Fleeting years have borne away The voice of Alfarata; Still sweeps the river on,

The Juniata is a wild and beautiful river formed by the union of three smaller rivers that rise in the Allegheny Mountains and unite near Huntingdon, Pa. The main stream the morning finds us on the head is 150 miles long, and it flows through the picturesque Juniata Valley until it loses itself in the broad Susquehanna River about a mile from Duncannon. The Iriquois Indians used to live in this valley, and Juniata is an Iriquois word. It was sometimes written Choniata. The song was composed by Mrs. Marion Dix Sullivan, the wife of John W. Sullivan, of Boston. Mrs. Sullivan was born in 1802 in Boscawen, N. H., near the beautiful Merrimac River. She was the daughter of Colonel Timothy

They saw the only way to farm in this locality was by using the mountain streams, so marshalled their forces, went to the first hills and began what is now the largest system of irrigation in the world, as they have now over 8000 miles of ditches large and small, in the territory through which the water is distribu ted over the farms in the valleys

> > Clouds of Moths.

The city of Reading, Pa., had a remarkable visitation of moths on the evening of August 1. Myriads of them infested the air, resembling at a distance a snow storm. They were first noticed flying around the electrie lights about 8 o'clock, and gradually increased to such numbers as to obscure the brilliancy of the lights. Passengers on the street cars, as they passed under the lamps, were covered with the insects, and handker chiefs, hats, and fans were plied vigorously to keep them off. Fires were built under the lights and heaps of the moths were burned. Pena St dently came from the South. are said to precede a hot wave, and a decided rise in the temperature is

At Easton, Pa. butterflies by the thousands flew around the sixty-four electric lights, lit on the carbons and then dropped dead in the globes When the men who renew the carbon visited the lights, they found on an average two quarts of dead butterflie on each globe, a total of four bushels, besides the lot that had fallen on the ground during the night,

Through the Rift.

A young man had made himslf home on a new farm, situated away from neighbors. At the bend in the wood-road he had cut a little opening, visible from the house, that wife and baby might see him, on his way, be fore he quite reached them. This clearing was called by them "the open place." The little one often ran to the door, during papa's absence, to

The little one was carried to auntie's house, out of danger's way, and did not return until after the dear, brave papa was carried to the "Rest that remaineth for the people of God." When the child returned to the sorrowing mother, he was told that papa had gone to heaven, but would come little boy some day. He often looked and longed for his father. The fatal fever attacked the boy. Just as the setting sun tinged all the sky, the darling, who had lain for days unconscious, suddenly opened his eyes and said: "Mamma, papa is tumin' by the open place." He reached his arms up towards the bright apparition. which unquickened eyes could no see, and sank back lifeless .- Detroit Free Press.

A Cure for Laziness.

A late reverend gentleman, who resided in Yorkshire, and was as well known for his eccentricity as his talents, one day sent his son, a lazy lad about twelve years, to catch the horse. The lad went sauntering along with a grain of corn in one hand and a bridle in the other, dragging the reins along the ground. "Thomas," said the father, calling after him in a very solemn tone of voice, "come here, Thomas, I want to say a word to you before you go." The lad returned, and the parson

"You know, Thomas, that I gave ou a great deal of counsel. know that I have taught you, before closing your eyes, to say, 'Now I lay me down to sleep,' etc, besides a good many other things in the way of explanation and advice. But this

The Fastest Railroad Train in the World.

Competition between two of the great English lines of railroad has recently taken the form of cutting down the running time. The London and North-Western and the Great Northern, striving against each other for the traffic between London and Edin-burg, have reduced the running time bet ween these points to eight hours. By the first named road the distance is 401 miles, by the other it is 397. For the entire distance the sche slightly exceeded by the short B.&O. between Baltimore and Washington, 40 miles in 45 minutes. But the length of the trip removes it from the comparison. On the North-Western road one run without, a halt of the trip. This exceeds the run from Fort Wayne to Chicago by 12 miles. To realize what this speed means, it may be compared with the trip from New York to Chicago by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The same speed would reduce the time between these points to a little over eighteen and one half hours. It has been suggested that an afternoon train should leave New York and should react Chicago in time for business the next The above proves the practica bility of such a project.
