Fall Announcement

OF # BOOTS and SHOES.

As the time of the year is fast drawing near when people are beginning to prepare for the cold waves of winter, I make an announcement to introduce to you our many new styles for fall and winter wear.

Having just returned from the large shoe center of Massachusetts, where I purchased a large fall stock, I am now prepared to show better styles, and sell goods lower than ever before. "Dry Weather," "Drouth," &c. has been the common topic for conversation during the long hot months of summer, but do not let that trouble you. If your corn and apple crop has been a failure that is no reason why you should not buy just as good footwear as before. The question now to decide is whether you will buy good substantial footwear for little money? That problem will be easily solved. Visit the ever popular shoe house of John Bickel and learn his low prices, and the shoe house you will do your trading with this year will be quickly selected.

Our stock of Men's boots is large. We have a full stock of the celebrated Jamestown Boot in plain toe and box and can sell you them 75c per pair cheaper than last year.

Boys' and Youth's boots of all kinds.

Our stock of Ladies' and Misses' every-day shoes is large.

We can give you the selection of a pair of calf shoes, pair calf shoes, pair satin oil shoes in button or lace at $1.00 per pair, and also large stock women's lace tip shoes, seamless, at reduced prices.

Space will not permit me to write about our line of fine shoes, but call and examine, for yourself, our stock of button, lace and oxford shoes ranging in price from 90c to $4.00.

Our stock of rubber goods this year is very large, comprising the many different styles in shoes and boots of the following Rubber Co.: Canine, Boston, Woonsocket, Americana and Bay State.

Call at our store when in need of boots and shoes, and secure a pair to suit you at reduced prices.

McCauley's Heave Cure

I have a Heave Cure that will cure any case of heave in horses in forty days, if used according to directions, and if it does not do what I claim for it, I will refund the amount paid and the charges will be made for the treatment. The following testimonials are the strongest proof of the medicinal power to cure.

A. J. McCauley, Butler, Pa., 1893.

Mr. A. J. McCauley: On the 2nd day of April, 1892, I commenced to use your new cure for one of my horses that had the heave very bad, and continued to use the medicine for about forty days and the horse did not show any signs of a return of them. It is now about a year since I quit giving the medicine and the horse has never showed any signs of heave, and I feel satisfied that he is properly cured.

W. C. Cliswell, Butler, Pa., April 3, 1893.

A. J. McCauley: I have used your Heave Cure and found it will do the work if used according to directions. Yours truly,
R. J. McMillan.

THE CITIZEN

The Location of Country Roads

The engineer retained by Morris county New Jersey, to advise in the formation of a plan to improve the county roads has come to the conclusion, after a preliminary survey, that what will be used in re-locating the roads and in reducing grades where relocations are not practicable. Had this not been the case the amount of money appropriated would have been sufficient to examine one hundred and fifty miles of roadway. At present the roads in the county are located in nearly every instance precisely where they should not be.

There are high hills in Morris county that make that section of New Jersey the most picturesque portion of the state, and one of the loveliest in the country. But in the whole country there are few instances where there is any necessity to take a main road over any of these hills, as there are valleys in almost every direction which to the road-builder's eye, seem to have been created for his assistance and convenience. Notwithstanding this, the most important roads at present frequently go directly over the summits of the hills, and in many instances the result is that the roads draw the loads the farmers send to market are obliged to drag wagons up a twelve and sixteen per cent. grade—that is, go uphill twelve or sixteen feet in a hundred feet of distance. Had these roads been located with intelligence in the first place, the grade need not in any instance have exceeded five per cent, and even then the first cost would not be greater than it was. In roadbuilding the law should certainly require the employment of a competent skill in the first place, for the errors of ignorance are nowhere more disagreeably and expensively perpetuated than in an improper location of a common country highway. A road once dedicated to public use is a fixture for all time.

When a railroad is to be located the best engineering talent is obtained, but with a country road any two or three farmers are generally thought to have skill enough to determine where it should go. As a matter of fact, it is more difficult and requires more skill to properly locate a country road than to fix the line for a railway. The road-builder has many more things to consider than the railway engineer. To make his road as nearly as an air line as he can with the means at his command. He can establish his grades with deep cuttings and high embankments, he can have long trestles, and can tunnel under the hills, reaching the natural surface only at places for stations. But the road-builder has a much more difficult problem. Cuttings and embankments, except for very short distances, are out of the question, and tunnels and trestles entirely inadmissible, for his road must be accessible through pretty nearly its entire length from both sides, for otherwise it could not be approached by those who wish to use it. He must, therefore, always keep very near the natural surface of the ground. And yet he should not have much greater latitude in his alignment than the engineer has, for in the grades he is also restricted, for the maximum should never be greater than five, and preferably only four per cent. Heavier grades are an impediment to traffic with teams, stone pavements cannot overcome, for only half loads can be hauled over them.

