean well. You would do anything for me, I do believe; and I can't wonder that you should feel a bit anxious; but don't you worry - not one bit. Dear aunty, let me tell you I have cut my eye-teeth. The man that can raise raise a hand on me isn't up and about, not quite yet. "What d'ye mean, Seth, by 'raisin'

"O, that is a technical term, aunt. signifying to take one in-to pull wool over one's eyes; but do be per-

From this it will be seen that Seth had traveled somewhat outside the boundary of his Sabbath-school; and, whether he had associated with sporting characters, or not, their language had become familar to bim. One other thing will be seen: If Seth

On a Monday morning, bright and but it must be very lightly. My learly, Seth looked to be sure that then he took out the bank-notes that lay in another pocket and ran them Eight hundred dollars. That was the sum he had put in there on Saturday, and he found it intact. The book was put away in a deep breastpocket of his vest, and buttoned snugly up. His money for current expenses he carried in a small wallet.

tooth-to expose a large amount of money in public or on the road. Seth Applebee landed in New York, on the North river side, just at close of day, and taking his light grip-sack in his hand, he shouldered and elbowed the swarming Jehu out of his path, and made his way on foot to the hotel where he had stop-ped two years before, while on a visit to the city with his employer His memory was good, and he had no trouble. The house was just as he had last seen it, and the genial landlord received him most kindly. In fact, Seth fancied the man was spec ially glad to see him. He evidently y remembered him, and was proud of his patronage. If he was not, then his every word and act belied

Seth took the key of his room, and floor. It was very high up; but what a view he would have in the

After supper Seth sat down and took up an evening paper. He thought he would look for the places came aware that somebody had come up and stopped directly in front of him. He looked up. and saw a neatly dressed, business-looking man of middle age, with a face winsome behind a pair of gold-rimmed glasses ooked at him sweetly, with a warm gentlemen might not like the company of a stranger." of Pumpton?" Custis, indignantly, "don't you go to calling yourself a stranger. bless you! you and George will just fill the bill-make a square game of

"I was sure of it," the gentlemen is an 8-page, 56-column paper, and Seth was really surprised. He did contains choice Original Stories by not know the man had been near enough to overhear him when he bottles, decanters, and glasses, innumdance the room when our party entered, sitting at different tables, engaged at cardplaying; and Seth saw gold and silver, and bank notes on the tables.

and read thereon:

When our hero had promised that for the fun of it, to try a few rounds "No, no," said Hamilton promptly, menced coversation by asking Mr. is under my friendly guidance, and I "Hol' on, ole fellow!" interrupted young countryman on to talk of him-self, of his business at home, his so-cial opportunities, his friends, and, finally, of the business that hed bro't you!" him to the great city.

Then Mr. Hamilton opened his budget. He told of his own busi-little time all to ourselves. And, say, ing any of your Pumpton tricks on "Ah! but it reqires labor, my dear us." Applebee. I promise myself this "O summer a trip to Enropo. Thus far fear." "Oh! I'll play square, don't you ness. What a business it was! Mil- Applebee,old fellow, don't go to play

And they went at it. Seth had Mr. Custis has done our foreign purchasing; but I tell him he must let found the elephant, but he did not died on a farm near Bear Lake, He knew it not then, know it. "But bless me! I had thought of the opera this evening. What will latter.

erates, whose business it was to entrap and fleece whomsoever they eration by which the owner of the Seth said he had thought of some trap and fleece whomsoever they Good! Let's go together. We'll could-three black-legs of the most borse and his two brothers, without decide where it shall be on the way." unscrupulous yet accomplished char- a dollar of capital, made a million By this time our young contryman acter. Perhaps a sharp-eyed news dollars apiece. The horse was had fallen in love with his new-found paper man, or a keen policeman of known as "the Prather horse," and friend. He not only gave him his experience, might have detected was formerly the property of the late confidence entirely, but he had taken something of their character in their him to his heart. He embraced faces and general appearance, but the was nearly 28 years old.

was just the thing. And pretty soon it. The man called Hamilton had they were in the street, walking up Broadway.

