Roentgen or X Ray Photography.

The discovery of X ray photography by Roentgen will serve not only to im mortalize the physicist who so fully de-veloped it before giving it to the public, but it will render the year 1896 distinveloped it before giving it to the public, but it will render the year 1896 distinguished as the "Roentgen photography" year, as 1894-95 are distinguished as the "argon and helium" years, It seemed as if the limits of human discovery were being reached, but the wonder of the new photography only emphasizes the possibility of other victories to be won in the world of science. It was by aid of a fluorescent medium that the course of the rays was traced and the proof of their penetration of solid opaque organic screens was reached, Roentgen's first experiment consisted in placing near Crookes tube a which was enveloped in black paper or pasteboard, a screen whose surface was charged with a fluorescent substance, On exciting the Crookes tube, the surface of the experimental screen became luminous. A book of a thousand pages was placed between the tube and the screen, but the luminosity persisted. Wood and aluminum were also tried with like result, and it was found that if the hand were interposed the image or shadow of its osseous skeleton was obtained on the fluorescing and luminous surface. To try the effect of the newly discovered rays upon a photographic plate was but natural. It was tried, a photograph through an opaque screen resulted and the discovery was complete. This account disposes of the story of the discovery having been made accidentally.

There is now opened a limitless field for experiments, possibly special plates, story of the discovery having been made accidentally.

There is now opened a limitless field for experiments, possibly special plates, prepared with fluorescent or other compounds in the emulsion, may be used, and the extension of the scope will interest the professional world from surgeon and physician to metallurgist and engineer. Every day brings accounts of new experiments, it being proposed even to take a photograph of a man upon a plate large enough to receive the shadow. It is said that a negative plate six feet high is being prepared with that object.

The non-refractability of the rays make it impossible to produce a reduced image; every object photographed as it is done by radiant energy directly must be done by its shadow, and the shadow must be practically of the same size as the object or a little larger. Again, as no light is used in taking the photograph, there is no way at present of determining the proper exposure, the photometry of Roentgen rays being as yet unaccomplished.

Etymologically there is a chance for Etymologically there is a chance for a new name—a photograph taken without light being an etymological absurdity. From the point of view of pure science, it is impossible to predict what the result will be. We have a radiant force or energy which penetrates matter with varying degree of facility, yet which apparently cannot be refracted. We have something which may greatly modify our views of the action of the luminiferous ether, and which may help us eventually to a tangible theory of the great cosmic mystery—gravitatiom. great cosmic mystery—gravitatiom. Texas will this month celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of its admission into the Union as a State. The celebration will take place in the new and enterprising city of Dallas. The area of Texas, with its 262,290 square miles, is greater than the combined area of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia, Delaware and all the States of New England. Washington Notes.

On Thursday, the Senate by a vote of 20 to 21, refused to take up the tariff bill, the majority vote being made up of Democrats, Populists and four free silver Republicans, Carter and Mantle, of Montana; Dubois, of Idaho, and Teller, of Colorado. The spectacle of Mr. Carter, chairman of the Republican National committee, thus voting with Democrats and Populists against a measure embodying his party's cerdinal principle, show upon what small-sized men its honors and confidence have been of late beauty and the communities of the Senate was doing this the House was taking a more patriotic course. The Senate free silver substitute was under final discussion in committee of whole, and on every occasion that was under final discussion in committee of whole, and on every occasion to concur in the Senate was defeated by 118 to 45. of the whole refused to concur, and it was so reported to the House.

By the decisive vote of 215 to 90 the House on Friday killed the Senate free silver substitute for the bond bill. It was a regular waterloo for free silver. The Republican party has ample reason for pride, and the whole country for gratitude at the sight of 184 Republicans voting against the free silver heresy, and only 25 for it. The free silver Republicans, who have been claiming from 40 to 45 votes for the Senate substitute, were dazed at the result.

The total vote for and against the substitute was as follows; For, 58 Democrats, stitute was as follows; For, 58 Democrats, and the station at Hillsdale, N. J. January 2.

The total vote for and against the substitute was as follows; For, 58 Democrats, 25 Republicans, 6 Populists and I silverite, Newlads, of Nevada. Against, 184 Republicans and 31 Democrats. The substitute did not receive a single vote east of the Ohio. Two of the Ohio delegation, McClure, Republican, and Lagton, Democrat, were its lonely supporters. Indiana voted solid against it. In Illinois it received the vote of one Republican and one Democrat. The remaining 23 Republican votes cast for the substitute were from the West and South, but it is gratifying to observe that nearly half of the Southern Republicans, and most of the Southern Republicans and more the Southern Republicans and more the Southern Republicans and the substitute with said to be a purely love affair.

Every Pennsylvania Congressman present voted against the substitute.

The debate was closed by Congressman Dalzell, of Pittsburg, who made a very strong speech, The House, though wearied with a long debate, accorded him marked attention, and he was heartily applauded. F L Forrester. The steady growth of this business until now—it is a gigantic one—away up in the millions—is of itself a good endorsement. Your good judgment and decision is a still better and more valuable one. A great army of women have given this store and its business methods their endorsement, and we feel sure you would, too, if you'd only investigate. May we not help you to investigate by submitting a line of samples?

Take the matter of Kid Gloves for instance. Here's a line of Twoclasp WALTON Pique at $1 a pair—imported them ourselves, and we think there's nothing like them for the money in the country—tan, pomard, red, brown, pearl and white.

New line of White Kid Gloves with four pearl buttons, and four rows wide black or white embroidery on back 75 cents.
