LOCAL AND GENERAL.

During the past five years we have been sending the "CITIZEN" to quite a number of persons from whom we have yet to receive any remittance. To these, and to all others who know themselves to be in arrears with us for two years and more, we would suggest that a remittance on account would be appreciated at present.

for Klingler's Snow Drift Flour. This flour is conquering Butler county. The farmers are drawing it away by the wagon load, and the townspeople are buying it by the barrel. Some are selling their wheat and buying Snow Drift flour; others are exchanging their grain for it. Still others are buying it to mix with some inferior flour they claim to have obtained at their mill.

of a P. R. R. employee. We are sure the Infanta Eulalie never ate any better bread, and doubt if she could bake any as good.

Snow Drift flour is so good because it is the whole product of the entire wheat, minus the impurities, and because it is made from the best wheat by the finest line of machinery in existance. It will make better bread, more of it to the sack, be sweeter to the taste, nourish you longer and give you better satisfaction throughout than flour costing you from 25 to 40 cents per sack more money. It is, above all, a quick riser—too quick for some people, because ready for the oven before the oven is ready. A caution: Don't let it raise too much after making up the loaf. Get it into the oven before it comes to its full height. Some people say: "Snow Drift improves with every sack." It's not the flour which improves, but the bread, because the people are learning to bake it better. If you are troubled with dry, insipid, crusty bread, just try Snow Drift flour. Your bread will remain moist a week.
