taken apart, all the nails are taken out and then the leather is soaked in water some time to soften it. From those pieces that can be used are cut the uppers for children's shoes, and parts of Standard Magazine. pieces that can be used are cut the up-pers for children's shoes, and parts of the soles are similarly used. The smallest pieces of leather are applied to be used in high Louis XV heels, which were so much in style a few years ago. Even the nails of the old shoes are used again. They are separated by a magnet, which attracts the steel nails, while the copper and brass nails are carried on farther. The price received for the old copper nails alone almost pays for the first cost of the old shoes. Clippings and cuttings of the leather are also used, be-ing turned into a paste from which artificial leather is made, and what is not good enough to serve for this purpose is sold with the sweepings to agricultur ists in the neighborhood, who use this paste with great success as a fertilizer.

-St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Counting Treasury Notes. One of the most singular and interes ing manufactories in this country is that where the United States treasury notes are made. The paper differs from any other, and it is kept under guard from the moment of its manufacture until the printed notes are issued from the treasury. These sheets of thin paper, both before and after printing, are counted and recounted by officials whose fingers, from years of practice, have become so deft that they fly over their work with the rapidity of lightning.

A visitor, watching a woman counting apparently endless heaps of notes, said, when the worker stopped to work of counting, continued for years, would bring on a disease of the brain." "It would," promptly replied the official, "if we thought of it. But while I counted those notes I was planning a holiday for my little boy. I repeat the numbers unconsciously, as a musician touches the keys of the piano. It is a habit. It was not always so," she said, laughing. "When I began the work, I was terrified by its importance. The officers, pacing up and down, robbed me of self control. I touched the sheets with shaking fingers. I was working for the government. I went over the pile again and again, and even then made mistakes. I never make a mistake now. I have the habit of counting. "- Hardships For an African Explorer. I have always something the matter with me which interferes with my efficiency. Now it will be a wretched ulcer near my knee joint to hinder my walking; at another time one near my right elbow to weaken my arm and give me unsteady aim in shooting. Then I am cured of these, and feel miserable and feverish; but snap shots of deafening quinine make me strong and cheerful and fit to bear the strain of a few days' wisit from malarial neuralgia, which seizes my head, makes tender every tooth, and stabs me unmercifully with acutest pain, till the head is aching with hammering throbs, and the eyes, through pain, are curtained by a mist. In due dyspeptic, or cannot wear my largest shirt because of a swollen spleen. I gradually reduce this, and then blisters on the feet and crysipelas in the ankles make walking the worst kind of agony. Illness to me in Africa is as the bubble in a spirit level—it moves and changes its position, but never ceases.—"Glave In the Heart of Africa' in Century.

Traveling Alone. Did you ever ride in a street car at night when you were the only passenger for many blocks? It is a peculiar experi-ence. I got on a Broadway car last night, or, rather early this morning, at Park place, and I had the car to myself as far as Astor place. I didn't have a paper with me, so I had nothing to keep me busy, and I didn't want to go to sleep. If there had been somebody in the car to look at, perhaps it would have been all right, but as it was I don't think I ever felt so lonesome in my life, and if I had been the solitary passenger much longer I would have one out on the platform and talked to ne conductor out of sheer desperation. If I were a railroad president, I don't think I would care for a private car if I

Utilizing Old Shoes.

Old shoes are not waste from the standpoint of modern industry. After they have done their service and are discarded by the first wearers a second-hand dealer restores the worn shoes to something like their former appearance, and they are sold again, to be worn a little longer by the poorer classes. When the shoes are finally discarded by them, they are still good for various purposes. In France such shoes are taken apart and submitted to long manipulations, which turn them into a paste, from which the material is transformed into an imitation leather, appearing very much like the finest morocco. Upon this material stylish designs are stamped, and wall papers, trunk coverings and similar articles are manufactured from it. Another French industry using old dilapidated shoes is the transforming of old into new footwear.

This is the principal occupation of the millitary convicts imprisoned in the fortress of Montpellier. There the shoes are taken apart, all the nails are taken out and then the leather is soaked in water
