Physician and Surgeon,

Dr. N. M. HOOVER,

L. M. REINSEL, M. D.

Office and residence at 127 E. Cunningham ! L. BLACK,

DRS. LEAKE & MANN,

Butler, Pa.

G. M. ZMIMERMAN.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEO.

Office at No. 45, S. Main street, over Franco's Drug Store. Butler. Pa,

SAMUEL M. BIPPUS.

Physician and Surgeon.

W. R. TITZEL.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON

3. W. Corner Main and North Sts., Butler, Pa

V. MCALPINE,

J. J. DONALDSON, Dentist.

Butler, Penn'a.

DR. S. A. JOHNSTON.

work pertaining to the profession execut the neatest manner. cualties:—Gold Fillings, and Painless Ex m of Teeth, Vitalized Air administered.

OFFICE NEAR DIAMOND, BUTLER, PA.

H. Q. WALKER,

J. M. PAINTER,

Attorney-at-Law.

A. T. SCOTT,

A. M. CHRISTLEY,

ATTORNEY AT LAW.

J. W. HUTCHISON,

ATTORNEY AT LAW.

JAMES N. MOORE,

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTABY PUBLIC.

Office in Room No. 1, second floor of Huseltonek, entrance on Diamond,

IRA MCJUNKIN.

W. C. FINDLEY,

H. H. GOUCHER.

J. F. BRITTAIN. Att'y at Law—Office at S. E. Cor. Main St., and Diamond, Butler, Pa.

NEWTON BLACK.

L. S. McJUNKIN.

17 EAST JEFFERSON ST.

BUTLER, - PA.

Office second floor, Anderson Bi k. M near Court House, Butler, Pa,

Office on second floor of the Huselt damond, Butler, Pa., Room No. 1.

-Eetween Pesteffice and Diamond, Put ice on Jefferson Street, one door East of Lowr House, Up Stairs.

C. F. L. McQUISTION,

DENTIST, - - BUTLER, PA.

BUTLER, PA., FRIDAY, JUNE 26, 1891.

IT PAYS YOU: TO KEEP POSTED ON OUR PRICES! See what we offer this month

Fine Zepher Dress Ginghams only 10 c. per yard. 36 inch Henrietta Cashmeres, all the new shades, only 25 c. a yard. Ladies Black Silk Mitts only 15 c. a Gloria Silk Sun Umbrellas with fancy silver handles $1.50, worth $2.50. Childrens Sailor Hats only 10c, worth New Troutman Building, Butler, Pa.

Ladies Trimmed Hats and Bonnets, from $1 to $5. 40 inch Lace Serims only 5c. a yard, Men's Domet Shirts 25 c, others sell

Ladie's Ribbed Vests only 10 c. Such bargains can only be YORK BAZAAR in Butler. 228 and 232 S. Main St. Opp Postoffice.

Dry Goods, . Fancy Goods, Dress Goods, Notions, Etc. A GREAT PLENTY THE VERY BEST.

MORE NEW STYLES and HANDSOME SELECTIONS THAN EVER BEFORE.

SUCH FINE GOODS YOU NEVER SAW SOLD so LOW

WE WILL GRATIFY YOUR AMBITION to BUY CHEAP AND GIVE EXTRA GOOD QUALITIES IN TH BARGAIN.

AN UNEQUALLED AS-SORTMENT INCLUDING all the NEW FST STYLES. N. B. The only Dentist in Butler using the A BIG STOCK TO BE TURNED QUICK CLOSE MARGINS.

You people who know what a bargain is come in and we will surprise you,

D. E. JACKSON.

203 S. Main St. - - Butler, Pa

Full Again, of the left Pa.

We mean our wall paper dewith our immense and choice stock of paper hangings. You must help us out, we haven't room for half our goods, until you relieve us of some of them. We have the choicest selection of patterns in every grade from Brown Blanks at 10 cts to Gilts at from 20 cts to $1 per double bolt. Examine our Stock.

J. H. Douglass,

Near Postoffice, Butler, Pa.

UNION WOOLIN MILL. BUTLES, PA.

H. FULLERTON, Prop'r,

Manufactured of Pure Butler County Wool,

Blankets, Flannels and Yarn

antee our goods to be strictly all wool inle or any other poisonous material ing. We sell Wholesale or retail, d prices turnished free to dealers on by mail.

FRANK KEMPER, DEALER IN

Light Harness,

Dusters and ways to be found at KEMPER'S.

