THE CITIZEN.

MONEY is worth what it will buy, no more, no less. Money will buy more now than it would in 1874.

Every man who works for wages gets more money for his work now than he did in 1874, and can buy more with each dollar of it.

Is this a condition of things which any workman should wish to reverse? Is it the best thing for him to vote for a return to conditions which would give him smaller wages in money than would buy less—N. Y. World.

How potent governmental authority is to sustain fiat currency is shown in Havana, where the captain general recently undertook to support the paper money issued by Spain through the banks.

General Weyer ordered the Commercial Exchange and other business organizations of Havana to accept the paper money issued by Spain through the banks.

THOMAS JEFFERSON, 1784.

"The proportion between the value of gold and silver is a mercantile problem, and it is a world's loss."

Just principles will lead us to disregard legal proportion altogether; to acquire into the market price of gold in the several countries with which we shall probably be connected in commerce, and to take an average from them."

The Silver Crisis a Disease. Mr. Reed said nothing truer at Bridgeport yesterday than that "if there is anything in the silver question, it is because it is a disease of the whole world."

This has fallen, too, on a world laden with leases, mortgages, contracts and settlements made under another set of conditions, and as the agriculturists are the majority of the human race, they have uttered piercing cries and driven many "shills" crazy. The only remedy is to wait for time to set things right, as it always does, for the prices of things have to sell to adapt themselves to the prices of things we have to buy, as they always do in the long run.

The remedy of the embarrassed has been to call things by other names, and to pretend that we have no commodities against commodities, but sometimes against anything we choose to call money. But this operation would no sooner succeed than we should have to begin again.

There would be more leases and mortgages and contracts under the new name, and they would speedily accumulate, and we should be obliged to invent new names for other money in order to make them lighter. Every ten years would not be too often to change our currency and relieve the debtors class—N. Y. World.

Honest money is absolutely necessary in any country if it wishes to stand among the pioneers of civilization. A system of monetary exchange based upon an honest dollar of one hundred cents is just as demoralizing to the morals of a nation as a community would be where no man could believe the word of his neighbor.

The "new woman" favors economy, and she always buys "Battle Ax" for her sweetheart. She knows that a 5-cent piece of "Battle Ax" is nearly twice as large as a 10-cent piece of other high grade brands.

WHAT a contrast between being president and trying to be! Crowd follows the boy and the girl as they pass the President Cleveland goes to the theater and no one knows he is there.
