THOMPSON BLACKSMITH LOT.

We closed our last with recollections of the house which stood fifty years ago where present John A. Richey bakery is. The next lot to this, and where now as tands the Aland merchant tailor shop, we will call the Thompson blacksmith lot. Our first recollection of it is in seeing a blacksmith shop there. Five brothers of the name of Thompson are said to have lived on it in the early days of the town. James Thompson, spoken of in the history of the town, we suppose was one of the five. We do not recollect him, nor two of the town, we suppose was one of the five. We do not recollect him, nor two of the town, we suppose was one of the five. We do not recollect him, nor two of the town, we suppose was one of the five. We do not recollect him, nor two of the town, we suppose was one of the five. We do not recollect him, nor two of the town, we suppose was one of the five. We do not recollect him, nor two of the others, John and Joseph. Bat another one, Samuel P. Thompson, we recollect him, nor two of the others, John and Joseph. Bat another one, Samuel P. Thompson, now of Indianapolis, Ind., we have met. He is said to be a very successful physician in Indianapolis at present, and is the only one of the five brothers known by any of our citizens to be yet living. Where this old blacksmith and one was recoted, owned at one time by Mr. Christian Otto, yet living. The late Robert and James Cunningham had their store there for a while about 1845. A Mr. Douglass followed with a drug store there for a while about 1845. A Mr. Douglass followed with a drug store there. The Democratic Herald was published there from about 1850 to March, 1855.

The Stehle new brick now adjoining the Aland one was erected in 1874, by the late Mr. Homas Stehle, who became the late Mr. Homas S day, Miss Drexel of Philadelphia, who is the house which stood fifty years ago worth several million dollars, took the vows of the black-veil. She will be known is. The next lot to this, and where now

STEWART LOT.

Mr. Isaac Colbert was known by all as a strictly honeat man. All we have said as to the character of Mr. Daniel Coll in that respect would apply to Mr. Colbert. They were both chosen Treasurers of the county on account of their honesty of character. Mr. Colbert followed Mr. Coll in that office and we well recollect the arguments made use of for electing him, about 1845, were the same as used for Mr. Coll, to-wit, his sterling integrity. About 1842 Mr. Colbert bought the property down North Main Street, where he lived and which is yet in the possession of his heirs. He died July 1872.

the possession of his heirs. He died July 1872.

The John Bickel boot and shoe store comes next. Where it stands was a frame in which the Sentinel newspaper was published, first by the late Moses and John Sullivan, Esga, then by late George W. Smith, Esg., and Parker C. Purviance, 1840, and last, we believe, by John B. Butler, Esq. Mr. George Frederick became the owner of the lot and erected the present brick there, in which he had his boot and shoe store for some years previous to his removing to Ohio. When sold as the property of Mr. Frederick it was bought in by Mr. John Berg, who in turn sold the same to present Mr. John Bickel.

The corner house of this square, now owned by Messes. J. and B. Kemper with their fine saddlery shop and business, was built 1-y the late Hon. William Stewart. We do not recollect the date, nor the different owners of this property before being purchased by present Messrs. Kempers. Mr. Stewart once lived in it and afterwards the late Hon. Wm. Haslett lived there for some time.

Herald was published there from about 1850 to March, 1855.

The Stehle new brick now adjoining the Aland one was erected in 1874, by the late Mr. Thomas Stehle, who became the owner of same. Mr. Stehle died 1887. The Aland new building was built only a short time before the death, October 1888, of the late Mr. William Aland. Where the Stehle one stands was a brick, erected or owned by our present Mr. Conrad Smith, in which late Hon. William Beatty lived for a short time and in which also the late National Bank had its first origin and was first kept, 1864. The Producers' Bank of Butler County was also kept there for a short time afterwards.

The next building to this is the present Mr. Rockenstein and is occapied as mentioned by daughters of his as a millinery store. The other part remains in the faminy of Mr. Rockenstein and is occapied as mentioned by daughters of his as a millinery store. The other part remains in the faminy of Mr. Rockenstein and is occapied as mentioned by daughters of his as a millinery store. The other part remains in the faminy store, who lived there at one time. Our first recollection of a building there, or about there, was an old frame one in which a Mr. Samuel Johnson lived and had a candy shop. He and his family were a rather queer set, having a good deal of trouble with their neighbors. Where they went or what became of them we suppose no one now living here knows or cares very much as the present Mr. Harvey H. Aland. He was an alone the present Mr. Harvey H. Aland. He was an as we ever knew. Of all the old eitizens whom we have spoken of as good and honest none surpassed Mr. Rockenstein in those traits of character.

Notation is not the Reider Mr. Stond, the Reider Mr. Stond is store and the Miss Rockenstein's millingstore, and th

He died in October 1880, and his worthy wife followed him only about two months after. ow living here knows or cares very much.

Next to this is the present Mr. Harvey Colbert's fine hat and cap store on part of the old Stewart let. Mr. Colbert bought this of the late William Stewart, Esq., or his agent here, about 1865, and carried on the hatting business there in connection with his father, the late Mr. Isaac Colbert, from that time to 1869, when the partnership ceased. An old frame also stood there fifty years ago. The next lot of this square is that up. now owns and lives there.

The next hot of this square is that upon which stands the present residence of Col. John M. Sullivan. It was erected by his father, the late John Sullivan, Eq., in the year 1842, almost fifty years ago, and hence we call it by the name we do. The residence of Col. Sullivan is the first and only one that has ever been on this lot. Therefore, we cannot say of it as we have of many before, that an "old frame once stood there," unless, indeed, we apply that term to a blacksmith shop. The first building we recollect being on this lot was a blacksmith shop that stood just about where the residence of Col. Sullivan stands. It was carried on by Andrew Sproul and John Howe, under the firm name of Sproul & Howe. And here it will be observed that this is the third blacksmith shop we have spoken of as being on Main Street fifty years ago, one of them on so prominent a part as the Diamond. Should one now be planted upon Main Street if the years ago, one of the one seat. But times have changed, and so have blacksmith shops. Now they are ordered to the rear, to take a back seat, as the saying is, on the alleys or cross streets. However, the blacksmith business cannot be rubbed or squeezed out, as has been the hatter, the tanner, and some other of the industries of the former days of the town. The blacksmith shop is a necessity and it has come to stay. Hatt and leather may be supplied from abroad, but nothing yet discovered can supply the horses with shoes or drive them upon their feet except the hammer of the home blacksmith. In this respect that worthy trade would seem to have a local advantage over some extent that other trades can.

Mr. Andrew Sproul in his day here was a man of the country in that it cannot be supplanted or competed with from outsiders to the same extent that other trades can.

The stomach is out of order, the head aches or does not feel right, appetite is capricious, the nerves seem overworked, the mind is confused and irritable. This condition finds an excellent corrective in Hood's Sarasparlila, which, by its regulating and foning powers, soon restores harmony to the system, and gives that strength of mind, nerves, and body, which makes one feel perfectly well.

The farmers are commencing to think about getting ready for their spring work. Now is the time to get everything in readiness so as to be ready to start the plow at the first opportunity. The early crops are the ones that pay.

The farmers are being badly in by trusts, monopolies and unequal taxation but I honestly believe the majority of But-ler county farmers are losing more through careless habits on the farm than from all careless habits on the farm than from all the other causes mentioned. I believe in farmers organizing to protect their rights, but I think they ought to right the wrongs at home before they spend too much time and money trying to regulate trasts and monopolies after their notion. I think it would look better at least.

Now I don't mean to say anything against farmers and laboring men organizing to protect and further their interests, but I don't want them to lose sight of the wrongs at home which they could se easily remedy.