Agents Wanted.

Several good men, experience not necessary, to take orders for fine

AND ART DEALER.

Flynets. BUTGER COUNTY The largest and most Mitual Fire Insurance Co. complete line of robes, Blankets, harness, Office Cor. Main & Cunningham Sts. whips, trunks, and

3. C. ROESSING, PRESIDENT. H. C. HEINEMAN, SECRETARY. valises, and at lowest DIRECTORS: prices in Butler, is al-

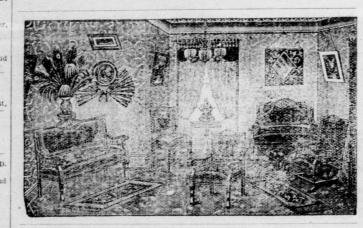

LOYAL S. M'JUNKIN, Agent, BUTLER, PA.

A. E. GABLE, Veterinary Surgeon.

W. A. OSBORNE Graduate of the Ontario Veterinary WALL PAPER, STATIONERY College, Toronto, Canada.
Dr. Gable treats all diseases of the domesticated animals, and makes 112 E. Jefferson St., - - Butler, Pa. ridgling, castration and horse den tistry a specialty. Castration per-formed without clams, and all other surgical operations performed in the

G. D. HARVEY, most scientific manner. Calls to any part of the country promptly responded to. Office and Infirmary in Crawford's Livery, 132 West Jefferson Street, PROFESSIONAL CARDS. JOSEPH W. MILLER, M. D.

To show you the largest and lowest priced stock of in the country. Don't forget to call and see our Parlor Suits, 6 pieces, upholstered in Crushed and Silk Plush. Two beautiful pictures and one handsome oak

The deacon's destination was the Connecticut village of Hezekiahville, eight miles distant, where there was to be a fitting celebration of the glorious Fourth. Although it was not a "train-Parlor Table for $50. We also have a Parlor Suit for $25, as follows: 6 chairs, The de upholstered in plush; 1 rocking-chair, up- lady place holstered in plush; 1 sofa, upholstered in plush; all for the low price of $25.

Our oak bed-room suit for $18 can be bought only at our store for the price. We have China Closets for any price you want them from $20 up. Parlor Cabinets from $8 up. Side boards from $20 up. We have any kind of furniture at any price you want.

Campbell & Templeton, 136 NORTH MAIN STREET.

WE have endeavored during our first year's business with the citizens of Butler and surrounding country, to give them first class goods at reasonable prices, and by fair dealing to merit their patronage.

That our efforts have been appreciated is evidenced by the amount of business we have done.

Thanking our patrons for past favors, should have remembered his own favorite saying: that it is not well to count your chickens before they are we hope by straight-forward dealing to merit a further share of the same.

E. S. DREW, - 128 E. Jefferson, St. ! FURNITURE!

If you want a perfect fitting suit go to

HABERNIGG Attorney at Law, Office at No. 17, East Jeffer-on St., Butler, Pa.,

Attorney at Law and Real Estate Agent. Of ce rear of L. Z. Mitchell's office on north side log rear of L. Z. Mitchell's office on north side log north side Clothing uncalled for in Bradford t-law. Office on second floor of sells for half price, mostly winter goods.

Insurance and Real Estate Ag't | Fine Watches,

TO

Jewelry,

Silverware and Spectacles

At lowest cash prices at

J. R. GRIEB'S.

No. 125 N. Main St., - Duffy Block. Sign of Electric Bell and Clock.

EVERY WATERPROOF COLLAR OR CUFF THAT CAN BE RELIED ON

Not to Split!

NEEDS NO LAUNDERING. CAN BE WIPED CLEAN IN A MOMENT. THE ONLY LINEN-LINED WATERPROOF COLLAR IN THE MARKET.

tional holiday and have a good time.

The deacon was one of the troopers.

