The pressure has steadily increased for the last three days and may exceed the above figures. The well is now nine hundred and sixty feet deep, and as soon as machinery now ordered arrives the work of reaming the hole to eight inches in diameter, making it an eight-inch well from top to bottom, will be prosecuted. The water is soft, clear and pleasant to taste. It is flooding the low places six inches wide and one inch thick, used as stays and braces on the derrick fifty feet above the mouth of the well, were broken by the force of the water. While this nozzle was on, the derrick, which is seventy-five feet high, was almost hidden from view by the spray and jettings of the stream, presenting a sight as beautiful as it was wonderful.

Later in the evening Mr. Weston, manager of the well and who has had charge of the drilling, removed the two and a half inch nezzle and placed upon and a half inch nezzle and placed upon the pipe a four inch one. Immediately a stream four inches in diameter shot up nearly seventy feet, deluging every-thing in its descent. This was ac-companied by a deep roaring sound, and frequent sharp reports resembling the discharge of a rife were heard. This stream, as well as the smaller one, struck the walking-beam and broke much of its force.
