The Direct Tax bill, which refunds to the states the amounts assessed and collected from them for war purposes in 1861, passed the House, and as it has already passed the Senate it will probably become a law. The bill refunds about seventeen millions in all and Pennsylvania will secure nearly two millions.

The Washington correspondent of the Phil's Press says that Cameron made a desperate effort to prevent the confirmation of Foster's appointment as Sec'y of the Treasury, that he and Senator Butler, of South Carolina, went around soliciting votes against it, and that he made a speech in executive session against it, in which he "whined like a baby," and declared that Mr. Foster was "personally objectionable to him," and that "it was due to him as an act of courtesy that Foster should be rejected."

To My Dear Friends, Mr and Mrs. J.

We mourn and weep in sorrow
That your treasured one is flown,
That his life on earth is over
E'er scarce it had begun.
The fibers of his life and love,
Entwined within your own,
Till it seems as if without him
You are broken and undone;
But death came without its terrore
To his young and guileless heart
Before his tender feelings
Has ever known sin's smart:
And He who formed the beauty
Of the lily and the rose
'Twas surely best to Him, dear friend
For oh, He knows, He knows!
He calls upon you blindly
To follow where He leads,
Although 'tis through the valley,
And though your fond hearts bleed.
But "over there" He'll lead you
Where the little boys will stand