"I've outwitted Amandy and the old lady," he said to himself with a complacent chuckle. "They won't have no horse and they'll have to stay to hum. Dick Wainwright will be there a bustin' with vanity in his new uniform and with his fine feathers; but he won't strut like a turkey gobbler when he finds that Amandy ain't there to see him. It takes me to sarcumvent these young folks and the old lady, too; for she's bound to abet 'em in this ere fool-them to the village nor to accept any surly invitation that he might extend to them. Amanda had quietly seen her lover and arranged that he should call with the most grace and spirit were the home of Joshua Whipple, a cousin of Mr. Hepburn, who lived in the village. After hitching his horses he in the Presbyterian church. walked to the tavern, a large, rambling structure, situated in the middle of half an acre of level ground that was adorned with great shade trees. Among the group of soldiers who stood near the trees was Ezekiel Hepburn. He recognized Wainwright with a cool nod, and as he turned away there was in his face a sarcastic leer, the meaning of which was not, as he confidently supposed, hidden from the young man. The lover smiled, too, but his smile was as merry as it was mischievous.

At noon dinner was served in the tavern and was announced by three or four tremendous blasts on a big fish horn. tremendous blasts on a big fish horn. Several hundred persons dined. First the military, consisting of a company of infantry, 120 men, and a company of cavalry, 50 men, assembled in the long banquet hall and seated themselves at a table extending nearly the length of the room and at side tables. At the head of the table sat three ministers, men of their cloth being revered at that day, who cloth being revered at that day, who had been escorted to the tavern by the bugler, the fifer and the drummer while playing national airs. Next to the clergymen were several revolutionary veterans, white-haired and feeble, and the militia officers. Each of these hon-ored guests could, if he chose, drink a glass of wine; but the privates who sat below them were not allowed any kind of ardent spirits with their meal. The oldest divine said grace, and then the hungry men did ample justice to a first-class New England dinner. After the class New England dinner. After the soldiers had eaten, most of the visitors from the surrounding country dined at the same tables.

An hour later the people repaired to the Presbyterian church—the town house was not large enough to accommodate so many—and listened to a bombastic address delivered by a young lawyer who was a great orator in his own estimation, and to the singing of pariotic airs.

Next was a sham fight, which took

Next was a sham light, which took place on a broad common in the center of the village. The soldiers were divided into small companies, half of the cavalry and half of the infantry being in each division. Each company was arranged in platoons, eight men in a platoon, and behind the front platoon was all of the other platoons. The cave were all of the other platoons. The cav-alry in each company was in the rear of the infantry. Capt. Perkins, a hero of the war of 1812, commanded one com-pany, and the officer acting as the other eaptain was Lieut. Wainwright.
The uniform of a cavalryman consisted of a red broadcloth coat with buff cassimere facings, gold lace trimmings and gilt buttons, and trousers and vest of buff cassimere. The privates wore caps with round crowns of heavy leather covered with bearskin and a red feather pistois in saddle hoisters and value on back of saddle. The cavalry officers also wore high boots with white tops. The infantry were dressed in blue throughout; coat facings and trimmings were of red and around each soldier's neck was a leather stock. The men in their gay uniforms pre-sented a brilliant appearance, and in the opinion of the spectators who lined that the eyes of the fair Amanda were upon him. She and her mother stood in a prominent position. They waved their handkerchiefs at the young sol-dier and their faces were filled with joy as they saw him lead his men to certain victors, although the paterfamilias. victory, although the paterfamilias, Deacon Hepburn himself, was in Captain Perkins' company and was enraged be-cause the detested young Wainwright was carrying off the laurels of the oc-casion. But fortunately the deacon was firting with her lover and was bestowing upon him her most bewitching smiles before and after the combat.

1es, I replied that I was over, but still I was not entirely happy, for an eleven-inch firecracker had exploded on the rim of my ear, and I became an eyefavorite saying: that it is not well to crestfallen and weary, the deacon wended his way at six. p. m. to the home of his cousin, Joshua Whipple, with whom he hoped to hold sensible with the at two-seated vehicle drawn by a span of prevalence of the same of the sa wright in a two-seated vehicle drawn by a span of prancing horses drove to the Hepburn homestead, where he arrived he was ushered into the Husbing Amanda and her mother waiting for him. The deacon was not the only one who had done some planning. His wife and daughter had not suspected that he would sneak off before daylight, but they were well aware that he did not wish them to accompany him to Hezekiahville, and had resolved neither to ask him to take them to the village nor to accept any

In the evening there was a great ball lover and arranged that he should call for her and her mother at an hour after which she was certain her father would be gone.

with the most grace and spirit were Lieut. Wainwright and Miss Hepburn. The mortified deacon never recovered sufficiently from his defeat to oppose Licut. Wainwright left the women at the home of Joshua Whipple, a cousin of Mr. Hepburn, who lived in the villed and her gallant lover were declared to oppose this daughter's wishes openly; and a few weeks later the banns of that fair damsel and her gallant lover were declared to oppose the state of the production church.

