How It Stands. The action of the County Committee of Lawrence county does not help to mend matters for the Republican party in this Congressional district.

Major McDowell, himself, were on trial he might satisfy a jury that he did not furnish the money for the bribe.

Of the four counties composing the district, Butler county is the only one absolutely clear of the affair.

The Lawrence Co. Committee Meeting.

The County Committee of Lawrence Co. met in New Castle Saturday, for the call of its Chairman to fix a time for nominating a candidate for Associate Judge.

After the officers of the Committee had been elected, and the time for the nomination of a candidate for Associate Judge, Mr. A. L. Martin introduced the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the nomination of McDowell is a disgrace to the county, and that the committee should take steps to prevent its re-occurrence.

Resolved, That the committee should take steps to prevent the nomination of McDowell in the future.

Resolved, That the committee should take steps to prevent the nomination of McDowell in the future.

Outside Opinions.

If Major McDowell, the boodle nominee for Congress in the Beaver district, has not the good sense and decency to pull off the track, he should be kicked so badly at the polls in November that he will wish he had never been born.

There seems to be a good deal of smoke in the Twenty-fifth Congressional district over the nomination of McDowell.

It is not surprising that the good Republicans of that district will see to it that justice is done, and that there is no infraction of the law that the offenders will be punished.

The late disgraceful scandal involving the Congressional nominating conference of the Twenty-fifth district, comprising the counties of Beaver, Butler, Lawrence, and Mercer, is a powerful argument in favor of all parties nominating all their candidates from the highest to the lowest by the direct popular vote of members of the respective parties, instead of the demoralizing, corrupt, and undeveloped conference system now in vogue.

Major McDowell is in a deplorable position, and probably by no act of his own. There is no evidence as far made public to show that he had any knowledge of the part he played in the bribery of the county delegates.

A pretty good story is told about a certain ignorant justice, who does his duty in the Jefferson county. The justice was elected over an able but very unpopular opponent, and his first case was that of a prisoner who was charged with violating the ferry law.

A certain county farmer, named Smith, was taken by a rattler a short time ago. The reptile was lying in a fence corner and jumped at Smith, striking him on the leg.

The fuger merely scraped his leg, but because it was in his trousers, the snake twisted itself around his leg and held this position until it was finally killed.

It is of no consequence what may have been the motive of the briber; the fact remains that the nomination was made by the corrupt and unlawful use of money.

It is also evident that the candidate will not be supported by many Republicans of the district on this account, and the election of a Republican member in one of the strongest Republican districts of the State is thus put in a very grave doubt.

It is an occasion for the display of absolute selfishness and the exercise of personal ambition to the best interests of the party.

Over in Hamilton, Clearfield Co. they have a small religious war on hands, which is mixed up with politics, secret societies and a row on a race track, that it is impossible to make an intelligible item of it.

The girls of Franklin seem to have taken to bicycling riding as enthusiastically as their brothers.

The new hatchery bill which recently passed the House, seems to meet with the general approval of business men all over the country.

John McDowell started a grocery and boot and shoe store on the corner of Beaver and Main streets and is doing a good business.

NEIGHBORHOOD NOTES.

While mowing in a field of high grass near Allison, Pa., Friday, A. Moore ran the machine over his little son, cutting the child's legs and arms, and he was injured. The father has almost lost his reason in consequence.

Snakes are more abundant this year than usual and picnic parties would do well to keep their eyes open for the deceptive creature. A little party went out to a woods in Indiana Co. the other day, and when they sat down to dinner it was remarked that the coffee tasted queer. An investigation disclosed the fact that a snake, nearly two feet long, had crawled into the pot and had been boiled along with the coffee. The party drank water for dinner.

Six citizens of Pennsylvania while gathering hickberries in Clearfield county, captured a rattlesnake by sticking a forked stick over his head. It was then placed in a box and taken to town where it was exhibited to friends. It had eleven rattles and admirers of snakes think it a beauty.

We notice that the frisky horse that is making his headquarters in neighboring counties, captured a rattlesnake by sticking a forked stick over his head. It was then placed in a box and taken to town where it was exhibited to friends. It had eleven rattles and admirers of snakes think it a beauty.
