The State Board of Agriculture. by Mr. W. J. Kuight, the engineer of the expedition.

The life-size oil paintings fully and truthully represent the leading incidents of this wonderful and romantic expedition. The lecture is a plain, simple story of twenty-two Union soldiers, of the 2d, 21stst, and 33d Ohio regiments, acting under the order of Gen. O. M. Mitchell, capturing a train of cars in Georgia, in 1862, from the enemy's camp, while surrounded by 10,000 armed Rebel soldiers. They show the capture of the train; the escape, cutting of the telegraph wires, tearing up track and burning bridges. Fuci gives out; pursued by rebels; over-taken; flee to the wood; captured; in prison; cut out; recaptured; seven hung; more sentenced; plot to capture the guards; fugitives in the woods again; a chase for life; pursued by blood hounds; stealing geese and pigs, eaten raw for sustenance; The State Board of agriculture will hold The State Board of agriculture will hold its Autumn meeting in the Court House in Butler on Wednesday and Thursday of next week. The Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Company's works at Natrona was the scene on last Saturday a week of one of the most shocking fatalities that has occurred in commed house, never failing spring. on last Saturday a week of one of the most shocking fatalities that has occurred in this vicinity for some time. Edward Sweeny, a young man aged about nineteen years, who was assisting at some work among the machinery in what is called the "stone house," was caught in a manner not exactly known and drawn in between the heavy and rapidly revolving cog wheels. His left arm was literally ground up, while the greater portion of his face, neck and breast was almost reduced to a pulp of blood, flesh and bones. His death was of course instantaneous. Mr. Deitrich, with whom the unfortunate young man was working, had the machinery stopped as quickly as possible and called for help. Those who came to his assistance turned sick at the horrible sight, and in consequence the duty of releasing and collecting the remains of the poor fellow devolved upon Mr. Deitrich. This he did faithfully, although the task was a most terrible one. The sad occurrence is greatly deplored in the community in which the young man was best known.

GREAT EXCITEMENT.

The mass of importers and brokers in the Custom House was so great at 3 o'clock that Collector Erhardt deemed it inadvisable to close at that hour. He announced that the time would be extended until 4 o'clock. Each moment after 3 o'clock the exettement became greater. Those in the rotunda appeared to be going cray. They shout-d, yelled and made inlike that of the Stock Exchange.

The clerks in the various divisions were swamped with business. Not for years has such a scene been enacted in the Custom House. Every few minutes whole delegations of importers and brokers invaded the Collector's office, and importuned him to keep the Custom House open until midnight. The Collector was in a quandary. His office was jammed full of importers, who waved rolls of bills in their hands, and shouted to him not to close the Custom House.

HELD OPEN TILL MIDNIGHT. HELD OFEN TILL MINIGHT.

In pressure on the Collector became so great the finally sent a telegram to Washington, was directed to Secretary Windom and resisted advice as to what the Collector should under the circumstances.
he importers expected the vessels to arrive o'clock. In a little time there came an over from Washington. It was from the retary of the Treasury, and informed the lector that he could use his own discretion