J. A. Bolles. HIS CIGAR DID IT.

"By Jove! I hardly know what to do

So he did .- N. Y. Mail and Express.

to the fifth, "I went off all right."
"That's because everybody knew you were loaded," replied the fifth.—Judge. Wasn't His Fault.

Brown—What did you mean by burn-ing all the feathers off the parrot? Little Johnnie—Why, dad, didn't she say: "Polly wants a cracker?"-Jury. An Excellent Reason.

Brown-Why don't you go outside to more in the house.-Life. on the side. The cap of an officer was similar except that upon it was a gilded helmet, a support for a long feather that drooped over the front of the cap. The feather was red with a white tip in front. The cavalry equipment consisted of a yellow sword-belt extending over right shoulder and holding the scabbard A MEMORABLE DAY.

IN THE METROPOLIS. How the Fourth Is Celebrated on

-Jane Ellis Joy, in St. Nicholas.

noise. Texas is somewhat larger than that more people have had their arms and fingers blown off in the south than in the north, which also goes to prove that the feeling against the British is that the feeling against the British is more intense in the south than has generally been supposed.

Judging perhaps by the moise made on the Fourth of July the thoughtless observer might conclude that the south was really less patriotic than the north; but it should be taken into consideration that in Gottlem fireconferons are tion that in Gotham firecrackers are only three cents a pack, and pin wheels cost only a cent apiece, whereas in

The high price of explosives in the side whoped in the great revolutionary struggle. In New York, where cannon enthusiasm is so pronounced that revelers begin to make the welkin ring, and to get tight, on the night of the third of July.

derstand the meaning of these terms should band themselves together everywhere to spread the doctrine of pure liberty, sanctioned by law and blessed by Providence. In no other way should crackers are almost given away, the So thorough is the detestation of Eng-so thorough is the detestation of Eng-ish tyranny in New York, that even as early as the afternoon of the third I have seen the police wiping up the side-walks with well-dressed inebriates. In the drug stores boys get their fingers must be mistaken. as the second of July. Two years ago, I saw an elderly gentleman fall out of a second-story window while firing off

But to return to my experiences or the first great national holiday spent in New York. At an early hour I bounded slowly and reluctantly from my couch, and hied me to my private journalistic arena on the ground floor. My inten-tion was to write a glowing editorial on the "Decay of American Patriotism," but owing to the constant detonations I was unable to finish it.

I was unable to finish it.

While I was trying to collect my thoughts, there was a boy in the window of the fourth story of the flat house in which I resided who dropped, A Word of Caution.

First Firecracker—I'm off!
Second Firecracker—That's funny;
don't do it again or I'll explode.

Quite Natural.

It is not strange that so many excursions go off on the Fourth of July.—Oil

A Word of Caution.

House in which I resided who dropped, on an average, three lighted firecrackers with the strange lighted firecrackers with the strange lighted firecracker.

"Nonsense! Why should you think that?"

"Well, he treats Johnny as if he fair-ruined by the explosions, and I was glad of it. They could never be used again, but I never shed a tear, not even lighted firecracker.

"Nonsense! Why should you think that?"

"Well, he treats Johnny as if he fair-ruined by the explosions, and I was glad of it. They could never be used again, but I never shed a tear, not even

In the next yard there was a fullown man with an adult gun, who aded and fired at five o'clock—I don't

I replied in small caps: "NO! I'm not going to give you another cent to buy fire-crackers with, and if you fire another one of them in this yard I'll slam you against the fence so you will stick there.

"NO! I say; clear out! Not a nickel ore for firecrackers." Bang! Bingleer and saying in a tone of voice that indicates nasal catarrh: "Aw, weally! 'Ow's yer 'ealth, melud," just like those wretched dudes on Fifth avenue.

forget the noble lesson taught by the Fourth of July. It commemorates the birth of American independent the rear, and started for the scene of the s Fourth of July, 1776, what is now the United States would in all probability still be an English colony with the limited rights grudgingly granted to the Australian colonies and to Canada. Every political blessing we enjoy to-day —and there is no nation in the world which enjoys as many—is the result of the labors of the patriot leaders, many of whose names even have been reneration.

