RITTER & RALSTON'S.

FASHION EMPORIUM.

We must confess ourselves completely surprised at the way our goods have been selling. On the 6th we opened the largest stock we had ever brought to Butler. On the 20th our sales were as bare as Mother Hubbard's celebrated cupboard, and necessitated an early re-stocking at the talk about our warning you to come at once; it is the truth, for the way our goods are selling. Whether we sell because of cheapness, or quality of goods, whether because of the quantity to select from or the knowing how to suit customers; whether from any or all of them, is for your eyes and judgment to decide—that we do the business is not doubted.

Just a moment for a word or two on our latest novelties. The newest thing in dress trimmings is the Surah Sash, very wide, and very handsome. We have a fine stock, at moderate prices. They are beautiful. Directors Hats are being worn a great deal, and they are very becoming to almost any face and figure. Our stock is unsurpassed and would certainly suit the tastes of the most fastidious.

Our Gimp and Laces for dress trimmings are quite in keeping with the extent of our stock in other lines. We have everything worth showing. The price, too, is what falls. While never for a moment sacrificing quality to cheapness, (for our reputation is built on this very thing) we endeavor to supply the best in the market at the most reasonable price. Remember that

Mrs. Maybrick's Case.

Mrs. Maybrick, who was found guilty of poisoning her husband and sentenced to death at Liverpool, England, last Wednesday, has broken down under the great strain to which she has been subjected for days past, and is now seriously ill.

A memorial to the government in behalf of Mrs. Maybrick has been signed by most of the barristers and solicitors of the Liverpool circuit. The memorial asks that the prisoner be reprieved on the ground of the conflicting nature of the medical evidence given at her trial. A similar petition is being circulated among the merchants and brokers and is receiving many signatures. There is a general feeling throughout the country against the verdict.

Mrs. Florence Maybrick was the daughter of Carrie E. Holbrook, of New York, and William S. Chandler, the son of a well-known Mobile lawyer. The couple met in Mobile in 1856, and were married soon afterward. Mrs. Chandler came to Mobile only shortly after the breaking out of the war, when Capt. DuBarry turned up, and received attentions from Mrs. Chandler that gave rise to some gossip. Soon afterward she died under circumstances that aroused some unpleasant talk that Mrs. Chandler, although not molested by the authorities, left the place and went to Macon, where she married DuBarry. When she started for Europe, her agent of the Confederate Government accompanied her; two days out, he sickened and died. The Captain wanted to return with the body, but Mrs. DuBarry insisted that she be buried at sea. A common carrier two days later DuBarry appeared in New York and was involved in a scandal with an actor. Her life after that is uncertain. She married a Baron von Roque, of the German army, who is said to have beaten her, and she is said to have left him and taken an actress of the British Legion in Paris. At present, however, she lives in Paris and keeps the name von Roque.

Florence Chandler met James Maybrick, a Liverpool cotton broker, while on her way from this country with her mother. Maybrick was 40 and she 18, but she consented to marry him after his ardent wooing, and they were married in St. James' Church, Piccadilly, London. The bride had some $50,000 a year in her own right, inherited from her father, and Maybrick owned Bitterlee House, a fine residence in Grandsonville, a suburb of Liverpool. There they settled down and were soon deeply in the social swim of that city. Mrs. Maybrick was very pretty, and she was bright and charming and became very popular.

Two children were born to the couple, and it is to the fact that one of these dropped a letter into the mail that Mrs. Maybrick only her presence in the room, and she was bright and charming and became very popular.

"The letter was one that Mrs. Maybrick had given to the nurse to be mailed. The baby dropped it into the street, and the envelope was so soiled that the nurse took it off, intending to put it in a fresh envelope, re-address it to 'A. Briefly, Esq., Huskisson street, Liverpool,' and mail it. Incidentally she also dropped the letter into the post box."
