THE CITIZEN

Don't complain about the weather. For easier 'tis you'll find. To make your mind to weather. Than weather to your mind.

Don't complain about "the sermon." And show your lack of wit. For, like a boot, a sermon hurts. The closer it doth fit.

Don't complain about your neighbor. For in your neighbor's view. His neighbor is not faultless—The neighbor being you.

Some one has figured out the number of miles the jaws of a gum-chewing girl will travel in the course of a year. Giving her jaw a play of half an inch, or one inch of travel for every chew, thirty chews a minute, sixty minutes an hour, ten hours a day, 362 days in a year, her jaws will have traveled 6,750,000 inches, or a fraction over 103 miles. This is for the girl with the small mouth—the big-mouthed girl can beat that record.

—Nell-Jack Rapide kissed me last night. I was so mortified I should mind a little thing like a kiss. Nell—Oh, you don't understand. I had been eating onions.

—If persons would bring to bear the same amount of common sense in buying a remedy for bronchitis, cough, cold and croup, that they do in the purchase of their food supplies, they would never fail to procure Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

A letter with an illustrated address—a decided rarity in its way—passed thro' the Philadelphia postoffice the other day and greatly amused the clerks. The artist writer had sketched pictures of a bull, a bear (apparently), a hand holding a bird and a table covered. "That's dead easy," remarked the clerk to whom the difficult address was sent, and he promptly forwarded the letter to Miss Belle Blair, Bird-in-Hand, Lancaster county, Pa. Presumably his last decision, as he concluded they would send me that, Eggs and P.O. address, Respectfully, W. S. GREGG, M. C. H. Butler, Pa.

A local writer on household topics says children should be punished, but with reason. That may be all right, but what's the matter with the good, old-fashioned slipper?

—Little Tommy—"Pop, what are un-written laws?" Pop—"The kind a man usually makes to suit his own conscience, my son."

The man and his wife were leaving the house to go to the theater, and as they walked away the wife said: "Did you try the front door to see whether you had locked it?" "Yes." "Are you quite sure you did?" "I am sure." "I'm afraid you didn't." "Well to convince you I'll go back and try it again," said the man, and he went back and found just what he expected—that the door was locked.

On the other side of the street stood a citizen belonging to the genus "tough," who had made a practice of taking wit, and belonged to the genus "man" and his wife came out of the house, heard part of the conversation, saw the man go back and try the door, and then the tough citizen reasoned thus: "They have gone out for the evening and left nobody in the house. If there was anyone in the house, he would not have been so careful about going back to try the door. Here's a chance for me. I'll get in the back way for there's nobody to prevent me." And forthwith he proceeded to put his plan into execution. He forced a back window, entered the house and captured a goodly share of plunder. Then he departed. There is a moral deep in this story.

—Few people of this world are treated justly—in their own estimation—E. C. No. But many a man who complains of the ill-treatment of the world ought to be down on his knees thanking the name of "conscience." A man who has treated himself as he has treated others, will find that the world has treated him as he has treated others.

—Many a cruel and heartless crime is committed in the name of "conscience." A man who has treated himself as he has treated others, will find that the world has treated him as he has treated others.

—The effect of the hard times upon the workingman is different from the effect upon the business man, in that the former cannot find anything to do, and the latter cannot find anybody to do.

—It is dollars to cents that the poet who sings of the downy snow flakes never had to shiver off his sidewalk.

—Piscatorial authorities say that, were it not for the natural enemies of fish, the codfish would fill all available space in the seas, rivers and oceans.

—Two physicians have arrived at the conclusion that most persons struck by lightning and to all appearances dead could be recalled to life by applying the method of artificial respiration in use for resuscitating the drowned.

—Mrs. Lucinda Perry, of Tipton, Mo., has married a widower with nine children.

—Many years ago Engineer Allen, while employed on the Canadian Pacific Railroad, gave $80 to a starving actor. The actor died recently and is said to have left $80,000 to Allen.

—"What did you enjoy most at Sunday school today, Herbert?" "Oh, all that song about Dinah Moore." "Who sang it to you, dear?" "Why, everybody sang 'I'm going home to Dinah Moore.'"

—Dr. Keesley, of Dwight, Ill., in answering a correspondent, offered the following remedy for the grip: "I would like to suggest a treatment for the grip which I know is simply specific, as well as innocent. It is as follows: Take a glass of water, add one pill four times a day. No man need be sick of the grip these days who will take it. For the past two years, with all the patients here—subject, of course, to such epidemics—I have not had one man to go to bed from the disease. I break it up very quickly, and in fact cure it. If this treatment was generally known it would save sufferers much expense and add many useful and valuable lives."

—Liberty is the only name or less civilized country where a man is almost entirely dispersed with. The sun rises exactly at 6 a.m., and sets at 6 p.m., throughout the year, and it is perfectly overhead at noon.
