THE STATE CONVENTION

The Republican State convention met in the Harrisburg Opera House, last Thursday, in session for several hours, and the results are an admirable platform both on protection and reform.

Mr. Quay and his friends had arranged everything the day and night before. The convention met at 10 A. M. Mr. Boyer was temporary chairman, the committees were appointed, and the convention adjourned for dinner.

After dinner Messrs. Magre and Flinn made a fight for their delegates in the 8th legislative district of Allegheny Co., but were defeated as it was expected they would be; the report of the Committee in Permanent Organization named Auditor General Mylin for permanent Chairman, and he was elected and escorted to the chair, and Mr. Boyer made a speech in which he congratulated the delegates on their platform.

Mr. Schaffer took the platform on behalf of his resolutions and made a strong speech of ten minutes in which he reiterated the arguments presented in committee, but in greater detail. He argued his adoption of his platform in the eyes of the people of the State could express directly their choice for Senator.

Robinson meantime did not change his position. His face grew flushed and in the first part of the noise he again yelled with upraised hand, "I'm a Republican delegate in a Republican Convention."

There were more groans and the tumult began all over again. Finally there came scattering cries of "Give him a chance," "Fair play," "Give him a show." The demonstration for the first and only time riled the serene temper of the chairman and he emphatically exclaimed: "The chair cannot be hazarded. Order, order!"

At last Robinson was permitted to speak. He did not again attempt to renew his point of order, but moved the indefinite postponement of Mr. Pettit's motion on the table. Almost before the convention was aware of it Robinson was on the stage and had begun to speak on his motion to indefinitely postpone. It was to say the least a clear parliamentary move and was recognized as such by the Congressman Robinson began by asking the chair to protect him in his rights as a delegate, and not to be treated as if any man in the State, and he said it with modesty, in the past year had helped Quay to the presidency, which he now held it had been himself. No man there could question his fairness to-day.

He wanted the gentlemen who had not been able to speak to give him a hearing from the convention to go to St. Louis with the hearty support of the State as Pennsylvania's candidate for the presidency. "I am for his nomination for the Presidency," said Mr. Robinson. He they told him he had written the resolutions County resolutions endorsing Mr. Quay and had then passed. Behind it, all through, there was a feeling that Mr. McKinley, and after all honorable means had been exhausted to secure Mr. Quay's nomination, he did not want to vote for the vote of Pennsylvania taken away from the people's second choice.

He called attention to the fact that Senator Penrose had been interviewed some months ago had declared that he was for McKinley. Only a few days ago out in Crawford County Senator Andrews had been instructed to support McKinley as second choice, and he had said so to the press. He said that he had said so to the press. He said that he had said so to the press. He said that he had said so to the press.

Allegany, stated that the views expressed by Mr. Magre were endorsed by them. With these exceptions the platform as presented at Harrisburg was adopted concerning the improvement of the Delaware River had no opposition.

The resolution endorsing the selection of a United States Senator directly to the vote of the people was not in special character. Mr. Schaffer was its special champion. C. L. Magee objected to the resolution on the ground that it was an interference with the rights of the people in the various Senatorial districts and would be a permanent right of special organizations to attempt to interfere with the permanent rights of the people.

Mr. Schaffer took issue with Senator Penrose. He argued that it was important on the part of the State convention to suggest this which was for the convention to recommend to the Legislature to set up a vote was taken on a motion to indefinitely postpone. The vote was 22 to 21, as announced by the chair.

Mr. Magre immediately offered the same resolution modified to make it suggestive instead of mandatory. In advocacy of the adoption of the amended resolution, Mr. Magre said: "In an effort to this resolution for the purpose of the State convention to set up a vote was taken on a motion to indefinitely postpone. The vote was 22 to 21, as announced by the chair."

nia Republicans and the people of Pennsylvania. We reaffirm the declaration contained in the State platform of 1885, looking to general reforms in State and municipal government and the exercise of the elective franchise. We earnestly recommend to the consideration of the Legislature the several reform bills promulgated by the Republican State Committee, and request the Legislature to take prompt and favorable consideration and support.

