The vagaries of Governor Waite in th west, of J. S. Coxey in the east and of Governor Tillman in the south will d rity of the foundation on which the Pop-

There is neither reason nor method in Waite. When he found himself antagonized in Denver here. method in Waite. When he found himself antagonized in Denver by a police which he wanted to dissolve, instead of resting his case on the judgement of the state courts, as he was morally and legally bound to do, he proceeded in his bull-headed fashion, to call out the militia and browbeat into submission the men who, as a safeguard against just such a perform-and so is old Uncle John. ance as this, had already gone into the courts on their own account and obtained wisiting at McDonald.

The result is that Denver is now in a state of literal anarchy and that the people who committed the follection. Western was a superficient where the control of th ed to be browbeaten, mustered the archy and that the people who committed the folly of electing Waite governor on a lare injured we could not learn.

by different means. Having conceived the idea that the lawmakers elected by the people are a set of traitors and tricksters, Coxey has hit upon the brilliant idea of collecting an "Army or Peace," made up of the unemployed workman of the contry, conducting this body of men to Washington, massing a mob of 500,000 around the capital and demanding the issue of $500,000,000 in fat money, to be paid in $500,000,000 in fiat money, to be paid in wages to the suffering toilers of the United States. He will also require the secretary of the treasury to lend money to any mu-nicipality that chooses to ask for it. This, of course, is merely the Jack Cade crusade the "Army of Peace" will be a much larger and more disorderly mob than Cade's bat- House of Lords. n of "reformers." Singularly enough it is being widely indorsed by Populists in Pennsylvania and Ohio, and many of these enthusiasts profess to think that it is a leg-itimate and sensible means of impressing upon congress the necessity of enacting gerated "reform" tendencies of Coxy. Judgeshi Being opposed to the liquor traffic, he obtained, through his personal influence with the legislature, the passage of a bill making the state the sole dealer in liquors. Every distiller, brewer, wholesaler and retailer was driven out of the business, and a system of state dispensaries, with official supervisors and bartenders was established. To prevent violations of the law, a force of spies was created, and to these the governor gave authority to break into the house of any man who might be taxed, rightly or wrongly, with selling liquor on his own account. Tillman himself has aided in making raids and has made the coarse declaration that he would not hesitate to shed blood in order to compel obedience to the law providing that the state shall have a monopoly of the liquor business.

The kinship among these three men nanifest. Each of them, as a good Populist, professes to be virtually an inspired conservator and vindicator of popular rights, and vet each distinguished hi by doing flagrant violence to those rights. Waite undertakes to reorganize a police board with shot and shell: Coxy undertakes to direct legislation by bringing to Washington a sufficiently large number of tramps and outlaws to intimidate congress, question his alchohol-ta nted supremacy. Such are some of the first fruits of Popu list success, and they demonstrate not that a Populist must, of necessity be a disturber of the peace of society, but that a party or a movement that sets up as a refuge for the outcasts from all other parties or move ments and that insists on seeing nothing but evil in a government that is the