"By the way, Applebee, I'll tell you the truth. It is very seldom that I drink anything stronger than the spotted the victim when he landed on the village of Plumer, Venango country, in 1864. John Prather was of him. In his conversation with him in the office of the hotel he had farmer named Holmden, who lived on tea in the evening; but I am at this learned that he-Seth-had come to Pithole creek, seven miles beyond moment just in the mood for one of the city to purchase a large quantity Slovinski's punches. What say you? of goods; and, furthermore, that he the fall of that year representatives of Now, mark me. On no account let would pay cash for them. That was a new corporation, known as the Unenough. The man who had the cash ited States Oil Company, leased a for such goods as the Pumpton merchant contemplated purchasing was began putting down a well on it. reer. chant contempla
"Hamilton, not another word. I'm the man wanted.

The man called Custis had been on the sidewalk, and Hamilton had public out of millions of dollars in a for a punch. I never felt more like it And he spoke truly. He was already exhilirating. He was in just the public house. Then Custis had the mood for fun. He felt like enjoy- gone and notified the man called of Holmden's had any faith in the my own master, with nobody at my ing himself. They went into the sa- elbow to tell me what I must do, or loon—a place which reminded Seth the elephant had been brought Prather brothers thought that on the

at once of Aladdin's palace—a scene forth. At first Seth won small sums. Then of splendor, of which he had never he drank another rum and brandy ons on the farm, they might utilize seen the like before-where they sat down at a marble table and drank a pucch. By and by the stakes in the fact in a little speculation of their punch. Then they chatted a while. creased; and at length came the grand own. They had no money, but John turning point.

A hand-five cards-had been of the farm, made the latter an offer "Another punch!" filled out Seth | dealt to Seth which was wonderful. with flushed face and sparkling eyes. Four jacks. He couldn't let it pass. He bet the last dollar he had. Custis He was not used to mixed drinks, "saw bim," and "raised him" a hun-dred dollars, that is—bet a hundred took the chances of the boys being nor, for that matter, to much alcoholie drink of any kind- and the large goblet of punch already had produced more. Seth must cover it, or lose all able to raise the money, and readily he had put on the board, and give up that magnificent hand. It was by They had just drank the second punch, and Seth was smacking his far the best hand that had appeared drill on the United States lease had lips, when a fine looking gentleman, during the evening.

'. What do you do, Applebee?" of about his own age, approached them, whom Hamilton hailed with "Ho, Walter! This is a surprise.

"Then you won't go a hundred "Mr Curtis, let me present to you "Yes, by thunder! I will! I see Applebee, this is a nephew of the

> "What's the amount of the heck?" "Three thousand dollars! I rathe (hie) -- think that's good." "All right. Suppose I cash it." "That'll do."

The check was cashed. Seth had bet was covered by an equal states Company's scheme. George amount, and Custis raised it a thouamount, and Custis raised it a thou Seth could not refuse. While they sand more Seth looked at his hand. sipped the third punch Hamilton ask-Could he let it go? No. He "saw" ed Custis if the old man had secured the thousand-covered it with a certain cargoes, and invoices of silks thousand dollars of his own, and ter, and the two went on to Philaand velvets, and so on, just arrived. called.

"What you got?" Custis replied that they had been sewould not give it up so. His friend Hamilton, who sympathized with him deeply, and promised to the well, with the interest and a visit the well, with the interest and a visit the well. "Who, d'you suppose, the old man "Alec. Astor. Stewart was there, out when he saw Alec. bidding for safe through it, advised him to have the goods—supposing, of course. he was doing it for himself—he wouldn't tor with all the plack he could musgo against him. Aba! pretty neatly ter. And he took the advice.

