A Curious Case.

A curious case of citizenship is to be decided by the Iowa courts. In one of the towns of the State a Methodist minister appeared as prosecuting witness against a saloon-keeper. At election the saloonkeeper challenged the vote of the clergyman. on the ground that he was an itinerant Methodist minister, and being subject at any time to removal by the Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, could not, therefore, be a citizen of any town, city, county or State. The judges of election overruled the challenge, but the plaintiff has carried the case to the Su preme Court of the State. The Christian Advocate says that, as there are more than 25,000 Methodist minis ters in the United States, it will be a decidedly interesting thing "for it to be declared that they cannot be citizens. What Baking Powder Shall We

Use? This plain question comes home to every housekeeper. We all desire pure and wholesome food, and this cannot be had with the use of impure or poisonous baking powder. There can be no longer a question that all powders contain either alum, lime or phosphatic acid. As loath as we

Indeed, analysts He didn't seem to mind his arrest seem to find no baking powder en- and admitted taking both horses. tirely free from some one of these objectionable ingredients except the Royal, and that they report as chemically pure. We find some of the baking powders advertised as pure, to contain, under the tests of Professors Chandlers, Habirshaw and others, nearly twelve per cent. of lime, while others are made from alum with no cream of tartar. This, we presume, accounts for their lack of leavening power as sometimes complained of by the cook, and for the bitter taste found in the biscuits so frequently complained of by ourselves.

But aside from the inferiority the work done by these powders, the physicians assure us that lime and alum taken into the system in such quantities as this are injurious. Their physiological effects are indigestion, dyspepsia, or worse evils.

The question naturally arises, why do these cheap baking powder makers at said cemetery. The citizens of that use these things? Alum is three cents a pound, lime still cheaper. while cream of tartar costs thirty-five or forty. The reasons for the chemical purity of the Royal Baking Powder were recently given in the New S. McCullough is detailed as a com- York Times in an interesting description of a new method of refining ar gols, or crude cream of tartar. It seems that it is only under this process that cream of tartar can be freed from the lime natural to it and rendered chemically pure; that the patents and plant for this cost the Royal Baking Powder Company about half a million dollars, and that they main-

Professor McMurtrie, late chief chemist of the Department of Agriculture, at Washington, D. The following extract from his report would seem to answer the question repeated at the head of this article, and which is so frequently propounded by the
