A Silver Dollor Story

From the New York advertiser A good story illustrating one phrase the silver question was told by Lawyer Solomon Lincoln at the Boston Merchant's Club, of which Le is a member. "People living on the border between Mexico and the United States ought to be pretty well satisfied with the present conlition of affairs," said he, "with things as they are in the vicinity of El Paso, Tex. "El Paso is located on the Rio Grande. If you cross the river you are in Mexico. In El Paso an American silver dollar is worth 100 cents, but if you go over int Mexico it is only worth 85 zents.

A Mexican silver dollar, on the other cent in El Paso. So that there is retaliation, you see. When a citizen of El Paso is thirsty he teps into a bar room in his town and orders a lemonade or something stronge and planks down an American silver dollar on the counter. The drink is placed on the counter After the customer has quenched h hirst he picks up his change.

he drink was fifteen cents, but the change onsists of a Mexican silver dollar, worth out eighty-five cents. Later in the day the citizen of El Paso osses the river and pays a visit to the fezican town on business or pleasure. He becomes thirsty again. Entering a Mexican bar room he p to the counter and says!

"Whisky!" The drink is placed on the bar, and after raining the glass the El Paso man settles. This time he pays for his crink with a Mexican silver dollar.

The Mexican bartender smiles deprecat ingly as he gives the customer his change -an American silver dollar, worth, ourse, but 85 cents. Then the American crosses over to El Paso again. He can go home and spend the night with his family or he can buy nother drink in his town and get another Mexican silver dollar. He con go back and forth all day, you ee, get all he wants to drick and still have a silver dollar in his pocket. It mey be an American or it may be a Mexican silver dollar, it makes no differ Is it any wonder that the people of El aso are satisfied with the present statu the silver question! —The motto of the proprietors of Dr. Henry Baxter's Mandrake Bitters is, "the greatest good to the greatest number," and so sell a large bottle of a valuable remedy for the small price of 25cts, and warrant every bottle to give satisfact ion or money refunded.

"You know her name, dont you?" He sat down by the clerk. "Let me tell you all about that " h said becoming quite confidential. "You see, I asked Sairey Blinker last night, and she said 'yes,, and as I was coming to town for the papers I met the pretty Smith girl, and she got to huntin' around This does not consist of eighty-five and I popped the question to her, and she american cents. Oh, no! The price of took me up quick as a flash. Now that's the kind of a fix I'm in, and there's only one way to get out of it. You are a sort of a legal officer, ain't you?"

"Yes sort of a one," admitted clerk. "Well you'll do. Here's the dollar to pay for the license; heads it's Sairey tails it's the Smith girl."

The clerk objected but as there seems to be no other mode of settlement, he nally tossed the dollar and it dropped the floor, and after teetering awhile on edges, flattened out on the young man' eet heads down. He stooped down t see the result.

"Make it Evangeline G. Smith," he said a complacent tone.