He drank more rum-and-brandy punch, and played on—played until his friend Hamilton took him by the his friend Hamilton took him by the arm and led him to bed, promising to began flowing, spouting oil at a 300 As Custis thus spoke a second man call in the morning and "fix matters." The morning came, finding Seth about as miserable and unhappy as well "mysteries," and the news of pproached them-a splendid-looking Astor all it is posssible for a man to be. soaked his head in cold water, and sat down and thought. After a farm at once jumped among the mil-time he remembered the scene—re-lions in value. John and Abraham 'Mr. Applebee-Alexander Astor. time he remembered the scene-remembered enough to tell him what Prather were wild. Their brother Alec., this is Seth Applebee, of Pumpthe whole had been. It was ten o'clock before he gave up the friend-Naturally, another punch-very light for the three who had already ship of Hamilton entirely. By that strike, might even then have disposdrank. Then a few minutes of sparktime the truth was known to him He possessed of his three thousand vulgar word of any kind. Seth could eight hundred dollars, just a fifty-not have found three clergymen more dollar bank note, which Hamilton had put into his hand the last thing before leaving him.

cashed not ten minutes before his ar-Hamilton allowed the two friends rival the bank. So he went home, and after spending a week in bed, really and truly the Allegheny river. At Pittsburgh sick, he told to his old aunt the whole terrible story. Perhaps the the train had been one minute late old lady did wrong, but she felt in the Prather boys would have lost her heart that her dear boy had been $5,000,000, for John met his brothe punished sufficiently, and she did not | George and Duncan on the Girard believe that he could ever again be House steps, as they were on their led into error through the sin of gam- | way to close out the sale of the bling. After a time she gave him for $1,000,000. The three took the another check, of which he made such next train for Pittsburgh, and reachcried good and profitable use that, at the ed the Holmden farm the day before end of three years, he was able to pay the sixty days' refusal expired. back to her the full amount of that hole creek was then overrun with ex which he had expended in Seeing the cited oil-speculators, and almost any

Elephant. We trust this simple sketch may He went gladly. He went with all his heart never felt so large, nor it lead the stranger in the great city so full of eager desire for enjoyment, to be on his guard continually, and never accept the guidance of a man out-the four of them-and ere long whom he does not thoroughly understand -Sylvanus Cobb, Jr., in New very tastefully and artistically furn- York Ledger

The Use of a Pig's Tail.

rom the Omaha World. 1 Philosopher-Yes, there are many seless things in nature. A pig's tail, for instance, is of no use at all. Patrick-No use is it, you say. Did yez iver say a pig? 'Oh, ves.'

"Did yez ever thry to drive a pig into a new pen?" "No." gas-jets was somewhat subdued, and "Yez thry it some day. The tail was made to take hold of an' pull. Thin the baste thinks yez is thrying had answered the call of an electric to pull him out ov the pen an'in he men, you'll leave this to me-and four -Manchester-by- the-Sea has a The cards and the punches were handsome new library building, but brought The punches were drank, we doubt if it is any more serviceable the United States Oil Company was "My name is Hamilton, sir-George with sparkling wit and sentiment; than the one which we have here in Mr. Custis, I know you would like, and then Alee, Astor took the cards. Someraville - about-three- and-a-half-Say! Upon my word, I'd like, just miles-from-the-water.

Vacation Is Over.

"Vacation is over." the small boy cried. And the tears from his eyes did wipe; "The hateful old school begins," he sighed, "Just as apples and pears are ripe, And a fellow must lose all the fruit and fun,

'Cause vacation's over, and school's begun, 'Vacation is over," the farmer said, As he rubbed his hands in glee, And a man can enjoy his own fruit, instead Of having boys skin each tree; And the dog will have something better

A Story of Fortune in the Oil Regions--It is Recalled by the Death of a Horse Which was 28 Years Old.

BRADFORD, PA., Oct. 18 .- There Crawford county, a few days, a horse that in January, 1865, figured prominently in one of the most important He had fallen in with three confed- operations in the history of oil devel-George Prather, of Meadville. It

George Prather was one of three brothers-John, George and Abraham -who started a country store in The era of bogus oil companies demand. existence of oil thereabouts, but the strength of the United States Company's having begun actual operati view.

of $25,000 for the refusal of the remainder of his farm for sixty days As $25,000 was more than ten times signed the papers.

