First a page in congress, then a rai oad man, then an official in the Knights of Labor, then a student of law, actor, road man, then an official in the knights of Labor, then a student of law, actor, journalist, lecturer and playwright. This in briel covers the workaday history of Angustus Thomas, author of "The Burglar"—one of the most successful American plays, financially, of the time and an artistic triumph of the first magnitude. When Fritz Emmet was playing to the children of North St Louis "Gus" a lighthaired tot was his warmest admirer, and in playing second to Joe he got his first ideas of acting. At eleven he was a page in congress and a pet of General Ben Butler. Half a dozen years later he worked at railroading in St. Louis, and at nine-ten was master workman of Assembly No. 9, Missouri. His reputation as the youngest master workman in America gave him much fame. He joined the Dickson Sketch club in St. Louis, wrote the piay "Editha's Burglar." played the burglar through the country, and then burglar through the country, and then brought out "Alone," "Combustion," "After Thoughts," "A Leaf from the Woods," and "A Man of the World," He Woods," and "A Man of the World," He studied law, went into newspaper work, became a successfulreporter, "corresponded" the Blaine illness at Muzkogee, I. T., from a cow porty's back, and delivered humorous and serious charcoal lectures through the south and west. Two years ago, he settled in New York, and has since written plays for Manager A. M. Palmer, Monday September 30 at Park Theatre. Early in the season the patrons of the Park Theatre will have the pleasure of seeing at that house Charles B.
