

Governor—DANIEL H. HASTINGS

Republican County Ticket

Congress—THOMAS W. PHILLIPS

OUR CANDIDATES

The CITIZEN presents its readers with an excellent portrait of our candidates for Congress-at-Large.

GEORGE FRANKLIN HUFF.

George Franklin Huff was born in Norton, Montgomery County, Pa., July 18, 1842, and is a son of George and Caroline (Boyer) Huff.

His political career began in 1880, when he came into national prominence in the Republican Convention at Chicago as one of the "Old Guard" or "Immortal 300" in support of General Grant for the Presidential nomination.

At the Republican State Convention held at Saratoga, N. Y., Tuesday, Levi P. Morton was nominated for Governor, and a platform was adopted, denouncing the assaults upon the industries of the country by the present Democratic Congress.

The Ohio Democratic State Convention at Columbus, Wednesday, endorsed Senator Brice, and adopted a silver plank.

The Republicans of Nevada have asked U. S. Senator, John P. Jones, to resign. They say decency requires it.

In the sugar planters' convention at New Orleans, Monday, there were present not only the leading planters in Louisiana but some of the most representative of New Orleans.

The candidates for the ministry, W. S. Keener and John A. Rogers, were received by Presbytery. Licentiate S. M. Goebeling returned the call of Mt. Nebo Church for one-half his time which he had held since April.

At the defeat of Col. Breckenridge in Kentucky. Every debacle in the land would have hailed his success as an endorsement of the life he is living.

The Louisiana "Courier-Journal," accepting the defeat of Col. Breckenridge as never such a political contest fought out to the bitter end anywhere in the world, but rejoices that it culminated without a tragedy, and "happily nothing happened which the waters of oblivion may not wash."

The meeting of the Lincoln League Monday evening, was well attended. Remarks were made by J. H. Negley, N. Black, J. C. Scott and P. W. Lowry.

Our schools are progressing finely. A Sabbath school picnic was held at Greese City, Tuesday.

A Reversible Statesman.

They continue to have a good deal of time at some amusement with Congressman Jos Sibley out in the Twenty-sixth district.

This reversible statesman, who doesn't belong to any political party, has once or twice telegraphed his declaration of a renunciation for Congress, but the Democrats of the district, who are generally out of favor, are not prepared to let him get away.

Mr. Sibley's campaign two years ago was such an agreeable relief to empty Democratic pockets that it has been deemed necessary that there should be a repetition of the same.

The States were called in alphabetical order. Alabama was called the first and half a vote for each candidate.

An Indiana delegate at once moved to make Colonel Lawler's election unanimous and each showed an enthusiastic interest in a stow whether to run around the hills or cut through them, thus saving a bad cur and long haulage.

This is the time for the best endeavors of patriotism. It should grasp the great opportunity now presented the Republican party will enter upon a new life not a grander career in the redemption of the land from material and industrial paralysis.

Gen. Hastings opened the Campaign, Monday with a speech at Emporium, the county seat of Cameron, Co. He said the news from Kentucky came with joy to every decent man and woman in the land, and he discussed the Wilson bill at length.

Echoes of the Encampment.

At the session of Thursday Morning, Thomas G. Lawler of Illinois was elected Commander in Chief.

The candidates were General Ivan W. Walker, of Indiana, and Col. Thomas G. Lawler, of Illinois. As they had been nominated the previous day there were no preliminaries, and the secretaries at once began to call the roll by States.

Both candidates went into the election with entire confidence. Both had made a thorough canvass on the previous night and each figured that he would have from 40 to 80 votes the best of it, and were not backward in declaring so.

The States were called in alphabetical order. Alabama was called the first and half a vote for each candidate.

An Indiana delegate at once moved to make Colonel Lawler's election unanimous and each showed an enthusiastic interest in a stow whether to run around the hills or cut through them, thus saving a bad cur and long haulage.

Have Reached the Summit.

The surveyors and levelers for the new railroad are making good progress and at this writing have passed over the divide summit and proceeded about midway between Karns City and Millersport on their way to Onida, and that far have one of the best surveys that has ever been made over this famous property.

