—AL. RUFF—

A Strictly * Dress Shoe,

Made on the razor last, with fine cloth top, no outside stays, wide flat lace, all eyelets, and is pronounced by all the handsomest shoe of the season. We have the same shoe made with a kangaroo top. This is but one of the many styles we are showing in.

Gentlemen's Fine Footwear.

There is no article which enters into ladies' or gentlemens' dress that should be selected with so great care as a shoe. No other part of one's dress is noticed so quickly, and so universally admired or condemned, as the case may be.

A shoe to be thoroughly satisfactory must, first of all, fit well, and secondly, must wear well and keep its shape; these points are the most prominent ones in Ruff's Fine Shoes. Ruff's shoes are made by firms whose lasts and patterns are as near perfect as skill and experience can make them, and all the materials used are selected with such great care and the workmanship inspected so closely that the wear of Kuff's shoes is assured. Ladies and gentleman, it will be to our mutual advantage if you will favor us to the extent of inspecting our goods.

THE CITIZEN.

Our Mysterious Slang.

A young Englishman, on his first visit to this county, relates to the Buffalo "Commercial" the following as specimens of American slang that he overheard in a Pullman car in Chicago. The colored porter said to the conductor: "You better go and talk with that lady in lower 10; I can't do nothin' with her; she's too flip." "Oh go on and be patient with her," replied the conductor. Presently the porter returned with: "She's too much for me, conductor; she's gettin' flipper." "As the porter stood waiting near me," said the Englishman, "I asked what he meant by the lady was flip, or flipper. "'Why, I mean she's to fresh,' answered the porter.

"'To fresh?' I queried.

"'Yes; that is, she's to soon,' he explained.

"'Flip, fresh, soon—I don't understand you yet,' I told him with a laugh.

"'Oh, can't you talk English?' exclaimed the porter; 'well, I mean she's too fly.'"

—Fred Roth, who owns a brewery at Chewton, 11 miles south of New Castle, and who was refused a license by Judge Wallace at the March term of court, has taken a peculiar method of evading the law. His brewery is running night and day, and he sells his product in Lawrence county. Roth went to Lowellville, O., where he took out a wholesale license. He then resumed operations at his brewery and ships the entire product to Lowellville. In Chewton he has an agent who takes orders for the beer. It is shipped from the wholesale warehouse at Lowellville, and delivered at Chewton, and thus no law is violated.
