The conferees of Messrs. Greer and Wal lace met for the last time in Pittsburg last lace met for the last time in Pittsburg last Saturday, and during the day and early evening it looked as though this meeting would be but a repetition of the former ones. But late that evening Mr. Wallace became convinced that he could not secure the nomination, and instructed his conferees to vote for Mr. Greer. They did so, and the proper agrificate was prepared, and the proper certificate was prepared, and signed, taken to Harrisburg next by Sens-tor Showalter, and filed early Monday morning. And now that Mr. Greer has re-morning. And now that Mr. Greet has received the district nomination, it becomes the duty of all Republicans to give him their cordial support.

He will receive the united support of his party in this county, he has many personal friends in the opposition, and this with the large Republican majority in the district assures his election.

Im mediately that Greet was nominated as Dittablance Frank Kohler, who was pres-at Pittsburg, Frank Kohler, who was present, wired the news to Lev. McQuistion at Ellwood, (the Democratic conferees being in session there) and Lev. promptly instructed his conferees to nominate Martin.

Ellwood, (the Democratic conferees being in session there) and Lev. promptly in structed his conferees to nominate Martin, and the papers were hastily made out and taken to Harrisburg next day.

On account of some differences of opinion regarding the correct form for the official ballot under the new election law, Secretary Harrity prepared three forms and submitted them to Attorney General Hensel, who condemned forms "A" and "C" and approved of "B." Form "A" had already been sent to the County Commissioners and Sheriffs and will have to be recalled. Mr. Hensel is of opinion that one X mark after the party name will do for electors and State officers, but that another X mark is needed for each successive group—as provided for under the old election law.

"1-The issue of he gre atest conseque is the tariff on imports, and it will continue to be until a settlement is affected by a majority so large that it will be tantamount to general aquiescence. The Republicans are aggressive on this subject. Two years ago they passed a general enactment known as the McKinley tariff, which for a time failed to meet with popular approval and was regarded with a certain degree of distrust by those who had always upheld the protective system. But a powerful reaction has come in consequence of the vindi-cation of the McKinley tariff by experience. It is found to have worked admirably and within the last year has produced a greater colume of business, internal and external export and import, than the United States ever transacted before. Notwithstanding the character and extent of the opposition to it, agriculture is remunerative, manufacurers are prosperous, and commerce is nore flourishing than at any previous time, mpressive and undeniable series of facts. THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY'S STAND.

"Against this tariff the Democartic party has taken a position almost without parallel in the history of the country. They reject entirely the doctrine of protection, pronounce it a fraud and anathematize it generally. A resolution, to this effect was adopted by the Democratic Convention, against the representatives of the committee on Resolutions by a two thirds vote, thus manifesting the intelligent participation of every man in the convention. Sometimes a resolution may be adopted in haste or, when the convention is adjourning, it may fail to receive the attention of members; but this resolution was debated, pro and con, adopted after a contest, and was perfectly understood by the members of the convention. It is contained in these words: 'We denounce the Republican protection as a fraud upon the labor of the great majority of the American people for the benefit of the few. We declare it a fundamental principal of the Democratic Party that the Federal Government has no constitional power to impose and collect tariff duties except for the purpose of revenue only. We demand that the collection of such taxes be limited to the necessities of the Government when honestly and economically administered.' THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY'S STAND.

OPPOSITION TO JEFFERSON PRINCIPLES.

The common Mexical properties of the companies of the com of millions of dollars among the poor.

Since the close of the war all this is changed. Every paper dollar that circulates among the people has the United States behind as guarantee. All the banks that exist are under the control of the National Government and if they fail as financial institutions the Government has taken eare that their bills shall be paid by securities, deposited in Government valls. Under these circumstances it is a matter for extraordinary surprise that the Democratic convention should deliberately pass resolutions for the revival of the State banks. The palpable effect of this policy if carried out, would be to cheat the poor man out of his daily bread. If State banks be adopted and the circulation attain a large issue no device could be more deadly; for the deception and despoilment of all the commercial and laboring classes. How the Democratic convention came to make such a declaration, who was its author, what intelligent purpose was in it, will remain a mystery. I have heard the argu-

Pittsburg Dispatch.

The result of the New Orleans combat is told with fullness of detail in our news columns. To Sullivan the outcome means the passing of the sceptre from his trivible right hand and the step downward to oblivion. To Corbett it means the incense of a fickle world's applause for a brief season, the snatching of laurels that had begun to fade ere they were gathered, and a swift realization of the poet's truth that "uneasy lies the head that wears a crown."

To the yast multitude that looked on beside the roped arena, in person or with the mind's eye, the contest held, with much that was disedifying and repulsive, the meaning—not new, but told with forceful iteration—that brute force really counts for little in this world, and that intelligence, training, strict regimen, obedience to discipline and an abstemious course of living are the surest elements of strength. This is one lesson from the New Orleans arena that is quite as applicable in the larger arena of our daily lives.—Philas delphia Record.

The result of the New Orleans combat is old with full meaning the passengers of the steamers. The report of a case of cholera in Pitts-burg Friday, was not corroborated by the Call papers.

larger arena of our daily lives.—Philadelphia Record.

There is a moral, a lesson to this fight, and let us point it out. No man, certainly no athlete, can afford to induge, even spasmodically, in those things which the laws of health and morality forbid, and continue in the full possession of the physical power with which Nature had endowed him. Sullivan, the athlete, although no worse than men of his profession, has been no better than many. He has not lived strictly according to the laws of health, and the champion—champion now no more—found it out.

Overindulgence in the so-called "good things" of this life had predisposed him to fleshiness, had caused him the loss of lung power and of the endurance that had once distinguished him.

On the other hand, James Corbett, his vanquisher, has lived modestly and temper ately and for several years has been "in training." Moreover, he had youth on his side. Therefore it is not to be wondered at that he could hit his bigger opponent when and how he liked and that he escaped without a scratch himself.

A dispatch from London dated last Saturday said:

The action of the local government board this week in authorizing the exclusion of immigrants not able to give an address in the United kingdom was prompted by the action of the American President in issuing his order for a twenty days detention of all immigrant ships. It was feared that in the influx of Russian Jews regarding which the people of Great Britain are already sufficiently impatient would be diverted altogether to Great Britain and that the larger cities to which these people be diverted altogether to Great Britain and that the larger cities to which these people invariable throng would be overcrowded with them. A well-known statistician who has made immigration a study, said to-day that the movement of the Russian Jews when and how he liked and that he escaped without a scratch himself.