By the middle of November the reached third sand, the sand in which oil had invariably been found along

Prather, the son-in-law of the owner

"Say-I've got a check-I'll put Oil creek, but no oil was found. The that down for a hundred dollars, and drill was continued, however, to delay the day of failure and to give op-portunity for the placing of more of the company's stock with credulous speculators. Cold weather came on that hundred, and I'll—go—I'll—go —you five hundred better!"

for the time, just as the drill reached for the time, just as the drill reached a fourth sand, something till then unknown.

The Prather boys had not done concluded to push it in the market, tomer for the farm. At Pittsburgh he interested C. B. Duncan, of the firm of Duncan & Kent, in the mat delphia to dispose of the property. Toward the middle of January the work. His curiosity prevailed upon him to see what the character of the fourth sand was, and he fired up and started the drill. It had taken but a few turns when it dropped eight feet barrel rate. That was before the days of the strike on the Holmden farm soon spread through the region. George was in the East trying to sell the farm, and, ignorant of the oil ed of it for a song. Telegrams were delphia, but he could not be found. There was as yet no railroad commu nication between Oil City and Pitts burgh. George Prather owned a Hal thought, at length, of the very fleet and strong young horse, check. Could he stop its payment? and John mounted that horse, and Alas! he was too late. It had been started for Pittsburgh. He did not leave the saddle until he had made the entire distance, nearly 100 miles, over the crooked and hilly roads along > price was offered for land. The rise of Pithole city had begun. Mrs. Holmden, the old farmer's wife, refused to sign the deed to the farm unless the price was put at $125,000 and a present $5,000 in gold was given her. The $125,000 was quickly raised by selling a very small in terest in the farm, but the whole property came near being forfeited in the search for the $5,000 in gold. It was obtained through the banker Culver, of Rouseville, just in time to save the property. The Prather boys and Duncan made $4,000,000 on the property, and all left Pithole be bottom dropped out. three of the boys lost their fortunes afterward in speculation. George died in Meadville. The horse that had carried his brother to Pittsburgh on that eventful January day the farmer who owned it until its death last week. Long before the crash came at Pithole it was known that the capital of 25 cents.

with the news of the oil strike at Pit-hole was used by him for several years, and after his death was sold to

of selling its stock. That it became panies ever organized in the oil regions and was enabled to pay enormous dividends was to none so much of a surprise as to its projectors themselves. It made the fortune of every one connected with it, and is referred to still as the most successful wildcat venture in the history of any specu-

A Growl at the Postal Card.

The postal card is a device concocted by very small men to save a few cents of postage per annum at the expense of hundreds of dollars lost through unbusiness-like methods. It is the instrument of the coward and the refuge of dead-beats. Good men use it while they despise it, and | crop next season, mean men naturally take to it and perpetuate it. For two cents any perpetuate it. For two cents any ordinary business matter, intelligent they can harm. They will find a large portion of their food, and a impertinent gaze of post-officials and large flock can be raised at a very office subordinates, can be carried small cost if given plenty of room. from one side of the continent to the other; yet to save one small copper or ten days after, pick them over, uscent, alleged business men continue to write cramped and unintelligable all wormy one by burning them, as messages on postal cards that either the destruction of the nuts will be contains requests for which, in all good conscience, a postal stamp may do damage another season. should be enclosed, or are so unsatis-factory or unfilable that they inevitreceptacle of all nuisances, the office waste basket A, B. & Co. advertise a specialty in a trade paper. The next mail that sweeps from the north, east, south or west brings them a flood of postal cards, asking prices, discounts, etc. Not a word or indication on the postal card as to the business standing of the inquirer. Not a postage stamp attached or enclosed for a reply. No room for a courteous or business-like request. Simply a dirty little postal card and a thoughtless or impertinent

The postal card in business is a tattling interloper. It is a traveling nuisance, It has a seedy and sneaking appearance. It has the look of

When a Congressman Dies.

