The new ballot law of this Common wealth makes the act of voting simplicity itself for the voter, doing away with, o throwing upon the election officers, many o puzzting details that have made so much ble under the systems of other States. Under the new system all a voter wh wishes to vote a straight party ticket has to do is to walk into the booth and prepare his ballot by marking a cross in the circle at the head of the party ticket, then refeld the ballot just as it was given to him and appointed to receive it. One little mark walk out and hand it to the election office s the whole business. The election officer folds the ballot properly before giving it to the voter, and, when it is returned to him, numbers the ballot in the corner and covers the number by pasting down the think of their dilly-dallying; their subser depositing it in the box.