An engineer who will advise the spending of large sums of money in macadamizing a badly located road, with ten and twelve per cent. grades, will at the same time take the responsibility for wasting the money that is spent on these improvements, and will further assist in permanently fixing these errors of ignorance made by the roadbuilders of former generations. The people in the United States are becoming more and more intelligent in the importance of better roads, and here and there they are taking action in the matter. It is a good time for them and for all interested in the subject to consider very carefully the importance of properly locating the roads that are to be paved with stone. Country people are conservative, and are generally opposed to any radical changes. A man who has driven over a certain road for thirty years is very apt to be disinclined to see that road changed to the other side of a hill half a mile away. Upon the first presentation he is sure to object, but such changes will surely have to be made in the hilly parts of the older sections of the country. To reduce the grades on the road would cost money, but any save a rich community could afford to spend simply to pave the old roads would be to throw away half the money spent on the work. In roadmaking, as in other things, what is worth doing at all is worth being well done.—Harpers Weekly.

The Petrified Forests of Arizona.

In one of the meetings of the American Forestry Association held in Brooklyn lately Dr. Horace C. Hovey, of Newburyport, Massachusetts, showed by specimens and by views the petrified forests of Arizona. This great tract of agate wood, at least 2,000 acres in extent, is near the station of Corris and Adamanna on the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, in Arizona, and resembles an immense logging camp with huge trunks thrown about. The largest are ten feet in diameter, many of them severed as evenly as though cut up by a cross-cut saw, and the sections vary from disks like carwheels to logs thirty and more feet long. Many of the petrified logs have been broken into glittering fragments by action of the weather and by Indians and tourists, and by every footfall the traveler steps upon a mosaic of carnelian, agate, jasper, topaz, onyx and amethyst. A petrified trunk 150 feet long spans a canon, and is known as the Agate Log. The name Chalcedony Park has been given to the tract. Curiosity hunters, manufacturers and speculators are rapidly destroying its beauties, and recently a company proceeded to pulverize the chips and use the powder for use in the place of sugar. Car loads of the petrified wood are being shipped away for this use, and Dr. Hovey advocates the saving and protection of these dead forests as a public reservation by the government.

What Caused the Hard Times.

Judge Hubbard, of Iowa, says it is the existence of private corporations.

George Gould says it is the hostility to corporations.

The farmer says it is the low price of wheat.

The silver men say it is the action of Wall street.

Wall street says it is the action of the silver men.

The manufacturer says it is the fear of free trade.

The consumer says it is the tariff.

The debtor says it is the creditor.

The creditor says it is the debtor.

The Democrat says it is the Republican.

The Republican says it is the Democrat.

The Populist says it is both.

The Prohibitionist says it is whiskey.

The Freeholder says it is the devil.

Now what is your idea?

The merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla is proven by many wonderful cures it is accomplishing.

—That the country "weeily" for its goodly part of the foundation of journalism is shown by the fact that 22,000 newspapers in the United States 15,000 are issued from country towns. These country papers circulate each week about 50,000,000 copies. More than 40,000 persons are dependent directly upon them for support, and the office equipment is worth about $40,000,000.

—The couple who were married in the Ferris Wheel last summer when it was at its highest altitude have got down to everyday life on earth and now want a divorce for price list.

—The motto of the proprietors of Dr. Henry Baxter's Mandrake Bitters is, "the greatest good to the greatest number," and so sell a large bottle of Bitters for the small price of 25c, and warrant every bottle to give satisfaction or money refunded.

—Dear and quiet are very plentiful in Texas. Old settlers say that both are thicker than for 15 years past.

—Rather than suffer for bread Samuel Dakelsted stole pie, and Samuel has wrapped the drapery of his indignation about him and gone to the workhouse.

—Frosts and drought have cut short the cranberry crop for this year. The owners of the Massachusetts cranberry bogs are holding their cranberries at $8 per barrel on board the cars.

—The London Post office requires men to have every unsound tooth in their heads pulled out before they are eligible for employment as postmen. The other day an unfortunate girl clerk was condemned to have fourteen teeth extracted before she was eligible for promotion.

—For a mild cathartic and efficient tonic, use Fowler's Mandrake Bitters. Every bottle warranted.

—Mathematical experts have about figured out that it will cost the average family from $5 to $6.50 more per year for gas than the large gas works of the United States and the Administration. The exact figures will be worked out and put at the members of Congress who voted for the gigantic sell-out and swindle on the consumer. The whole out of political jobs and bookkeepers will be stuck of the name of gas before they're done with it.

—Egotism may be tough to others but is tender of itself.

—Some men are so fond of sympathy as to like affliction.

—A child loses a nose and a fool, a crowd.

—Kings are children that use skulls for rattles.

—Present venations often bring future laughter.

—A rash enemy is more useful than a timid friend.

—Lively stable keepers should always keep Arnie & Oil Lintment in the stable nothing like it for horses.

—Now that the income tax is in good working order get out your little old income and prepare to have it inspected.

—Although the Equinox are dependent upon the earth for their heat and light, some strange folk how to mystify. This seems strange at first, but the system is less when it is known that the temperature of the water in the region where they live is never above the freezing point.

—He went fishing and when he came back a friend met him.

"Did you catch anything?" he asked just as anybody would have done.

"No," in a tone of scorn.

"Well," exclaimed the friend, "you are truthful, anyhow, which all fishermen are not."

"As to that," responded the fisherman, "the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. Sold by J. C. Garfield, druggist, Butler.
