The best

builders use only the best material—lumber, brick, lime, cement, sand—whatever goes into the construction of a building; they employ only the best workmen and pay the best wages; they get better prices for their work than their less careful competitors, and always get the best contracts; they paint their work with manufactured by the "Old Dutch Process" of slow corrosion, and with one of the following standard brands: "Armstrong & McKelvey", "Beymer-Baumgardner", "Fahnestock", "Davis-Chambers". For colors they use the National Lead Company's Pure White Lead Tinting Colors. These colors are sold in small cans, each being sufficient to tint twenty-five pounds of Strictly Pure White Lead the desired shade.

Strictly Pure White Lead

THE CITIZEN

The Big Exposition.

Discounted by all its many visible imperfections, the Chicago Fair is to-day the grandest tribute to civilization ever presented in the world's history. Its incompleteness is painfully impressed upon the visitor in every department, but these blemishes will gradually lessen with each day, and a month hence there will be little to mar the most imposing spectacle ever witnessed by any people, ancient or modern.

It would well repay the student of progress to come from any land, however distant, simply to see the great comparison of the world's grandest exhibition on the Exposition grounds, without entering any of the gigantic temples crowded with the handicraft of every clime and the achievements of science. No such realistic panorama of the world's architectural and artistic progress, ever before approached, in all the varied records of the past ages. It has revived all the splendor of the ancients and all the advancement of the present, in one group that blends in sublime lustre the most exquisite attainments of the human mind.

—A Kensington fish woman named Buton has just given birth to triplets, and her neighbors are wondering what a huddle fish woman wants with three Button kids. They were in the woods gathering wild flowers. "How do you know that's a dogwood tree?" she asked. "Oh, you can tell a dogwood tree by its bark," he replied.

—Some of the political women now at Chicago, are spoken of as "typical." That they are not, nor will they be. The typical woman of the country are those who take more interest in babies than they do in politics.

—The Connecticut Legislature has passed a bill requiring doctors to write their prescriptions in plain English. Now in the prohibition cities the prescription, "Spiritus frumenti, Q. ant. suff." will read "A good, big drink of whiskey."

—A Montana cowboy is said to have gone to Chicago with a sackful of obnoxious dollars that he made himself by working overtime. If he emerges from the speculation with his sack he will be the first to beat Chicago this season.

—Coughing Leads to Consumption. Kemp's Balsam will stop the cough at once. Ask your friends about it.

—Queen Yick has celebrated her 74th birthday and she is one of the many people who are of the opinion that the old lady's chances of further continuance on the footstool are better than those of her bare-carat playing, horse racing and high living son and would-be successor.

—Albert Fuller, who died at Milwaukee, Wis., last Thursday, had been employed as an engineer by the St. Paul & Northern Pacific R.R. During that long period Mr. Fuller had never met with an accident.

—Some men are too mean to be happy, and others are too happy to be mean. —What an object lesson in progress since the day of Columbus to see the chief of the Cherokee Indians down in Wall Street asking for a $50,000 dollar loan, and having the collateral security to pledge for it, too!