When a congressman dies his associates always set apart a few hours of the session to deliver eulogies upon the greatness and goodness of their departed associate. In the majority of instances the proceedings are a tional character like the late General Logan, the members outside of the delegation from the State of the deceased do not pay the slightest attention to what is going on. They either leave the hall or occupy the time in answering their correspond-

Address after address is delivered and then comes the customary resolution to print them in book form No less than 12,000 volumes are issued in each case, all neatly bound, and containing a handsome steel engraying of the deceased statesman. Each of these engravings cost the neat little general information: anything with the Holmden farm as sum of $500. Lately it has been a late as January, 1865. Then they very difficult matter to get the work done at even that figure. The number of portrait engravers competent The five hundred dollars which would see the failure of the United to do the work is limited, and in several instances it has be sary to send it out of the country low the widow and family 500 copies Sometimes there is considerable difficulty experienced in making up the book Boston Traveller.

Wanted Their Money Back. Charles C. Cooley, a former hotel proprietor in a small town in Adams Co., O., was in Cleveland last week seeking the aid of the police to bring to justice a gang of alleged swindlers who have brought sorrow on his gray head and depleted his purse. Last May he was induced by one J F. Brown of Kentucky, to purchase a royalty for a newly invented churn. Brown operated extensively in Adams, and so impressed the good people of that section of the country that were were millions in his scheme, that he had no trouble in disposing of royalties right and left. method was to sell the exclusive royalty for any county in the State purchased five of these, and Cooley, a botel keeper, paid Brown $300 for three counties in Northern Obio. He came up here and started out with poor success, and upon taking the churn to an expert the latter pro-Cooley then started to square things with young Brown, He found him at Jackson, W. Va., and there would have been a sanguinary meeting be tween the pair had not spectators interfered. Cooley then came back to Cleveland to secure a warrant for formed him that he had no jurisdiction in the matter and that an affidavit would have to be secured in Adams. This Cooley will do. This same Brown has operated extensively in Indiana, Ohio and West Vir-

A Woman's Nerve.

The Albuquerque (N. M.) Citizen records the courage and presence of mind of a lady of that place. While in her garden picking berries she felt something bite her on the neck just below the ear. She quickly put her hand to the place when a centipede She immediately brushed it off with her other hand, and, strange to relate, did not faint or scream, but ran int the house, and finding the ammoni bottle empty, took a big knife and stuck the blade into the fire in the stove until it got hot, when she applied it to the wound. Next she took some soda and applied that, fastening it by wrapping a cloth around gan neck. By this time her neck be to swell, and she says she felt out though the top of her head was ab to secede, and closed her teeth tightly to make sure that her head was not gone. In a short time she felt reliev ed, and then informed her daughter She did not even call for a doctor, but she has procured another supply -The weary and woe-begone expression of the dyspeptic is soon changed into one of health and hilarity by using Laxador. It only costs When your child is suffering, giva Grace and The Moon.

Dear little Grace at the window stood. Watching, that winter night,

The great round moon in the far blue sky

Where it shone so big and bright. Till a cloud swept over its shining face. Then she turned with a little pout;

"I wanted to look at the moon," she said

'But somebody's blowed it out!" Agricultural.

The corn that will keep best for seed is that which has cured well on the stalk and been hung in a dry

Where the dry weather has injured the pastures keep the sheep off, as they graze very close, the effect of which would be felt by the pasture The turkeys should be given full

After gathering the nuts, in a week

If the steers be poor and refuse to eat, or do not thrive, look for lice. ably find their way to that convenient If lice be present sponge them with a solution of insect powder, and give each steer half a pint of linseed meal daily in the food Many of the ills of cattle may be attributed to lice. A Kentucky farmer recommends that the best way to kill out willows is to peel them three or feet feet from the ground down to the earth, severing the bark from the tree, which should be done the latter part of spring, leaving the trees to stand, which die and make excellent stove wood.