As was expected Senator Quay ruled at the Republican State Convention held at Harrisburg last week. There was a general disposition to submit to his wishes as he was in the position of a candidate for President. But the members of the Convention, knowing the sentiment of the people of the State, had a right to make such a second choice, in case Quay should not be nominated. This second-in-fact first-choice of our people was so manifestly for McKinley that a resolution to that effect was offered in the Convention. Senator Quay and his friends presented their unanimous vote of the most Legislature on the subject, but the sixties five, under the circumstances, the wishes of the masses of the Republicans of Pennsylvania. There will be some Pennsylvania votes for McKinley as first choice, on first ballot, and we have no doubt all the delegates from this State will vote for him as soon as it is second choice.

The two delegates from this county to the State Convention carried out the instructions of our County Convention in voting for the McKinley resolution, and their action is approved and commended by the Republicans of Butler county.

Newton Black is the member of the State Committee for this county. The N. Y. Mail and Express summary of the Republican contest up to Saturday night was as follows: "At State and district conventions held for the week ending April 25, 34 delegates were elected to the State Convention, 18 for Quay, 7 for Reed and 21 are so far as known unpledged. The vote as it now stands on instructions or expressed preference is: McKinley, 34; Reed, 10; Morton, 59; Quay, 10; Allison, 35; Braden, 16; unpledged, 50 total, 707. It is seen that the Ohio vote is 292 to 292 of his opponents, a majority of 131 for McKinley."

Only 215 of the delegates to St. Louis remain to be chosen. If the maximum estimate of the membership of 222 is accepted, McKinley now only lacks 62 of his votes on the first ballot, and to get these he may draw from the 50 already elected but unpledged, as well as from the 215 yet to be chosen. "At the rate of progress so far maintained next week will see the McKinley vote on the first ballot, and leave him a comfortable margin to make up for the broken pledges and slighted instructions upon which the opposition has counted."

A review and recount of the vote of this county was made the other evening and a few mistakes were found in the figures, none of which change result. In Middlesex township, Jas. A. McManis, 178 votes instead of 78 as the tables show, and in one precinct where Geo. Graham is given no vote he had 44.

At the Democratic convention in Allegheny, this week, Steve Markham was named as one of the delegates to the Chicago convention; Pattison was named for President as the unanimous choice of the convention; Cleveland's administration was taken up, and sound money favored as follows: "We are in favor of a firm, unvarying maintenance of the gold standard. While we favor the most liberal use of silver, we are not in favor of the free coinage of silver and the complete purchase of silver bullion by the Government. We are in favor of McKinley yesterday, and the McKinley men are in the lead at Springfield to-day."

At the National Delegate district Convention, held at New Castle last week for the purpose of electing delegates to the next Republican Convention for President, and all this was done in the face of the fact that Butler County was this time entitled to one of the principal delegates. Four years ago Beaver and Lancaster counties voted for the Republican delegates, and this time they belonged to Butler and Mercer counties. Mercer got her right, but to accommodate Senator Quay, Butler was deprived of hers and Mr. Quay of Beaver sent. This although an outrage on Butler, we with others went on to the National convention at present. Now we see it announced that Senator Quay is not going to the National Convention as a delegate from this district, but will give his right to one of the Alternates, which means giving it to Beaver or Lawrence County. It is fair to say it should be given to Butler County.

Washington Notes. Congressman Phillips bill for a canon for the House of Representatives. The news of the death sentence passed on Hammond, an American citizen, as a member of the reform committee in the Transvaal caused quite a commotion in the House. Tuesday, Mr. Mahany (Rep., N. Y.) at once introduced a resolution on the matter, but several Democratic members objected to its passage on the plea that it was usurping the power of the secretary of state and the foreign affairs committee.
