THANKSGIVING.

The person who cannot find some pretext sings of nature are wasted. Out apon him, ye spirits that preside o'er this lay of Thanksgiving! Let none in a complaining mood enjoy the toothsome turkey, celebrated by everyone. It is pleasant to believe that while the low prices of some of our staple products have caused discom-fort, a thousand blessings are observed and received with gratitude. If we have noth-ing else, let us be thankful for the dinner which will come to most of us. If we have not that, let us be thankful that the simplest fare builds np muscular tissue better than turkey and pie. If we have not even the bread and water, let us be thankful for the life to come. The earliest account we have of a regu-lar Thanksgiving Day in this country lo-cates the celebration at Mokegan, near the Kennebee River, Me., where on Angust 9, 1667, old style, it is stated in an old chron-icle, Chaplain Seymour, a minister of the Church of England, delivered asermon "on giving God thanks for happie meetynge and saffe arryval into the countrie." The example here set was followed by the Ply-month brethern in the autumn ef 1621, when they had sollected their first harvest which consisted of twenty acres of corn and six of barley, cats and peas enough to keep them supplied with food for the com-ing year. Gov. Bracford appointed the day, and in order that the occasion should be observed with good cheer seat hunters out to foräge the country to prosure a plenti-ful apply of good things needful for a din-ner. The men returned with water fowl, wild turkey and venison. The great Indi-an chief, Massasoit, and ninety of his warriors were inyited to the feast which lasted three days. er, let us be thankful for the life to come.

an chief, anasoni, and numerical variants were invited to the feast which lasted three days. The next Thanksgiving celebration of which we have any authentic record was two years afterwards, when however, it was observed, not in autum, but in July, and the occasion was manifestly furnished by the timely arrival of a ship from Eng-land laden with provisions, when the set-tiers were on the verge of starration. Dur-ing that same year a day of fasting and prayer in the midst of drought was chang-ed to a day of thanksgiving by the coming of rain during the prayers. In 1632 Gov. Winthrop, of the Maaschn-setts Bay Colony, recommended a day of thanksgiving on account of the favorable action towards the colonies of the British Privy Conneil. During the revolution a day of national thanksgiving was anucally recommended by Congress, and at the adoption of the Constitution, 1789, Wash-ington was strongly arged by Congress to dent Madison in 1615 appointed a day for national thanksgiving. It is only within the last thirty years that Thanksgiving Day has assumed the character of a fixed annual occurrence, its origin being traced to the proclamation of President Linceln, dated July 15, 1893. The day chosen by President Lincoln on this occasion for "mational thanksgiving, praise and prayer" was August 6 of that year. In the two following years the date of the observance was left to the dis certion of the President Lincoln on this occasion for "mational thanksgiving praise and prayer" was August 6 of that year. In the two following years the date of the observance was left to the dis certion of the President burning the past twenty-five years the last Thirsday in November has been set apart for the holiday.
