Most fortunately for me, adult grizzlies do not climb, nor could even a common black bear have gone up the sapling. I was not alone. Only nine inches in diameter. Though safe for the present, I was by no means in a comfortable position, none of the trees being firm. My legs were as stiff as iron. I was obliged to cling to my arms. It was a most trying and painful position. I was obliged to cling to my arms. It was a most trying and painful position.

At this time, the moon was two or three days beyond the full, and it rose high enough to clear the mountain-tops and light up my prison. Then the bear and I could see each other plainly, a fact of which she took advantage to give my roosting-place a good shaking.

the jubilant fellows pulled me about. One of them put his canticles to my swollen lips, and I shall remember that draught to my dying day.

POETRY OF TREES.

Two young men, by the sudden death of their father, were left a 100-acre farm. One had learned the mason's trade, the other had been a railroad engineer. They therefore determined to see their new possession. But no buyer appeared. Several who looked at the place admired the buildings, conveniences and broad, smooth fields, but made no offer.

HOUSE FOR POULTRY.

Plans showing Interior Arrangement and the House. On a pleasure trip last summer I had occasion to visit several breeders of choice poultry.

TO CHEAPEN FEEDS.

The prices of feed had far to be high the coming winter, and such will continue to be the case every winter, as long as there is such a tremendous demand for all sorts of millstuffs, on the part of the farmers.

RIGHT FOR ONCE.

A Scotch lad was being tried for stealing from a doctor's house. He told the judge that he had a headache, and the mother said to him: "Go to the doctor's and take something."

NOSE RING FOR CATTLE.

Several readers having asked how to make a device to prevent calves from sucking cows we reprint a picture of one made by J. M. Drew and given in the Rural New Yorker.
