THE CITIZEN.
An Overworked Snake.

Mark Twain has just concluded a lecture tour in New Zealand. He said good-bye to the New Zealanders at Christ Church, and in the course of his speech, says the "Westminster Gazette," made reference to prohibition, which he approved, but which would put them into most difficult straits. He then told the following story:

In our country several years ago there was a man who came into a prohibited town, and, unlike you savages here, he said to him: "You can't get a drink anywhere here except at the apothecary's." So he went to the apothecary, who said: "I have a prescription for you, but it is a prescription from the physician," but the man said: "I am perishing, I haven't time to get a prescription." The apothecary replied: "Will I haven't power to give you a drink except for snake bite?" The man said: "Where's the snake?" So the apothecary gave him the snake's address, and he went off. Soon after, however, he came back and said: "For goodness sake give me a drink. That snake is engaged for six months ahead."

The Sandstorm in New Jersey.

The face of the great sand plains of south Jersey has been considerably changed by the recent high winds, which caught up the sand and piled it against the buildings, fences and other obstructions. Cuttings and ditches have been filled in, great piles of sand were caught by bushes and heaped up in some places until the sand mound was over twenty feet high, and some of the roads are almost impassable, owing to the amount of sand which was blown on them. The Pennsylvania Railroad had men at work day and night during the storm to keep their tracks from being buried in sand. The sand sifted into houses and barns, covering everything with a gritty deposit. Travel in this part of the country is now very much interrupted. It has been found that the sand was almost impossible, for the sand was blinding and worked into clothing so as to irritate the skin, while hundreds of people are suffering from sore eyes as the result of their exposure to the great sandstorm.

Signs of Spring.

Now is the time of year that the man that has any yard at all begins to yearn for a chicken coop and a garden. He has seen the chickens and the garden in the papers, and he is tempted, therefore, to get one. He is much interested, therefore, in the best in the town and they have a coop in which the fowls can be kept all the year round without any trouble and they save their labor and hatch all right and you figure up and wonder why you didn't do it long ago and why other people don't do it. You think you will do so next year. And then you start a garden and you find that you have a lot of trouble and you are not satisfied with the result. You are not satisfied with the result. You are not satisfied with the result.

to many people, for it saved my life!

In speaking to Mrs. Adams, she said that about a year ago I, as in a very feeble state of health, had completely run down. I had doctored considerably, but without permanent relief. One day one of my neighbors advised me to take Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, which I did. My trouble was completely cured. A long while I was unable to get about at all, but after taking a few doses I was entirely cured, and now I am well and I never was so well as I am now. I have recommended

THE NAME OF THE NEXT President Of The United States

WILL BE ANNOUNCED IN THE New York Weekly Tribune OF NOVEMBER 4th, 1896.

Public interest will steadily increase, and the question how the men who voted turned the scale at the last election are satisfied with the results under the administration they elected, will make the campaign the most intensely exciting in the history of the country.

The New York Weekly Tribune, the leading Republican family newspaper of the United States, will publish all the political news of the day, interesting to every American citizen regardless of party affiliations.

Also general news from all quarters, foreign correspondence covering the news of the world, an agricultural department second to none in the country, market reports which are recognized authority, fascinating short stories, complete in each number, the cream of the humorous papers, foreign and domestic, with their best comic pictures, fashion plates and elaborate descriptions of women's attire, with a varied and attractive department of household interest. The "New York Weekly Tribune" is an ideal family paper, with a circulation larger than that of any other weekly publication in the country issued from the office of a daily. Large charges are being made in its details, tending to give it greater life and variety, and especially more interest to the woman and young people of the household.

A SPECIAL CATALOGUE enables us to offer this splendid journal and "THE CITIZEN" One Year For Only $1.50, CASH IN ADVANCE. SUBSCRIPTIONS MAY BEGIN AT ANY TIME. Write your name and address on a postal card, send it to Geo. W. Best, room Tribune Building, New York City, and a sample copy of The New York Weekly Tribune will be mailed to you.
