they are artistic and handsome,—the second is that they are perfectly suited to their work.

But you must go and see them to approciate the whole thing properly

There are some who do not understand the relation of Mr W. V. Hardman to the firm. He is in no way connected with the work of the artist in the company, but is only interested financially, and in its guidance and policy from a business stand point. Of course as senior member of the firm, his name is a guarantee of its work especially to the thousands he has have ousiness dealings within the past 23 years as manager for Thos. W. Phillips, and in his own large oil business, in both of while he continues to occupy the same position he has in the past.

Mr Hardman wishes to emphasized the fact, that he personally guarantees the work of the firm, and his name stands behind the as a guarantee of its reliability. Known, as

A queer law-suit has just been tried in Honesdate, this state. The employers of a glass comp. ny offered to their employees who got married a house rent free for six months and $10 for the first child born. Arther Richardson, an apprentice was urged by the superintendent to marry and take one of the houses. He did so and for the first heir was born claimed the $10 to bounty. The company denied his claim, and not only refused to pay but demanded he rent. The case in court hinged on whether Richardson married for love or to secure the bonus, and as he declared that love was the inducement the court ruled that this was fatal to his case.

Just now there is a heavy run of timber and sawed lumber rafts on the Allegheny from its upper tributaries. The Forest county papers report that the largest raft ever run out from Tionesta Creek was piloted down one day last week by Stephen Cooper. It contained 70,000 feet of lumber; was top-loaded with several thousand feet of boat siding, and was 24 feet wide and 23 courses deep. The lumber business of Forest country has dwindled wide and 23 courses deep. The lumber business of Forest county has dwindler into very small proportions, compared with that of former years. The timber is becoming scarce, and in a few years raft-ing will become a thing of the past.
