Pres. Swain, in an eloquent address, tendered the monument to the people of Butler county. Among other good things he said:—

Butler county. Among other good things be said:—

"As we celebrate the birthday of our beloved bountry we also love to relate the unselfish devotion of those who fought and died to uphold the Union and sustain the liberty so dearly bought by the heroism of our forefathers. Soon after the war closed the thought of erecting a monument to the memory of those who gave their lives in defense of home and of country was entertained by some of the patriotic citizens of Butler county, but owing to a want of organized effort the project failed to succeed. At different times since other efforts were made to enlist the interest of the public in this praiseworthy enterprise but each was doomed to failure. Col. Sullivan, that noble patriot who never tires when the interest of the soldier come up for consideration, called a meeting of soldiers and citizens to meet. Sept. 15th, 1892, at Butler to make one more determined effort in behalf of the long-negleted monument. At this meeting the present board of directors was appointed. In order to give this board the proper authority an application was made and the court granted a charter incorporating the board as the 'Butler County Monument Association." The board felt the necessity of combined action and vigorous work.

At a meeting held in December, 1893, collections had so far advanced that it was deemed safe to advertise for bids and the

MR. A. J. McCANDLESS:

On the 2nd day of April, 1892, I com menced to use your new cure for one of my horses that had the heaves very bad, and continued to use the medicine for about forty days and the horse did not show any signs of a return of them. It is now about a year since I quit givin the medicine and the horse has never sowed any signs of heaves, and I feel stisfied that he is properly cured.

store as neatly and finely furnished and fitted.

As we enter, mirrors everywhere. A beauty to the right, its counterpart to the left, to the front another just as large and just as finely bordered with polished mahogany; with just the same ornament of stained glass and electric lights playing through its different colors. On all sides counters, cases, drawers and cabinets of solid mahogany furnished in the most elegant manner and with fine carvings profus-ly present. On the right is the sodawater fountain—the largest and finest in the town. It stands on a base of Mexican onyx and above rises a large plate glass mirror with wood work finished in white and gold. There are two draught tubes for soda water, and one each for Vichy, Congress, Ginger Ale, and Star Spring.
There are eighteen syrup draughts. A handsome little bar of marble with the usual fountain stands in front of the Fountain, which is certainly a thing of beauty tain, which is certainly a thing of beauty and a joy forever.

Running back from the fountain is a counter with cases above, filled with druggists supplies. The glass is heavy beveled plate and the wood is all mahogany. Back of this is found cabinets or shelves with bottles of the different colored liquids and liquors we find to indispensible when sick or indisposed. That tired feeling should quickly vanish before this array. Below in well fitted and finished drawers with oxidized silver handles are kept the roots, herbs, etc., etc. SURPLUS AND PROFITS. The store is owned by M. Jos. L. Wuller and is managed by Dr. J. F. McClaran. Mr. McClaran came to Butler from Pittsburg last Fall and has been in the business 14 years. He holds a certificate from the State Board and is a reliable mao. Mr. Jos. L. Wuller is well known as a member of a family of druggists.

While averse to much publicity, Mr. Wuller gave us a few interesting facts about his store. The wood work was finished in Boston by C. H. Bangs and was placed in position by special men senthere by the firm. The Fountain was made by the firm of J. W. Tufts & Co. Altogether the cost of fitting up has been between $5,000 and $10,000.

The Parlor Pharmacy, as it has been named, will be open day and night and will make a speciality of toilet accessories and perfumes, though in all drug requisites it will be found among the van.