A correspondent of the Farmers' Review thus gives a method for keeping cabbage: "Take firm heads, cut off the corner leaves and the stem to about one inch of the head, then wrap the man that asks the loan of ten two thicknesses of paper snugly cents until to morrow. Its breath is around the heads and hang them in a bad Kick it out .- Iron Trade Re. | cool well-ventilated cellar. Only a few leaves near the paper will become dry. Put them away in the fall before the snow comes."

How Cleveland Gets Up His

From the New York Sun (Dem.)] What sort of preparation has been bestowed by Mr. Cleveland upon his series of Western speeches? The question leads to a matter of some delicacy, which it is not altogether pleasant to discuss.

Respect for the office of the Chief Magistrate deters us from subjecting Mr. Cleveland to the indignity of the parallel column; nevertheless, literary conscience requires that the source o his eloquence should be plainly indicated. We print below one continuous passage from the Indianapolis speech, broken at intervals by the fragments of another continuous passage from the article on Indianapolis in a certain well-known repository of

"Indianapolis was first settled in 1819."
"Indianapolis was first settled by John Pogue in March, 1819."—The American Cyclopedja.
"One year thereafter its population numbered fifteen families."
"In about a year from that time it number-

"Chosen as the seat of the State Govern ment in 1821.
"It was chosen as the seat of the State Government in January, 1821."—The American Cyclopedia. "It was about that time laid out as a town and given its present name."

"At the same time the Legislature gave it its present name and appointed commissioners to lay it off as a town."—The Amsioners to lay it ou as a town."—The American Cyclopedia.
"It had no corporation until 1836."—The American Cyclopedia.
"And did not receive a city charter till 1847."

"And received a city charter in 1847."-The American Cyclopedia.
This passage in Mr. Cleveland's speech is lifted bodily from the American Cyclopedia. The slight changes in language—changes of the from the affirmative to the negative expression of the same idea—are such as in the ordinary cases of plagiarism serve to establish the intent of the literary pilferer. We shall not attempt to character for $200. The Sheriff of the county the Cyclopedia's facts and phrases. We are quite sure Mrs. Cleveland is not a party to the proceeding. Up to the present time she has undoubt-He came up here and started out to sell the patent churn. He met with poor success and area taking without a suspicion that the language was not original with him, or nounced it worthless and a fraud. the facts and ideas were drawn from any other source than his own pri vate stock of geographical and histor

Blaine's Happy Retort.

John G. A Leishman, of Pitts burg, who was in London at the same time that James G. Blaine was there, tells the following story as one which particularly delighted the American colony:

At a dinner party Blaine was mildly accused by an English politician of discourtesy in changing one of the customary forms of address in diplocustomary forms when the was Secretary matic documents when he was Secretary of State. Up to that time it had always been customary for English diplomats in making proposals to use the phrase "Her Majesty expects," while the corresponding term in American documents was "The President begs to hope," When Blaine took office he changed this, and wrote, "The President expects," and there-by offended English ideas of diploma-tic etiquette. Mr. Blaine did not avoid the point when called in ques-tion on the occasion named. He said: It may have been quite right for us to only "beg to hope" when we were only a little nation of five or six But now that we are 50 millions to your 35 millions, I think we have as much right to 'expect' as

The Englishman mouraful y knowledged the corn!

-A violin made for Louis XIV by Arnati has just been sold for $3,500 at Buda Pesth. -The railway companies in Russia are obliged by edict to use elec-

-Thirty-three thousand gas wells have been drilled in Pennsylvania and New York.

-A 10,000-pound plate was re-cently rolled near Pittsburg for a fictitious, and that its venture on the Holmden farm was entirely of the wildcat order, made for the purpose by its cooking action. Price 25 cts. and the heaviest ever rolled.

tric lights.