On September 28, 1896, there appeared in the St Louis Post Dispatch a p-rtion of a sermon delivered on a previous Sabbath day, by the Rev. Herbert Casson, of Lynn, Mass., in which he denounces McKinley as a gagged, imprisoned individual, trembling in his mortgaged house lest Mark Hanna might foreclose on him and who has already met his Wellington and surrendered his convictions. Now this is only a portion of his harangue, and coming as it has from a man pretending to be a miniscer of the gospel who should stoop so low in his sermon to his congregation, when all should have been thinking of Heaven and divinot things to call up polities and try to villify a citizen and public man, whose character and record is above reproach and make statements that he knew were falso.

Had these remarks come from some political blow-out, it might have passed unnoticed, but when such men, laying claim to religion will stand up and make such statements, we feel it our duty to denounce them as malicious hars. We do so over our own signatures so that the Reverend gentleman, or any of his friends, seeking redress can be accomodated from the point of a pin to the mouth of a zamnon.

The writer of this article has taken the pains to go to the city where this villified man lives and has examined the records and does hereto append the certificate of the County Recorder; showing the statements of the Reverend gentleman made, to be false and without any foundation wharever.

Canton, Ohio, Oct. 12, 1896. One hears much discussion about the ers' office and the political neadquarters on the subject of the ballots. There is a growing sentiment in tayor of a adical change in the form of the ballot. Many of the most ardent advocates of the laker ballot law are now convinced that old-fashioned ballot, where the voter casts loss not want to vote for, and writing those he wants to vote for instead. They ticket could be used and all the good feat ares of the Australian system retained They would have the ballots all printed by the county, making it a severe penalty for counterfeiting. They would have them distributed from the room in which the yoting is done at the time the voter apeared to cast his ballot, and make it heavy penalty for carrying ballots out of the polling place. They would have the vote absolutely secret, with no numbers or other mark of identification on the ballots, Recorder, Stark County Ohio.

Tuesday last was the last day for filing and nomination papers in the Dauphin County Court, and a large batch of them were filed. That afternoon the Court filed an opinion on the counter objections of J. D. Hicks of Altoona and F. J. The streets of Canton were crowded ast Friday and Saturday, and McKinley vas called upon to address one crowd after another. On Saturday he made Kooser of Somerset, to certificates of nomination for congress in the Twentiet twenty speeches. We make the following extract from one of his speeches of Fri-district.

After reciting the history of the dead-lock, of the action of conference at Johns-town in passing a resolution requesting State Treasurer Haywood to participate The point I make is this, my fellow citizens, that we must get over the idea in this coutry that the government makes money. The government gets its money just as a citizen gets his money, bygiving something for it. The government raises ing into the United States, and the latter

State Treasurer Haywood to participate in the conference with four votes, the court declares both certificates invalid.

Regarding Kopser, the court says:
rule or custom of the Republican party which would justify us in holding that nomination in any view which could be taken of the facts in this case, could be made by a minority of the legal confer-ing into the United States, and the latter is the policy of the Republican party, We do not believe that the government should make money by setting its printing presses and its mints to work, but that the best thing it can do for its revenus is to put a tariff on foreign products of every kind that compete with American products and make that tariff high The court holds that the introduction of Mr. Haywood into the conference as a member with power to cast four votes was illegal and in violation of the rules and can products and make that tariff high enough, too, to protect the American producer. We simply want to observe the law of self preservation, to look after ourselves, look after our individual occupations and employments and after the American home, which your spokesman has so eloquently described. It lies at the foundation of society, of every community, of every state, and of the nation; and there comes up from the plain American customs of the Republican party in the ongressional district.

Judge McPherson says:
"We think this objection must prevail.
By the rules and usuages of the party when there is a candidate nominated at a county primary for any district office, he has the right to select the conferrees from that county and the number is fixed it three for each county. There is no rule or accepted custom which provides for the appointment of conferrees in any other way for increasing the number of conferrees either by a vote of the conference or otherwise."

ty, of every state, and of the hadron, and there comes up from the plain American home, the homes of the plain people of the country, a sentiment of good govern-ment and good patriotism such as can be found scarcely anywhere else in the world.

Not only, my fellow citiens, do we want a good tariff, but we want good money. We want that money to be worth 100 cents to the dollar and we do not want it to be worth a penny less than 100 cents.

We want it to be as honest as the covery. ence or otherwise."

In conclusion the court says: want a good tariff, but we want good money. We want that money to be worth 1000 cents to the dollar and we do not want it to be worth a penny less than 1000 cents. We want it to be worth a penny less than 1000 cents. We want it to be as honest as the government itself. We want it to be current everywhere in the world; we want it respected everywhere, just as our flag is respected everywhere. Then we propose in this country to maintain a government by law and a government under law. We propose to sustain public order and public tranquillity and stand by the federal judiciary—that tribunal which is our anchor of safety in every time of trouble. There never was an aim that the Republican party ever had that did not embrace the good of all the people. There never was a Republican purpose that did not seek the honor and integrity of the government of the United States. There is one thing our old party never did—it never struck a blow eycept for human freedom. It never made a law that did not embrace every American interest. It

This decision prevents both candidates from being certified on the official ballot except by nomination papers, which each have filed in the state department. THE RISE IN WHEAT.

It Removes One of the Chief Arguments of the Silverites.

The rise of thirteen cents a bushel in wheat during the last thirty days, while silver has remained steady or declined a raction, will be worth tens of thousands of votes to the Republican candidates.

Free coinage orators and writers have products was directly due to the fall in silver. "As silver went down," they said, 'your wheat went down, and silver went down because the mints were closed against it. Consequently, unless the mints goes up again, your wheat must continue Intelligent farmers saw the fallacy this, but many others were misled by it and were inclined to vote for the man who promised to make money plentiful and double the price of their wheat. The rise of the past month in the cereal, while the white metal has sagged, is a demonstra tion to these men that there is no nece nection between the two, and that the price of farm products, like that of all other products, is regulated by the laws of supply and demand.

"False in one thing, false in all," and silver men in this vital matter the farm will cease to believe in the other willthe-wisp theories so alluringly presented to them. It is immaterial in this conne tion whether wheat is to advance still further as a result of a world wide shortage in the yield or whether the rise has al ready been pushed too far by skillful spec. ulators. The fact remains that with the world's markets, and every farmer can see that the price of his products does not depend upon the price which the mine owners get for theirs.

Wheat has fallen of late years for pr allen-there was an enormous increase the production of both. Mr. Cuthber Mills has recently demonstrated that the decline in silver kept pace with the rapid xtension of railways, opening up theret thereby increasing the world's output tle to the supply of silver without the rail ways which carried in machinery and sup plies and carried out the ore. The fall in wheat was produced in precisely the sam ame into competition in the world's ma ers. Supply increased faster than demand

'silver question' in this. And now wheat has suddenly advanced Why? Anything connected with this si ver question? Not at all. It has gone ur because the supply has decreased. Before the new crop was made the reserves had run very low and the yield in many cou timates of our own harvest vary from 390. year we had 490,000,000. Exports from large as they were a year ago; Russia, i is said, will have 20 per cent. less tha last year to sell, and the crop in India is so short that wheat is now being bought in

This is such an unprecedented incider that the news of it was received with in credulity in the trade, but dispatches from the Pacific coast corroborated it. At an rate the demand for our wheat abroad ha been such that since July 1 we have e Whether on the existing facts wheat ha already been advanced too far or whethe it should go higher still is a matter we ar not discussing.