At Pine Run, where the surveyors had reached in our last issue, the route is along the left of Sugar creek which follows the "Million City" is reached, where it crosses the road and cuts Phillip Hillwig's barn in the middle, follows the right side until almost opposite the old mill bridge where it returns to the left and from there continues up to the blacksmith shop of Taylor, when it passes along the side hill to the right till the Bersan church is reached. Here the road is crossed and the bed of the run followed for a considerable distance, when a return to the right is made at the residence of J. B. Egan, or what is better known as the "ghost," where it follows the ravine to the right and about a mile and a half further up enters the "summit" with a tunnel on the McCullough farm.

This tunnel will be 1,000 feet long with a 300 foot approach on this side and about 200 on the opposite. Making it 1,500 feet in length. Opposite this hill rise two others that were hard to get about, and here, after a vigorous tramp through the woods and brush, a large stream of water in a stow whether to run around the hills or cut through them, thus saving a bad cur and long haulage.

This is the time for the best endeavors of patriotism. It should grasp the great opportunity now presented the Republican party will enter upon a new life not a grander career in the redemption of the land from material and industrial paralysis.

It is a satisfaction to know that

Madeline Pollard will not be permitted to go on the stage. The managers who were talking of bringing her out have found it impossible to secure dates for her. The public taste may be low, but it has not reached the point that will accord honors to a woman whose only claim is based on her folly and shame, coupled with the immense sum in public life who ought to be behind prison bars. It is a satisfaction to find that the public taste is not as depraved as it is sometimes made to seem.

DEATHS

ST. CLAIR—At his home in Worth twp., Sept. 18, 1894, W. St. Clair, aged about 60 years.

BLACK—At his home in Greese City, Sept. 18, 1894, William Black, aged about 40 years.

SUTTON—Sept. 9, 1893, son of Plummer Sutton, aged 3 years.

SANDERSON—Sept. 18, 1894, at his home in Brinn, Adams township, aged about 42 years.

COOKWAY—At his home in W. Sanbury, Sept. 18, 1894, High P. Cookway, in his 80th year.

DODDS—At her home in Kane City, Sept. 18, 1894, Mrs. D. Dodds, formerly of Butler Co., aged 72 years.

DELOURY—At his home at Great Belt, Sept. 18, 1894, Thomas Deloury, in his 75th year.

DOWNEY—At her home in Clearfield twp., Sept. 16, 1894, Mrs. Downey, widow of James Downey, aged 83 years.

DICKEY—At his home, Sept. 16, 1894, John D. Dickey, aged 68 years.

His disease was typhoid fever, aggravated by some disease of the stomache. It was hoped that he might safely pass the crisis of the fever, but he grew weaker and worse until he sank into death on Sunday afternoon. He leaves a wife, a son and a daughter to cheer his bereaved ones.

He had long been a member of the Reformed Presbyterian Church and lived a consistent Christian life. He was buried in the Reformed Presbyterian church lot, near Brownsville, on Tuesday. The services were conducted by Calvin Wise, pastor of the church. The services were very impressive to the large assemblage present.

GALBREATH—At her home in Adams twp., Saturday, Sept. 15th, Mrs. Sarah Wylie, wife of Rev. T. Galbreath, aged 71 years.

She came to Adams twp. at the time of her marriage to Rev. Galbreath in July, 1843. Father and mother (Galbreath) had lived together for nearly 90 years and she had endeavored to lead a large circle of friends in the same way. Her husband's death was a great loss to the family. The funeral services were attended by a large body of friends, and the remains were interred in the cemetery at Greese City and county as well as Butler.

Her burial was at the old Union cemetery and the services were conducted by Rev. A. K. Patric, assisted by Rev. Coleman, Gilliland, and Park. A stranger husband, two sons and three daughters survive, and all call her blessed.

James Campbell Stevenson, the well-known secretary and treasurer of the One Hundredth (Roundhead) regiment, is dying at his home in New Castle from straggle with the disease of Bright's disease.

He was a native of Pennsylvania and had lived in Butler for many years. He was a member of the One Hundredth (Roundhead) regiment, and was killed in the battle of Gettysburg. He was a brave and gallant soldier, and his death is a great loss to the community.