Fortunately, the American people are beginning to realize that for many years Fourth of July patriotism has not been of the type which made the revolutioncost only a cent apiece, whereas in southern cities they are much more expensive. Even the poorest classes of New York can afford to express their detestation of George III. and his minions at a comparatively trifling expanse.

Fourth of July patriotism has not been of the type which made the revolutionary war a success. In almost every public school the pupils have for several years past been taught to celebrate the day in a becoming manner and to return them for the noble work wrought. south is the real cause of the people of New Orleans, for instance, seeming to be comparatively indifferent as to which side which and in the great as to which side which and in the great as to which side which and in the great as to which side which and in the great as to which side which are the great as to which side which are the great as to which a great are the great as the great as the great are the gr turn thanks for the noble work wrought rates into license, and license leads to anarchy. Children old enough to understand the meaning of these terms the youth of America celebrate the Fourth of July and honor the memory of immortal Washington and his faithful advisers, followers and friends.

And if this spirit of '76 animates the boys and girls the explosion of firecrackers and kindred noise-producing trifles will readily be forgiven and sanc-tioned by their fathers and mothers. G. W. WEIPPIERT. The Workings of Fate. Merritt—Are you going to set off powder mine this Fourth? Little Johnny-Not much I ain't. The thing never goes off till a feller crawls back to see what's the matter with it.—

Brown-Have you everything ready for the Fourth?

Mrs. Brown—Yes, my dear. Johnnie got his firecrackers and I bought the lint and arnica.-Jury.

You Bet It Is.
The Fourth of July is a celebrated lay.-N. O. Picayune. A Natural Mistake. Pat-Thet youngster o' your'n is smol Mrs. Brown-Good gracious! You must be mistaken.

Pat—No, mum. Oi saw him wid a rid eigarette in his hand an' the sparks wuz comin' out o' it loike sixty!—Judge. Where Ignorance Was Bliss.

Where Ignorance Was Bliss.

Mrs. Brown—Do you see any fun watching that goat and the tomato can?

Little Johnny—There'll be plenty of it as soon as the cracker goes off.— Why They Are Red. The reason why firecrackers are al ways covered with red paper is that red is the festive color in China, and that "I believe that young man who comes see you is not above deceit, Margar-

A BROKEN MATCH.

fore the Fourth of July that their engagement became known.

On the Fourth there was to be an ex-

Chauney had been unfortunate in his selection of a horse. Being timorous and unacquainted with horses he had secured the meekest, most docile look-

torpedo thrown by an impish landed on old Dobbin's flan

The first plunge brought him to the edge of a deep ditch more than half full of stagnant water upon which was a thick green scam. As the wheels of the buggy neared the edge Chauney, with a wild yell and without looking where he was leaping, flung himself into the midst of the foul pool. With a great splash he disappeared in the forgotten by the men and women of our great splash he disappeared in the malodorous ditch from which he dragged himself in a woeful plight. His light trousers and inmaculate linen were ruined, and he was a sorry sight as he stood and watched old Dobbin tearing down the road with Millie clinging des-down the road with Millie clinging desperately to the lines and a hundred people in hot pursuit.

The old horse made a good heat of it, but soon brought up against a fence with Millie still tugging at the lines. She was helped into a friend's carriage with whom she remained the whole day through without so much as inquiring after her cowardly lover.

The young people laughed and danced, the orators bawled and shouted themselves hoarse, the flags and banners selves hoarse, the flags and banners fluttered in the breeze and at night the rockets hissed and flew into the air, the wheels and candles merrily whizzed and popped, but Chauncy was not there to enjoy them. He was at home bemoaning his sad fate and endeavoring to renovate his damaged apparel.

When he called on Miss Millie the next where the graph why his release. She evening she gave him his release. She said that she could not wed a man who would desert her in time of danger. Chauncy was overcome with sorrow at his summary dismissal, but humbly, acknowledged the justice of it, and as he bade her farewell he declared with some spirit that he would never go riding again on the Fourth of July.

FRANK B. WELCH. Particular.
"Don't let me deprive you of you seat," she said, as he rose.
"Don't mention it, madame. It isn't mine, anyhow; it belongs to the road," said he.—Harper's Bazar.

An Embarrassing Question.
She (wistfully)—I think I would make you a good wife.
He (a superintendent—mechanically)
—Have you had any experience?—Munsey's Weekly.

A Linguistic Dog. Fair Customer—You say you trained that dog yourself. Can he understand me if I call him in English?

Dealer—Yah. Off you whistle to him.

-Good News.

